MAYOR TO BAN OLD SALOON

MAYORAL FIGHT GROWS HOTTER IN NEW YORK

M'Kee Charges 1936 Boom for Mills.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

New York, Nov. 5.—[Special.]—National politics came closer to the surface today in New York's bedlamite mayoralty campaign. With Tammany apparently on the run for the first time since John Purroy Mitchel twisted the Tiger's tail in 1914 and was elected reform mayor, one absorbing question was which political groups will profit most by the overthrow of the Wigwam bosses.

Postmaster General James A. Farley goes on the air tomorrow night on behalf of Joseph V. McKee and his running mates on the ticket of the Recovery party. The Fusionists, backing Fiorello La Guardia, who is leading in all the straw votes, will follow with a reply over the radio.

Charges Tammany Revival.

Over the amplifiers along Broadway La Guardia orators have been drowning the traffic din with shrieks that if McKee, aided by Farley, wins, Tammany will merely swap an old set of bosses for a new set.

Over rival sound projectors the McKee speakers and the Tammany spouters have been concentrating upon La Guardia and the possible implications lurking in his indorsement by Ogden L. Mills, Hoover's secretary of the treasury and Hoover's mouthpiece at the Chicago Stadium convention.

La Guardia, once a Socialist, elected to congress as a Republican, lined up with the radical bloc and helped take some of the joy out of life for both Presidents Coolidge and Hoover.

See 1936 Mills Boom.

Among the Hooverites he was anathema. From the McKee camp came increased shouts today that the Mills indorsement has a definite connection with the alleged desires of some of the old Hoover group to land the Republican nomination for President for Mills in 1936.

For hours last night Tammany speakers filled Times Square with earsplitting denunciations of La Guardia and Mills, while the Recovery party, appealing to Republicans, hammered away upon the facility with which La Guardia has jumped from party to party and faction to faction. An eleventh hour avalanche of promises struck the town, and the opposing candidates now seem to have promised practically everything that might drag in the votes.

Demands Transit Unity.

La Guardia demanded immediate transit unification with municipal ownership and operation. McKee at his meetings denounced La Guardia as a radical who plays on racial and group prejudice.

"La Guardia," said McKee, "wearing a political coat of many colors, but predominantly red, has no fixed principles. He is a demagogue, with wild, vague, changeable theories which rouse the rabble." Col. William Haywood, former United States attorney, a Republican, assailed La Guardia as a "dangerous demagogue," while James J. Hoey, Recovery candidate for borough president of Manhattan, told audiences he doubted whether La Guardia would use the police against an uprising of "his communist comrades."

Hoey Acted for Smith.

Hoey was floor leader for Al Smith in the 1924 and 1928 conventions, and was indorsed yesterday by Smith, who has declined to come out for the Tammany candidate, Mayor John P. O'Brien. Dr. Henry Moskowitz, husband of the late Mrs. Belle Moskowitz, who was Mr. Smith's closest adviser, announced his support for La Guardia on the ground that national politics should be separate from local affairs. These random items give a sketchy idea of the crazy quilt nature of the campaign groupings.

Mayor O'Brien, Tammany's "personally honest but dumb" candidate, diverted himself with remarks that his acts have been twisted and distorted. Probably the cruelest thrust of the day, which was filled with 24 carat vilification and vituperation, came from Charles Solomon, Socialist nominee. Solomon expressed the judgment that O'Brien is "a good little wolf, but lacks capacity to lead."

La Guardia Seems Stronger.

Meanwhile, with the populace apparently stirred by a desire to "sock the bosses" as perhaps not since the days of the "Tweed ring," La Guardia, according to surveys, seemed to be thriving from the attacks upon his

U. S. VOIDS PACT WITH GREECE ON EXTRADITION

Washington Stirred by Insull Ruling.

BY DAVID DARRAH.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

[Copyright: 1933: By The Chicago Tribune.]

ATHENS, Greece, Nov. 5.—The United States government has taken swift action following the edict of the Greek Court of Appeals refusing to extradite Samuel Insull, former Chicago utilities magnate.

Lincoln MacVeagh, American minister, will call at the Greek foreign office tomorrow morning to deliver a note from Washington denouncing the treaty of extradition between Greece and the United States. The Greek foreign minister, D. Maximos, was out of town tonight. If he returns Mr. MacVeagh probably will deliver the note to him personally, otherwise to his first assistant.

(The text of the note, which was made public in Washington last night, is printed in another column.)

News Causes Commotion.

News that Washington would denounce the treaty as useless spread in Athens today. It caused a commotion.

Insull got wind of the American action as soon as he arose and immediately summoned his lawyer, Denis Lazarimos. Lazarimos assured him he was safe so far as Greece is concerned. He told Insull the government could not remove him in view of the court's decision without casting a slur on the Greek judiciary.

Insull apparently was soothed, but he remained in the lobby of his hotel all afternoon.

Washington's note reached the American legation early today. It was a fat telegraphic document. The note was decoded by the legation and might have been presented to the Greeks today except that Foreign Minister Maximos was attending the Balkan conference at Salonika.

Greece Has Way Out.

The Greek government has a way out of the embarrassing situation which the amazing decision of the Court of Appeals has forced on it, if it chooses to take it.

Under the Greek statutes, the minister of interior may deport any person who has become a public nuisance or a menace to friendly relations between Greece and another country. The statute reads: "If undesirable for social or public reasons."

Under this statute the Greek government could, if it chose, invite Insull to leave the country within a stipulated period. This would not be a reflection upon its Court of Appeals or have anything to do with extradition, being a purely administrative and police action. This action frequently is taken by other governments when there is a question of getting rid of undesirables. The question would be whether Greece placed a higher value on friendship with the United States or Samuel Insull.

Fear Political Repercussion.

There is but one reason, it is understood, which would make the present Greek government hesitate to take this step—namely: fear of the Venizelists, their political opponents. They would seize upon it to attack the government for repudiating the courts [even though this would not be true] and so bring about the downfall of the government—all because of Insull. Greeks generally regard everything from the point of view of local politics.

What the Greek response to the American denunciation of the treaty will be is difficult to estimate. To all appearances it will be resistance. Greece will, if necessary, make an issue of it out of the sentimental idea and tradition which exists here concerning hospitality and refuge to strangers. Anyway, the government newspapers tonight declare that to give up Insull would be cowardice.

Proud of Greek Justice.

Vradini [Evening Gazette], which speaks authoritatively for the government, says: "The decision of the overseas republic to denounce the extradition treaty causes us profound regret. But what could we do to prevent it? Greek justice, which has preserved itself unshaken through difficult internal strife, is one of our few robust institutions of which we may be proud.

2-Gun Bandit Comes to Grief in Wild Night

A one man crime wave from Wyoming was suppressed by four policemen early today when they arrested Charles Stein, 22 years old, a two-gun ex-convict, just after he had robbed and locked up eight victims in a room in a tavern at 7528 South Halsted street.

In his crime jaunt Stein covered considerable territory, although committing only three overt acts so far as is known.

He started out on the lower level of Wacker drive, near Michigan avenue, when, flashing a star and posing as a policeman, he boarded the automobile of Mr. and Mrs. John E. Rouse, 1632 Sheridan road, Evanston. Mr. Rouse is superintendent of refining for the Standard Oil company and only recently came here from Casper, Wyo.

Stein quickly dropped his policeman pose and ordered Rouse to drive away. During the drive he mentioned he had served time in the state prison in Wyoming and had been attracted to the Rouse car by its Wyoming license plate. He took $40 and a watch from Rouse.

At Irving Park boulevard and Harlem avenue the gunman bound Mrs. Rouse's hands and feet with adhesive tape and did the same to Rouse three miles farther out in Irving Park boulevard. Not content with this, the bandit carried Mr. and Mrs. Rouse out of the car and onto the ground, cut an automobile robe into strips and tied them with these additional bonds. He left them there helpless in the cold night and drove away in their car. Rouse finally freed himself and notified police.

Keeps Up His "Crime Wave."

This really started Stein's downfall, although he was not through with his crime wave. He drove down to a filling station at 1608 West 95th street and held up Edward Danforth, 10758 Prospect avenue, the attendant, and another man, getting $14. Danforth notified police, saying the bandit rode in a car bearing a Wyoming license. It was the same license reported by Rouse, so police got on the double quick.

A few minutes later Sergt. F. Smuczynski and Detectives John Trecker, Lester Sprague, and Hugo Olsen of the detective bureau noticed the Wyoming car in front of Tom O'Connell's tavern at 7528 South Halsted street. They dashed into the place. It was empty save for one man, who later turned out to be Stein.

"Okay, boys," said Stein, "I'm the owner."

But the policemen rushed him. Stein tried to draw a gun, but Detective Trecker seized him and the two rolled into the street, where Stein was overpowered. Meanwhile Sergt. Smuczynski, looking around, saw a door barricaded high with beer cases. He opened the door and out came O'Connell, the tavern owner, and seven patrons who a minute before had been held up by Stein. They ha" lost $33.

When searched Stein was found to be carrying two revolvers, extra ammunition, a blackjack, and two stars, one that of a deputy sheriff and the other that of a policeman. When questioned, Stein said he had served time in prison in Wyoming and had lived in Cincinnati, O., and Chesterton, Ind. He also boasted he recently had held up and robbed two policemen in Decatur, Ill.

MUSEUM OFFICIAL'S JEST DRAWS CROWD TO SEE 'GREEN ROSE'

New York, Nov. 5.—(AP)—The American Museum of Natural History enjoyed a record attendance today—39,000 men, women, and children who wanted to see "the green rose."

But there wasn't any green rose.

Guards, answering several hundred times the same question: "Where is the green rose?" were at first amused then annoyed.

It developed that an official, discussing an exhibit of the Horticultural society, had remarked jestingly that they would have everything, including green roses.

GEN. JOHNSON TO ADDRESS C. A. C. MEETING AT NOON

Gen. Hugh Johnson, recovery administrator, will speak on progress of the NRA today at a luncheon of the Illinois Manufacturers' association, the Chicago Association of Commerce and the city's NRA committee in the Stevens hotel. The address is to be the first of a series in the middle west. Gen. Johnson will arrive on the Baltimore & Ohio railroad at 8:40 this morning. He was to have arrived by plane yesterday, but was prevented from taking off by unfavorable weather and boarded a train.

6 Are Killed When Plane Razes House

Shrewsbury, N. J., Nov. 5.—(AP)—A New Jersey National Guard airplane, piloted by Lieut. George R. Johnson, South American explorer and noted aerial photographer, crashed into a bungalow in Beach street late today and exploded, trapping in the flames Johnson, his passenger, and the occupants of the bungalow.

Both flyers were killed, and the others, either four or five in number, perished in the flames that completely razed the structure.

Sergt. Alfred Poole, Hillside.
June King, 5.
Patricia King, 2.
Edward Wilson, 28, of Little Silver.
Cora Ragland, 35.

Mother's Fate in Doubt.

The children's mother, Mrs. Margaret King, 28, could not be found after the fire. Police at first said she was lost in the flames. Later they started investigating a report that she was out of town at the time the crash occurred. Wilson was a visitor at the house.

The National Guard plane, out of Newark airport on a photographic flight, landed at Red Bank late in the afternoon.

Verne Treat, a former air mail pilot, who was at the Red Bank airport, told state and local police he thought the ship got out of control as it banked after the takeoff.

Tail Hits Another House.

Others at the airport said the plane landed after attaining low altitude and then took off again and circled the field. Over the houses on the north side it sideslipped and began diving. Its tail smacked the roof of one house and then the ship plunged nose first into the rear of the King bungalow, a 5 room wooden structure.

Mrs. M. N. Cofer, a neighbor, said she saw the plane crash and heard one of the children scream. No other sounds came from the house, she said.

Another neighbor said the ship "slapped the house," there was an explosion as it ripped through the flimsy roof and back wall, and a geyser of flaming oil rose and settled, completely enveloping the place. The flames burst forth immediately and in a few minutes the bungalow had become a roaring pyre.

Famed for Her 'Hello, Sucker!' to 'Spenders'

VANCOUVER, B. C., Nov. 5.—(AP)—Texas Guinan, the glamorous night club queen, who was known best for her contributions to Broadway's vocabulary, died in a hospital here today of an intestinal illness. She was about 48 years old.

The robust entertainer sent the phrases, "Hello, sucker," and "Give the little girl a great big hand," virtually around the world.

Entered Hospital Last Monday.

She had been absent from Broadway much in the last three years and just had completed a Pacific coast theatrical tour with her troupe of girls. She opened here on Oct. 28 and had another engagement scheduled at Victoria, B. C., this week.

She entered the hospital here last Monday night suffering from ulcerated colitis. A physician said her condition seemed satisfactory until yesterday morning when a perforation of the bowel developed and an operation was performed. Steadily she became worse and died at 8:30 o'clock this morning.

HAD COLORFUL CAREER.

A colorful career extending over twenty-eight years ended with the death of Texas Guinan. Stage actress, screen actress, entertainer, and night club hostess, La Guinan, as she was popularly known, rose to the big heights with the advent of prohibition.

Texas Guinan typified the night club phase of the dry era and was commonly acknowledged as "queen of the night clubs." Broadway knew her best, but at that only a little better than Chicago's Rialto, for Miss Guinan in recent years played Chicago heavily.

She was born in Waco, Tex., full name Mary Louise Cecilia Guinan. Perhaps Mary, Louise, and Cecilia were too many names for her, for she dropped them as long ago as 1905 for the cryptic, catchy handle "Texas." And that, she insisted, was her true first name, inherited from her grandfather and her father, both Texas Guinans.

Start of Career.

Miss Guinan's stage career began early when she won a scholarship to the Chicago Conservatory of Music.

In 1909 Texas Guinan's name appeared occasionally in stage reviews, and in that year a famous theater man publicly advised: "Keep your eyes on that girl. She'll be big some day. She has zip and fizz, and that's what the public wants." From 1909 to 1915 Miss Guinan had principal rôles in many productions, among them "The Whirl of the World" and the "Gay Musician." She starred at the old Winter Garden in New York in 1913, and about that time visited Europe. In Berlin she met Kaiser Wilhelm.

Miss Guinan was fairly well known to the theatergoing public in 1917 when the movies beckoned to her. Forthright she essayed a special rôle—the "gun girl." A real Texas woman, she filled the bill as the heroine of many bizarre western plots. In all, she appeared in 312 moving pictures.

First Conflict with Law.

In 1919 Miss Guinan had her first conflict with the law when an obesity reducing cure system which she was operating with others lost the right to use the mails by decree of Postmaster

WANTS DRINKING DONE IN OPEN AFTER REPEAL

Says City Will Vote Ample Control.

BY PARKE BROWN.

When hard liquor returns from outlawry to recognized standing in the community, Mayor Kelly said yesterday, there will be ample law on the books to meet the situation in Chicago.

Discussing the outlook for the post-repeal era, due to dawn four weeks from tomorrow, the mayor said he felt the warnings of the danger of chaos due to lawless, uncontrolled selling of spirits have been overdone. He believes the state will enact some sort of legislation during the next month. If the state does not, he said, the city will.

Doubts Return of "Old Saloon."

He also expressed the belief that there will be no return of the "old saloon" in Chicago and that there will be no selling of drinks over the bar. He declared that with the termination of federal prohibition and a hands off policy on the part of the state, the city will be able to establish policies of control and regulation that will avoid the evils of pre-war days.

In reply to questions Mayor Kelly said that if there is any chaos in the picture anywhere, it exists right now and will continue to exist until the thirty-sixth state convention has ratified the 21st amendment. There is neither state nor municipal law regulating traffic in intoxicants and the federal forces have been steadily withdrawn, he pointed out.

Expects Immediate Improvement.

Instead of growing suddenly worse with the actual accomplishment of repeal, the mayor said, conditions should improve immediately local control is put into effect.

The mayor said he believed the city should issue only one form of license for retailers—one covering all forms of sales of beer, wine, or whisky, whether by the glass or in original packages, meaning pint, quart, or gallon containers, for consumption on the premises or elsewhere.

In discussing these and other phases of the question, the mayor said he wished to make it plain that he was not seeking to interfere with the deliberations of the Ward legislative commission which is drafting a liquor control bill, but he felt sure that the commission in its final findings would approve a full measure of home rule in this matter.

Given Support by Attorneys.

In his belief that in the absence of speedy action by the special session of the assembly, now tentatively scheduled to convene about Nov. 21 for action on liquor control, the city has sufficient power to adopt its own laws, Mayor Kelly is sustained by attorneys who have gone into the question. The most recent opinion on the subject, made public yesterday, was one prepared by Attorney Theodore Tieken of the law firm of Winston, Strawn & Shaw and submitted to John P. Harding, a member of the Ward commission.

"If Illinois fails to pass any liquor legislation before the 18th amendment is formally repealed," said Attorney Tieken, "I feel confident that Chicago and other municipalities could pass whatever legislation is necessary and proper to control and regulate the sale of liquors within their boundaries.

Easy to Pass Control Law.

"That is what I am advised," said Mayor Kelly, "and it would be an easy matter for the council to pass quickly an ordinance requiring city licenses for all dealers in intoxicants, whether they be producers, wholesalers or retailers.

Mayor Kelly said he was pleased to learn that Gov. Horner is opposed to the creation of any state commission and to making the liquor law a state revenue bill. He said he believed it would be possible for the national government to simplify the taxation of liquor and establish uniformity among the states by establishing a federal gallonage tax and prorating it in some manner among the wet states in proportion with consumption.

This would leave the field of retailer licensing in Illinois entirely to the local communities.

"If that is brought about," said the mayor, "the cities could impose license fees adequate for thorough policing, investigation, and prosecution, but they should not go beyond the point that would raise costs so high that the bootlegger could opcrate at a profit. It is highly desirable that pure, unadulterated whisky be sold for about $2 a quart."

The mayor was emphatic in his declaration against the issuance of "beer only" or "beer and light wine" licenses, these to be issued for lower fees than those charged retailers of liquors.

"The result," he said, "would be that, following the tendencies inculcated by the cheating era of prohibition, there would be many who would take out the cheaper license with the full expectation of selling whisky and other strong drinks secretly."

Against Bar Sales.

Discussing his position—believed to agree with that of Gov. Horner—that there should be no bar sales, the mayor brought up the subject of licensing of service bars for dispensaries serving at tables. He said that his first thought about the serving of drinks in hotel guest rooms was that the hotels would have separate service bars for this. The question whether an additional license should be required for the room service bar was an open one in his mind.

He also said he favored a return to the preprohibition hour of closing for retailers in Chicago—1 a. m. One suggestion made is that all dispensaries be kept closed on Sundays until noon—until after morning church services.

The mayor favors the creation of outdoor café service similar to the sidewalk cafés of Paris and other European cities. His whole policy of bringing the sale of liquor "out into the open," by the abolition of backrooms, upstairs rooms, and curtains, screens and other devices obscuring vision from the street, is that illicit activities characteristic of some of the "old saloons" will be reduced to a minimum by making drinking a privilege of respectability.

Under his plan, the city council would not have to pass on a vexatious question that already has caused some aldermen anxiety — the question whether there should be regulations prohibiting the presence of women in the "new saloon."

Insist on Equal Rights.

It has been pointed out that they have taken full advantage of their rights in the 3.2 beer taverns and as a group might insist on equal rights for their sex if licenses are granted for the old beer and whisky barroom with the familiar brass rail. Under the mayor's plan for table services the sexes would not be thrown into such close association as they would at a bar.

Another question not yet passed on by Mayor Kelly or the Ward commission is the question of what will become of thousands of 3.2 beer taverns now equipped with customer bars if the sale of intoxicants is restricted to tables. The law permitting the operation of such beer places, which might hereafter become known as "near beer" taverns, might be continued in effect, but the forecasts is that they could not survive competition with places selling beverages of higher alcoholic content.

Two Bombs on South Side Fail to Hit Their Targets

Two bombs were exploded on the south side within a half hour period early today. The first landed between a vacant store at 1717 West 95th street and a store occupied by the Eastern Oriental Rug company at 1715. Both places were damaged to a total extent of $200. George Gogjian, owner of the rug shop, said he has no enemies. The second bomb was also inaccurately thrown. It landed between a paint shop at 2547 West 63d street and the Green tavern at 2547½ West 63d street. Total damage to the two places was $250. The intended victims of the bombs could not be determined by police.

PRESS FREEDOM BIG ISSUE UNDER NRA DOMINATION

Exhibit Objections to Criticism.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 5.—[Special.]—Although the Roosevelt administration disclaims any thought of controlling the press by means of the licensing provisions of the NRA, it became known tonight that highly placed officials have been discussing ways and means of dealing with features of newspaper publicity they regard as obnoxious.

Irresponsible publication of unauthenticated reports and rumors is constantly embarrassing the administration of the government, and sometimes produces complications in relations with other nations, according to the views of these officials. Official denials, they hold, are not sufficient to undo the harm done by such publications. The denials rarely catch up with the original publicity.

Deny Censorship Plans.

Various methods of approach to a reform of such journalistic practices have been suggested, but it is strenuously denied that anything in the nature of a censorship of the press is within the present scope of consideration. The suggestions range all the way from the exclusion of correspondents of offending newspapers from access to government officials to the imposition upon the publishers of the collective responsibility of policing their profession.

The former expedient was resorted to recently when Gen. Hugh S. Johnson, chief of the NRA, excluded from his press conferences James True, who was the correspondent of a trade publication, though the sum of his offending was his criticism of the NRA in a privately circulated business news letter. This is a favorite method of bureaucracy for penalizing correspondents and their newspapers for writings held obnoxious by a government official, and was not originated by this administration.

Numerous President's including the present incumbent's fifth cousin, excluded offending correspondents, on occasion, from the executive presence and office precincts.

A few weeks ago a department of labor agent threatened an Alabama editor with prosecution for an editorial touching phases of the NRA, to which the agent took exception. Secretary of Labor Perkins eventually rebuked the agent for exceeding his authority, but not until THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE and other newspapers had pointedly called attention to the incident.

Resists Reservation in Code.

Fear of a possible invocation of executive authority under the NRA to establish a far-reaching censorship of the press has been engendered by the resistance of the administration to an incorporation in the pending permanent newspaper code of an explicit reservation of the right of freedom of the press guaranteed by the first amendment to the constitution.

Gen. Johnson opposed such reservation from the start, but finally consented to the inclusion in the temporary code of a clause in which the publishers stated they waived none of their constitutional rights. The publishers in that clause, in effect, protested against the invocation of the licensing power at any time against newspapers. Their contention is that newspapers, while subject to the provisions of the national recovery act as an industry, occupy a position different from that of other industries by virtue of the special rights accorded them in the constitution.

The word "license," as applied to newspapers, has borne an evil connotation because of the abuses inflicted on the press in England up to the close of the seventeenth century and in the American colonies under British rule.

The power of the executive to license industries under the NRA and to withhold licenses for the operation of offending concerns has brought to the fore the possibility of the licensing power being used ostensibly to police newspaper establishments with reference to wages and hours of work but actually to intimidate publishers with respect to the character of matter published.

Although the press has enjoyed freedom in this country since the famous trial of John Peter Zenger, the two hundredth anniversary of which has just been celebrated, there have been sufficiently numerous attempts to restrict its liberty of expression to keep publishers and editors constantly on guard to defend its fundamental principle against actual or threatened encroachment.

The United States Supreme court gave added weight to its importance only two years ago, when it decided for the first time that the freedom of the press is protected by the 14th as well as the 1st amendment.

In spite of the guaranties in the federal and state constitutions experience has demonstrated that newspapers must ever be alert if their right freely to print the news and express opinions is not to be circumvented by some subtle form of censorship. The American Newspaper Publishers' association maintains a standing committee on freedom of the press which watches for such cases and goes to the aid of victims.

Johnson Disclaims Censorship.

While the temporary code was under discussion, Gen. Johnson said, in an interview, that he did not believe "the question of the freedom of the press is involved in this at all," and that expressions of opinion unfavorable to the administration would "certainly not" result in revocation of a newspaper's license if a licensing system should be imposed.

Holding that it had been the recovery administrator's desire to force the press "to accept a license," Carl W. Ackerman, discussing the code negotiations in his annual report as dean of the Columbia university school of journalism, observed that "only those in the confidence of Gen. Johnson know what might have been the next moves of the administration if the NRA had succeeded in its original policy."

On Aug. 19 Gen. Johnson requested all the newspapers to cooperate for the nation's welfare by contributing a free page of advertising to the NRA. He also asked each paper for two free annual subscriptions. A desire to pay for the advertising at regular rates was avowed, but the recovery administrator said that "the plain truth is that such an expenditure, on a nation-wide scale, is impossible at this time."

Editor and Publisher pointed out on Aug. 26 that a page of advertising appearing once in all the daily newspapers of the country would cost, if paid for at regular rates, about $400,000.

Ignores Newspapers in Speeches.

In his speech at A Century of Progress Exposition on Labor day Gen. Johnson stated that the NRA laid chief reliance on the force of public opinion to assure compliance with Blue Eagle pledges and remarked that "the radio and motion pictures have enabled the people to know instantly what is going on and more nearly every year to think and act as one."

According to Editor and Publisher, this was the third public address in which the recovery administrator had omitted newspapers in statements of this sort.

Merchant Loses Blue Eagle, Then Gets Another One

Washington, D. C., Nov. 5.—[Special.]—An incident illustrative of the sensitiveness of the NRA officials to criticism in the matter of published statements was supplied by the forfeiture of his Blue Eagle and its return to Thomas Murray of Lynn, Mass. Murray opened Murray's Clothing Store, Inc., yesterday with the Blue Eagle.

This is the story of its loss. Murray, operating the Lynn Clothing company, had bought some goods in anticipation of an increase of business. Late in September there was an advertisement in the papers of that city telling of the disposal of the stock, the store having been forced into a receivership.

"The operation was successful, but the patient died," the advertisement stated. It added that the anticipated increase in business had not appeared "since the masses of Lynn people have not yet benefited by the NRA movement to the extent that they can buy more freely."

The advertising, carrying the Blue Eagle, added, "Saturday will be the beginning of what will be the end of a noble experiment."

The compliance board at Lynn thereupon objectede and sent the complaint to the New England headquarters, which forwarded the complaint to Washington. The chief of the NRA's Blue Eagle division thereupon ordered the store to surrender its insignia, because of "a flagrant attempt to frustrate the spirit and intent of the President's reemployment program."

Representative William P. Connery [Dem., Mass.] sent a protest to Washington, saying there was "nothing in the advertisement which violates any section of the national recovery act." He declared, "The NRA was not designed to abrogate the rights of free speech or free press as provided for in our constitution." Mr. Connery took up the case with Gen. H. S. Johnson.

The compliance board at Lynn, through its chairman, Charles H. Pinkham, declared that it wrote to Mr. Murray asking an explanation and that he did not reply. The board then made its complaint. When the Eagle was withdrawn the store had been closed. Mr. Murray made arrangements to open a new store. He then represented to the compliance board at Lynn, according to dispatches from that place, that he had not been responsible for the advertisement, nor had any employé of his, but the advertising had been done by a firm acting for the receivers.

A letter from Gen. Johnson to Mr. Connery said the administrator had upheld the action against the Lynn Clothing company, but as Mr. Murray was opening a new business and had indicated a change of heart and was willing to support the Presidential program he had acceded to the request of Mr. Murray for another Eagle for his new store.

HUSBAND SLAIN BY WIFE IN ROW OVER A WOMAN

Otto Kropp, 39 years old, an electrician, was shot five times and fatally wounded by his wife, Genevieve, 42, in their home at 1931 North Leavitt street early this morning during a domestic quarrel. She was arrested later at Oak and Sedgwick streets. She pleaded self-defense.

When Kropp came home this morning his wife accused him of infidelity and planning to go to Detroit with a woman named Grace Fisher. During the fight Kropp, it is alleged, struck at her with a knife. She got a gun and shot him in the eye, side, and chest. He died at St. Elizabeth's hospital.

Mrs. Kropp was married before and has three children by her first marriage. They are Theresa, Daniel, and Anthony Reno. Theresa, 17 years old, who witnessed the shooting, corroborated her mother's story.

STRICKEN IN TAVERN; DIES.

William McDowell, 60 years old, 5731 Lowe avenue, was stricken with a heart attack in his beer tavern at 5854 South Halsted street yesterday, and died en route to the Englewood hospital.

FAIR VISITORS' AUTO AND BUS COLLIDE; 6 HURT

Woman Severely Injured in Crash in Berwyn.

Six persons, three of them World's Fair visitors, were injured, one severely, in a head-on collision last night between an automobile and a bus at Ogden and Harlem avenues in Berwyn.

Her husband, O. E. Anderson, driver of the automobile, and their son, Elmer, 11 years old, are also in the hospital with severe cuts and bruises.

Three passengers in the bus were injured. They are Mrs. Mary Cuchnoi, 35 years old, 2407 South Sawyer avenue, and her daughter, Louise, 12 years old, and Walter Manson, 35 years old, 1725 North Austin avenue.

Automobile Is Wrecked.

The Anderson automobile was westbound in Ogden avenue and had started to make a left turn south into Harlem avenue when it was met by a bus of the Chicago and West Town railway company, driven eastward in Ogden avenue by Fred Will, 32 years old, 12133 South Fairfield avenue. The Anderson car was wrecked. The Andersons were returning to Ottawa after visiting the Fair.

Faith Bacon, noted fan dancer, suffered a possible broken rib and other injuries early today when the automobile in which she was riding with Harry Cohen, 3525 West 16th street, collided with another car at Schiller street and Lake Shore drive. She was taken to Henrotin hospital.

Will, uninjured, was booked by the Berwyn police on a charge of reckless driving and was released in $2,500 bonds.

Killed by Hit and Run Auto.

The body of M. J. Bingen, 45 years old, 1210 South Morgan street, was found in the street in front of 919 West Roosevelt road early yesterday. Maxwell street police at first believed the man had been beaten to death in a fight, but witnesses found later said he had been struck by a hit and run motorist. Identification was made at the county morgue by the victim's father.

Four other deaths yesterday increased the Cook county motor toll to 922 since Jan. 1. The other victims:

Anton Seubert, 43 years old, 2647 Mont Clare avenue. Died in the Washington Boulevard hospital of injuries incurred early yesterday when he was struck by an automobile at Roosevelt road and Crawford avenue. Daniel Smittyklas, 35 years old, 2831 South Millard avenue, the driver, was held.

Frank Knourek, 45 years old, 1001 West Madison street, Oak Park. Killed yesterday in an automobile collision at 15th street and Austin boulevard, Cicero. George Le Mar, 1000 East Marquette road, driver of the car in which Knourek was riding, and W. La Fond, 924 North Hayes avenues, Oak Park, driver of the other car, were held.

George Terry, colored, 50 years old, 3236 South Park way. Killed when struck by automobile driven by Miss Margaret Davis, colored, New York, at South Park way and 33d street. The driver was held for the inquest.

Unidentified man about 25 years old. Died in Roseland Community hospital shortly after being struck by an automobile driven by George Benson, 10608 Normal avenue, while crossing Halsted street at 118th street.

An automobile driven by Edmond Meyer, French vice consul in Chicago, collided with another car on the near north side last night, injuring a woman. She is Mrs. Anora Carstensen, 52 years old, 153 West Division street. Mrs. Carstensen was taken to the Passavent hospital with several fractured ribs.

The vice consul was driving north in Dearborn street when the consulate car collided with one driven west on Superior street by William Kocher, 7 East Chestnut street, rolling it over. Neither Koch nor Albert G. Guillieme, 25 years old, 152 West Division street, a son of Mrs. Carstensen by a former marriage, who was with her in the car, was injured.

Vice Consul Meyer gave his address as the Palm Olive building, which houses the consulate.

Pile Ties on Tracks; Free Cattle and Sheep.

Lawton, Ia., Nov. 5.—(AP)—A crowd of farm strike pickets, who broke the seals on a Chicago and North Western live stock train today, released eight carloads of live stock after shoveling the railroad track with ties. The train was headed for the Sioux City market.

Railroad detectives who were riding on the train were helpless against the force of the pickets.

Tonight live stock swarmed over the streets of this little Woodbury county town and residents stayed inside their homes.

Plows Through Barrier.

The first attempt to unload the animals was made at Pierson. The train had stopped there to switch one car on a siding and one of the stock cars was opened by pickets, who drove two head of cattle out before the train got under way again.

An attempt was made to stop the train again at Moville, but Engineer Claude Chilton ignored the blockade on the tracks and plowed through the barrier without stopping.

The pickets who had gathered at Moville hastily embarked in automobiles and followed the train, arriving before it got to Lawton. There they stacked a large pile of ties on the track.

Second Train to Be Stopped.

Fearing he would wreck the train if he attempted to crash the larger barrier, Engineer Chilton halted the train and the pickets swarmed over the cars. Seals on the car doors were broken and the stock shoved out at the depot. Most of the stock was sheep and cattle.

Sheriff William Tice was notified by railroad authorities and left immediately for Lawton to investigate.

Wednesday night another train had been stopped at Merrill, but no stock was released.

Pickets continued tonight to blockade principal highways into Sioux City. Truck traffic was light. There were no reports of trucks being turned back.

Governor Warns Pickets.

Des Moines, Ia., Nov. 5.—(AP)—Violence in the farm strike—halting of a market bound freight train near Lawton, Ia., and the release of eight carloads of live stock by pickets—tonight brought the assertion from Gov. Clyde L. Herring that unless peace officers could maintain order the state "would step in."

Gov. Herring said he received a report of the affair from the sheriff of Woodbury county and the sheriff asserted there were but few farmers in the mob. The crowd was described by the sheriff as "mostly 'Reds' from Sioux City." Railroad detectives on the train were helpless to protect the shipment.

The governor's statement came shortly after Sheriff W. A. De Moss at Glenwood appealed to the governor to send troops there to guard the Plattsmouth bridge over the Missouri river—focal point for traffic bound to the Omaha markets.

Farmers there, De Moss said, were "90 per cent opposed to the strike" and already were organizing to convoy their trucks over the picket flanked bridge to markets.

"A lot of farmers are going down to that bridge who won't come back," he said. "The governor has failed us. We asked for help, but he won't give it to us."

Farmer Striker Killed.

Dakota City, Neb., Nov. 5.—(AP)—One Nebraska farmer was killed and three others were injured tonight when they were struck by an automobile while on picket duty near here. They had stopped a truck from Fremont when the car crashed into the truck.

Women Pickets Carry Flatirons.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Milwaukee, Wis., Nov. 4.—[Special.]—Women today joined the ranks of pickets who are attempting to obstruct the movement of milk to the markets. They appeared among the men pickets at Astico in Dodge county and joined in stopping and searching cars.

At the sheriff's office in Juneau it was said the women armed themselves with flatirons and clubs. They were reported to have come down with pickets from Shawano county. There was no commercial movement of milk in Dodge county, and almost no dumping today. Astico is east of Columbus near the Columbia-Dodge county line.

It was a day of comparative quiet with law officers everywhere anticipating a climax in the strike tomorrow, when some plants which have been closed expect to reopen. The militant farm organizations have rallied their followers and a test of their strength is expected tomorrow.

Ordered to Suppress Violence.

Gov. A. G. Schmedeman has notified sheriffs and district attorneys that the roads must be kept open and violence suppressed at any cost.

In Walworth county three truckloads of milk were dumped by pickets in the vicinity of Elkhorn, while 40 deputies of the county were cooling their heels at the northern county line. The trucks belonged to Warren Whaple, collector on a milk route between Elkhorn and Spring Prairie, who had 55 cans picked up from small farmers, and C. P. Newman and George Jenson, each of which was carrying 50 cans.

Borah Urges Enforcement of U. S Anti-Trust Statutes

Parma, Idaho, Nov. 5.—(AP)—Senator William E. Borah [Rep., Idaho] tonight demanded restoration and enforcement of the anti-trust laws as a curb on "prices fixed by combines and monopolies," and coupled with it an attack on opponents of inflation.

He declared the administration's "buy now" campaign "is not progressing at all," and asserted the "controlling reason is the price which confronts the buyer."

Speaking before an assembly of residents of this community on the Boise river, the senator declared the "buy now" campaign was "in fact receding."

"The sales volume, as shown by experts," he continued, "is significantly unfavorable. There is perhaps more than one reason for this, but the controlling reason is the prices which confront the buyer.

"Many of these prices are high beyond all reason and conscience. If they were 'Blue Eagle' prices it would make this bird a bird of prey instead of a bird of protection. They are, in many instances, in my judgment, the prices fixed by combines and monopolies, sheltered by the broad wings of the double headed Eagle. Hiding behind the increase of labor and the processing tax, making these an excuse, prices have been pushed up beyond all reason.

"We are gathering the fruits, in a large measure, of the mistaken act in suspending the anti-trust laws last winter. It should not have been done. The people are paying for that mistake now."

Describing it as a "long continued story," he said: "For twenty years both the leading political parties have fiercely assailed monopolies during the campaign, to become not only silent, but subservient after the campaign was over."

"Those who argue against inflation, which I prefer to call reflation, refuse, as it seems to me, to face the facts, to meet the issue as it is presented," Senator Borah said, in turning to another subject.

He urged the use of both gold and silver, making a broader metallic base for the monetary system, asserting that "upon that broad base sufficient currency could be provided with which to meet the situation."

RETURN TO GOLD STANDARD, PLEA OF ECONOMIST

Diagnoses New Deal and Finds It Ailing.

Immediate return to the gold standard as a safeguard against uncontrolable inflation and to restore confidence to the nation was advocated in a lecture before the Chicago Forum yesterday by F. Cyril James, professor of finance at the University of Pennsylvania, who diagnosed the New Deal and found it ailing in many respects.

Prof. James analyzed the "long run" features of the NRA and related acts, orders and regulations under the New Deal. He called such permanent acts essential to the preservation of our economic system, but he attacked some of the schemes for alleviating the present depression as futile and dangerous.

The professor said he was both puzzled and amused by the wholehearted manner in which the New Deal, or new era, was accepted in Chicago and other cities at the outset. Also, he said, he did not agree with the present antagonistic attitude of the Chicago press to the administration's emergency policies.

Truth Lies Between.

"Somewhere between those two attitudes lies the truth," he asserted. "It is unwarranted to call the New Deal a failure after a trial of only three months."

The immediate aspects of the New Deal, particularly gold buying and other inflationary measures and the attempt under the agricultural adjustment administration to disburse more money in the agricultural area, were attacked by the professor. The only immediate scheme of the administration's policy which he indorsed was the emergency relief program which he justified on both social duty and purely economic grounds.

"Unemployment relief," he said, "is a valuable capital investment, which prevents the loss of ability and skill and directly stimulates revival through increasing the circulation of goods and money."

The professor denounced the AAA, calling it "very unsatisfactory" to subsidize cuts in production and the destruction of stock through further taxing of the consumer. The total production in 1932 was less than that of 1925, anyway, he said, and there was no overproduction problem then.

"The world is not yet in a position where it has all the goods it wants and will take no more. It is merely not in a position to buy."

Prof. James scored the President's attempts to fix agricultural prices at the 1926 levels, when other prices are far below those levels, as a scheme of redistributing wealth and giving it to "a group in the community which does not deserve it."

No Control of Inflation.

"I doubt whether our banking system is capable of controlling inflation on our paper standard," Prof. James said. "And I also doubt whether the administration will be able, or willing, to stop the rise in prices. It will take two years for prices to reach a dangerous level and that will be a year before the next election. I do not believe the Democratic party would run the risk of a setback and try to stop the increase.

"The greatest possible safeguard is to return to the gold standard at once. The gold standard doesn't stop the rise in prices, for we were on the gold standard between 1913 to 1919 when prices were going up.

"I haven't the faintest idea why this policy of buying gold in the market was adopted, but I know what it is doing. Commodity prices are not rising as rapidly as gold prices—every day we must give more goods for an ounce of gold. This policy, far from improving the situation, makes it worse. The best way to restore confidence is to restore sound money."

In discussing the rise of capitalism and the complex interdependence that arose with the struggle of the individual for freedom of contract, Prof. James came to the coördinating features of the NRA and called them good. He said the government must go still further in coördinating and controlling industry, imposing and enforcing codes in all industries, even agriculture.

Fahrney Heiress Back Home; Plans to Wed Count in Chile

Mrs. Merry Fahrney Parker-Pickering, 22 years old, granddaughter of the late Dr. Peter Fahrney, patent medicine manufacturer, arrived at her Oak Park home yesterday from New York. The purpose of her trip, she announced, was to plead with her parents to allow her to marry Count George di Georgio, who sailed from New York for Chile on Saturday by request of the police.

Mrs. Parker-Pickering, who is an heiress to part of the Fahrney fortune, waved farewell to Di Georgio from the pier, declared that he was a victim of persecution and that she intended to marry him. Then she departed for Chicago. Here yesterday she continued to insist that she would wed the count, on whose title the New York police have cast some aspersions. She said that she wanted money from her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Emory H. Fahrney, 400 North Euclid avenue, Oak Park, to get a passport and finance a trip to Chile, where she plans to meet Di Georgio.

Parents Against Her, She Says.

Her parents are trying to defeat her romance "in every possible way," Mrs. Parker-Pickering declared. She said that they objected to Di Georgio because "he is a foreigner."

The heiress said that Di Georgio had final divorce papers from his Chilean wife, but that Chilean statutes required that he return there to complete the divorce. She said that as soon as Di Georgio lands in Chile his divorce becomes valid. Mrs. Parker-Pickering then plans to join him, flying part of the way, and arriving in Chile nearly as soon as he does, she said.

She advanced Di Georgio's desire to complete his divorce as his reason for "agreeing" to leave New York. He sailed on the fruit steamer Platona. The New York police have given a different version of the reason for Di Georgio's departure.

Cite Deportation Warrant.

The police said that Di Georgio had overstayed his leave on a passport, and that a deportation warrant from Washington had been received for him. At his request he was allowed to sail voluntarily instead of as a deportee, the police said.

Mrs. Parker-Pickering was accompanied back to Chicago by her family's attorney, Weymouth Kirkland. Mr. Kirkland said the Fahrneys objected to Di Georgio, but said they had nothing to do with his leaving the country.

Mr. Kirkland said that the police were investigating Di Georgio in connection with a "bond and jewelry deal." The attorney said he prevailed on the police to release Di Georgio on his promise to leave the country.

Mrs. Parker-Pickering was divorced from Hugh Parker-Pickering in the Cook County Superior court on Sept. 27.

BANDITS TORTURE WOMAN; FORCE OPENING OF SAFE

Three masked bandits tortured Mrs. Minnie Friesel with fire last night and forced her to open the safe in the Dee Lite bakery at 1307 East 47th street, of which she is manager. She is 38 years old and lives at 5109 South Ashland avenue.

Mrs. Friesel was closing the shop when the robbers entered. Joseph Glatz, 6315 South Oakley avenue, a baker, was still in the kitchen. The gunmen tied him hand and foot with tape and made him lie on the floor. Then they dragged Mrs. Friesel into the room where the safe was kept.

They demanded that she open the safe, and when she declared she did not know the combination one of them burned her finger tips with lighted matches. Although the pain was intense, Mrs. Friesel still refused to obey the gunmen's orders. Then one of the robbers went into the furnace room and returned with a shovelful of burning coals. He threatened to throw the coals into Mrs. Friesel's face. Then she capitulated. The bandits got $250 from the safe, tied her up, and then escaped in her car, which was in the rear of the place.

DENTIST ENDS LIFE WITH GAS IN HIS OFFICE

Dr. Norman MacDonald, 54 years old, a dentist, well known in the Rogers Park district and in Methodist church circles, ended his life yesterday by inhaling gas through a tube in his office at 7001 North Clark street.

Mrs. Gladys MacDonald, his wife, said she knew of no motive for suicide, but that the medicines he had taken in an effort to cure a stubborn cold may have unbalanced his mind.

Dr. MacDonald left his home at 1909 Touhy avenue in the morning, saying several patients were coming to his office for treatment. Late in the afternoon his grown children, Norman Jr. and Mary Ellen, went to the office. The dentist's body was found on a couch.

TEXAS RANCHER IS FAIR VISITOR NO. 22,000,000

Another Million Expected in Final Week.

BY EARL MULLIN.

Leslie C. McDonald, 55 years old, a rancher and implement dealer of Floydada, Tex., yesterday was presented with a 40 acre farm in Michigan as the 22 millionth visitor to the World's Fair. Considerable amusement was registered by officials when Mr. McDonald informed them that he owned a 1,400 acre farm in Texas, but would use the Michigan farm as a summer resort.

Mr. McDonald, accompanied by his wife, Catherine, entered the Roosevelt road gate shortly before 3 p. m. It was his first visit to the Fair. The party was met at the gate by Fair officials who presented to Mr. and Mrs. McDonald tickets to various concessions and World's Fair medals. From the gate the party went to the Michigan state exhibit in the Court of States where the presentation of the farm took place.

Farm 8 Miles from Lake.

The prize farm is in the rolling wooded country of Menominee county, Michigan, a short distance from the Menominee river and eight miles from Lake Michigan.

A. W. Blom, president of the Menominee Abstract and Land company, who donated the farm, was represented by George E. Bishop, manager of the state exhibit. The farm has an assessed valuation of $250.

With the 22d million mark in paid admission reached yesterday and seven more days until the gates are closed for the final time at midnight next Sunday, officials were predicting a final paid admission figure of 23,000,000. The next largest American Exposition in paid admissions was the Columbian Exposition of 1893, with 21,480,141 visitors. At 11:30 o'clock last night the official total for the day was 87,780.

50 Bishops to Be Guests Today.

Today opening the final week of the Exposition will be bishops' day, with more than fifty bishops of the Episcopal church in attendance. The high light of the visit of the church leaders will be a luncheon as guests of the Fair in the trustees' lounge.

After the luncheon the visiting prelates will be guests of the Fair in a tour of the grounds. The prelates will stop over in Chicago en route to Davenport, Ia., where they will hold sessions, starting tomorrow.

Booze Carrier Arrested at World's Fair Gate

Carrying a case of pints of moonshine, Paul Stryck, 32 years old, who gave his address as 4339 Christiana avenue, was arrested last night as he was entering the 23d street entrance to the World's Fair. Stryck, who said he was to deliver the liquor to a café in the Streets of Paris, was turned over to the government by Lieut. Ernest Schoendorf of the Fair police.

CENTURY OF PROGRESS NOTES

Waiters and waitresses from cafés and restaurants on the grounds of A Century of Progress will compete in an efficiency contest to be held on the Floating theater Wednesday afternoon. The contestants will be required to set a table for two persons and then clear it. A waiters' race, with the waiters carrying trays of food, will be staged on the boardwalk along the west side of the north lagoon.

In anticipation of a continuance of the Fair next year, beauticians of Chicago and Illinois are arranging to send an emissary around the world extending an invitation to beauty culturists in other countries to attend the Fair, according to Miss Margot Frere, recording secretary of the Beauty Culture Code Association of Illinois. The representative will be selected in a personality contest to be conducted in connection with a Beautyland Mardi Gras in the Palmer house Dec. 13.

A permanent organization to be known as the Penland association, with the parent chapter in Chicago, is to be formed by a group of Chicago women to foster the mountain handicrafts which are exhibited in the North Carolina cabin at the Fair. Mrs. Henry Mason of Highland Park, Mrs. Joseph E. Otis, Mrs. Robert F. Hall, Mrs. Charles Spencer Williamson and Mrs. Albert Cotsworth are among the prime movers in the organization. The Carolina cabin is located between Ann Rutledge inn and Fort Dearborn.

Maj. Lenox R. Lohr, general manager of the Fair, yesterday was made a chief by the Winnebago Indians at the American Indian village. He was named Wa-way-ween-Wa-Lou-Pinga, which in the Winnebago language means "Good Thinker."

TOILETS WILL BE FREE IF THE FAIR REOPENS IN 1934

World's Fair visitors in 1934, if the Fair is reopened then, will save nearly $800,000 in small change, and at the some time be spared what has generally been considered by visitors this year as an annoyance. There will be no pay toilets.

Maj. Lenox R. Lohr, general manager of the Exposition, has notified the Brooks Contracting company, which operates the toilets, that its contract will not be renewed if the Fair carries over in 1934. The Fair corporation will take over the entire toilet concession, reimbursing the Brooks company for a certain amount of its equipment. The last audit of the company showed that the income for the service this year was $728,510.

Since the opening of the Exposition thousands of complaints have been registered against the charging of fees at comfort stations on the grounds.

Hunt Gunman Who Shot Woman Guest at Cafe

The Hudson avenue police yesterday were searching for an unidentified man who shot and wounded Mrs. Irene Johnson, 32 years old, 2959 North Halsted street, in the Palm Garden café, 819 West North avenue, early yesterday. Mrs. Johnson was taken to the Augustana hospital.

RADIO CRACKLES WITH NEW YORK MAYORAL FIGHT

radicalism. Politicians, shaking their heads, lamented that such seems to be mob psychology, with La Guardia apparently, according to the signs, far out in the lead at present, the politicians say the chief undecided factor is the last day shifts the Tammanyites may make, seeing that O'Brien's chances of winning seem to have gone up the spout. Tammany's rally last night was frostbitten, small audience, empty chairs.

Behind the battle against Tammany bosses and the turbulence of the mayoralty campaign as a sequel to the Seabury investigations, which drove "Playboy" Mayor Jimmy Walker out of office, looms Washington politics.

Farley Washington Link.

Although President Roosevelt has insisted the White House will not take any hand in the mayoralty campaign, the question is involved of how close the administration is attached, in the public mind, to the McKee candidacy by Mr. Farley's espousal of McKee.

Farley, Democratic national committeeman and patronage dispenser at Washington, and Edward J. Flynn, boss of the Bronx who split with John F. Curry, boss of Tammany, and Boss John H. McCooey of Brooklyn, and who supported Roosevelt in the national convention at Chicago, have an interest in driving out the old bosses. President Roosevelt himself has been against Tammany throughout his career, although keeping aloof from this catamount fight.

McKee, a protegé of Flynn, who had declined to run as the Seabury Fusionist candidate, changed his mind after La Guardia was put up and the response showed Tammany facing defeat. He was entered not only to win, but to beat Tammany. The name "Recovery party" was used, and although Hugh Johnson of NRA put his foot down on use of the Blue Eagle, plenty of effort has been made by the recovery camp to make it appear it is identified with the Roosevelt policies.

Might Affect Congress.

What possible effect Tuesday's result may have upon national affairs is an engrossing subject among the politicoes. If McKee is defeated they surmise from some quarters will come the shout that it is a setback for the administration. This in turn, they argue, may be reflected in the next session of congress, put it out of control, and cost the administration the support of members who have gone along with the recovery program deeming that to oppose it would be unpopular. It might be carried into the congressional elections next year. In New York it is apprehended it might mean the defeat of Gov. Lehman next year.

If either McKee or La Guardia wins, it means the gate for the present bosses. Just who would hold the new leadership, however, is a question. It might be Mr. Farley and Washington, or again Al Smith might have quite a voice in the selection of the new organization leaders.

On the Republican end a victory for La Guardia is being watched by Republican radicals and insurgents who argue it might strengthen their efforts to get control of the next Republican national convention, although on the other hand La Guardia is being supported by ex-Secretary Mills, a Hooverite of Hooverites. So there are plenty of implications that politicians will probably try to read into the results.

Among the minor fights, the most spectacular is over the place of district attorney of New York county. The Fusionists have nominated Jacob Gould Schurman Jr., who was an assistant to Samuel Seabury in his investigation of Mayor Walker and the "tin box brigade." The Recovery party has named Ferdinand Pecora.

DR. JOHN THOMPSON'S LIBERTY DAY ATTACK ANSWERED BY MAYOR

Personal Liberty day at the Fair, Nov. 8, is to be a celebration of the return of freedom to the American citizen and is not a program for the distribution of free food and free beer. Mayor Kelly made this statement yesterday in answer to charges of the Rev. John Thompson, pastor of the First Methodist church.

As a result of protests, Rufus C. Dawes, president of the Fair, has changed the official name of the day to Personal Responsibility day.

Dr. Thompson referred to the special day as a "beer Bacchanalia" and lamented the fact that such an exhibition would end an Exposition which was opened with prayer. He asked that milk be distributed as well as free beer.

"There are hundreds and thousands of these poor people that never drink beer," he said, "and then the little children and babies. Why did you not think of them and include milk in your bill of fare?"

"Milk and food are being distributed through the regular agencies," Mayor Kelly said. "It is obviously not to be expected that an admission of 50 cents will be paid by persons who must have free milk."

Two thousand barrels of free beer and two hundred thousand sandwiches will be distributed at the Fair in celebration of the voting of the 36th state for repeal of prohibition.

FARLEY APPEALS TO 6 STATES TO END DRY REGIME

Calls 18th Amendment a Tragic Failure.

New York, Nov. 5.—(AP)—Postmaster General James A. Farley tonight appealed to the voters of the six states voting on repeal next Tuesday to "end the wet-dry debate in 48 hours," prefacing his remarks with the prediction that national prohibition in the United States would end when the returns were tabulated.

Addressing his speech to the voters of Pennsylvania, North Carolina, South Carolina, Ohio, Kentucky and Utah, Farley said the "victory for repeal is a victory for sanity, sound sense and good morals."

He termed the 18th amendment "the most tragic failure in the history of American law making" and said it would be lifted out of the constitution "not because the American people want to drink more liquor, but because they want to assert and maintain in a practical and efficient manner public control of the traffic in intoxicating liquor."

Refutes Dry Claims.

In a review of the dry claims for the 18th amendment he said it did not put an end to drinking, did not save the rising generation from the temptation to overindulgence in alcohal or did not put an end to the evils of liquor traffic. He quoted statistics placing the cost of prohibition at almost a billion dollars a year.

"The great obstacle to prohibition reform was found in the fact that the proponents of the 18th amendment had for so long a period indiscriminately pictured every advocate of repeal as a drunkard that many good citizens, though convinced that a change should be effected, hesitated to speak," said Farley. "It was the clear voice of Franklin Roosevelt at the Chicago convention, a little more than a year ago, that broke down the last barriers."

"Of the 15,102,733 votes which have been cast," he continued, "11,329,558 were for repeal and only 3,773,175 against.

"While I repeat that credit for this result must be given to the leadership of the President, I want it distinctly understood that no one realizes more than I that the repeal movement was something above and beyond partisanship.

Praises Republican Wets.

"We all know many brave Republican leaders who carried on the fight and dared the reprisals of the dry leaders to defend their principles. We honor them tonight as we honor all the courageous souls throughout the land who have made possible this great victory which will be completed Tuesday."

"Two principal factors lie at the base of this remarkable popular triumph, the successful completion of which I so unhesitating predict for Tuesday," he concluded. "They are, first, a determination on the part of the people to put an end for all time to the terrible dislocation of moral and social values brought about by prohibition, and, second, a realization that repeal is a necessary step in the recovery program."

Both Sides Predict Victory.

Louisville, Ky., Nov. 5.—(AP)—Kentucky—which moved up its repeal convention date in an effort to be among the first 36 states to ratify the 21st amendment to the constitution—was almost ready tonight to express by ballot in Tuesday's election whether it is for or against prohibition.

Except for last minute rallies tomorrow night, both wets and drys have practically wound up their campaigns and both are predicting victory.

Ohio Expects Record Vote.

Columbus, O., Nov. 5.—(AP)—A record off year vote was predicted today for Tuesday's election when Ohio ballots on retention or repeal of the 18th amendment and state constitutional prohibition.

George M. Neffner, statistician in the secretary of state's office, predicted Ohio would cast 2,065,000 votes Tuesday. The forecast was less than 600,000 votes short of the presidential balloting in 1932.

Farley Assailed in Carolina.

Raleigh, N. C., Nov. 5.—(AP)—New York's mayoral contest was brought into the North Carolina repeal referendum campaign today.

On the heels of Postmaster General Farley's visit to the state last week, Dennis G. Brummitt, state attorney general and an opponent of repeal, issued a statement attacking the contention of some repealists that Democrats should vote for repeal as a matter of party loyalty.

Brummitt asserted Farley had bolted the Democrats of New York City by coming out for Joseph V. McKee, independent candidate for mayor of the metropolis.

"If Mr. Farley, our national Democratic chairman, can retain his party standing while voting for a bolter in New York City, certainly a North Carolina Democrat can remain within the party fold while voting his convictions against the liquor traffic," said Brummitt.

Utah Campaign Closes.

Salt Lake City, Utah, Nov. 5.—(AP)—Final counsel to Utah voters on state and national prohibition repeal was voiced tonight by speakers of opposing sides of a heated campaign.

United States Senator Elbert D. Thomas ended his speaking campaign in behalf of repeal at a massmeeting last night in Provo, while in another auditorium in the same city Dr. Herbert W. Reherd, president of Westminster college of this city, argued in favor of the prohibition amendment.

Leaders of opposing camps expressed confidence in victory. "From reports we have received from different parts of the state, the outlook for repeal is most encouraging," said Clarence Bamberger, state commander of the Crusaders, anti-prohibition organization.

Dry forces, headed by John Owmann, former mayor of this city, were counting on the majority they expect from rural districts to overcome the wet vote in Salt Lake City and Ogden.

Repeal of the state prohibition amendment will legalize the manufacture and sale of 3.2 beer in the state after Jan. 1, but otherwise will not affect present state prohibition laws.

Drys Hope for South Carolina.

Columbia, S. C., Nov. 5.—(AP)—Prohibition leaders today called upon South Carolina in the referendum Tuesday "to exercise its right to be right even if all other states are wrong."

Speakers at an interdenominational rally here took sharp issue with appeals for a repeal vote on the grounds of Democratic party loyalty and urged citizens to vote "their honest convictions."

The drive against the 18th amendment reached its climax at a meeting here last Friday night, when Postmaster General James A. Farley, Gov. I. C. Blackwood, Senator James F. Byrnes, and others spoke for repeal.

This and the dry rally, attended by prayer services throughout the state "for the success of the anti-repeal ticket," practically brought the opposing campaigns to a close, and the electorate will deliver its decision at the polls Tuesday.

HORNER APPEALS FOR SUPPORT OF RELIEF PROGRAM

Successful Showdown Seen in Assembly.

In preparation for what he believes will be a successful showdown on the $30,000,000 winter charity legislation when the state house of representatives convenes tomorrow, Gov. Horner sent broadcast throughout the state yesterday a message intended to awaken the taxpayers to the situation as he sees it.

The relief program received only 80 votes in the house on Oct. 25, and only 95 last Wednesday, but the governor feels that it will be backed this week by the 102 votes required to make it effective immediately.

Drys Hope for South Carolina.

His appeal to the taxpayers follows:

"Under the law at the present time, the retailers' occupation [sales] tax after Jan. 1, 1934, will mean a reduction in next year's tax bills unless unforeseen circumstances arise. This will be accomplished by using the proceeds of the retailers' occupation tax as a substitute for the state tax on general property.

"But opponents of the proposed bond issue relief plan, which would be retired by the counties' share of the motor fuel tax in proportion to each individual county's allotment for relief, are determined to prevent the administration from reducing taxes.

Motive of Opponents.

"That motive is behind the counter proposals that have been made by opponents of the bond issue plan. There is no other reasonable explanation for their insistent demand to divert part or all of the proceeds of the retailers' occupation tax for unemployment relief purposes after Jan. 1, 1934.

"Legislators standing in the way of a substantial reduction in taxes in 1934 cannot plead ignorance. They know that their plans would prevent a reduction in taxes, and would compel the levying of a state tax to offset the diversions to relief of proceeds of the retailers' occupation tax.

"How these legislators can justify their position to their constituents, who long have been demanding real estate tax relief, is beyond my power of comprehension.

"Briefly, the situation as it now exists, is this: Some of the opponents to the bond issue relief plan are advocating measures that would force an increase of taxes on general property. They would have the legislature and the administration barter away a substantial real estate tax reduction for the taxpayers for their plan which contemplates an increase in taxes."

REVENUE RISES, CANADA ADOPTS WORKS PROGRAM

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

OTTAWA, Ont., Nov. 5.—With revenue rising because of trade betterment, Canadian provincial and federal governments are moving definitely toward "recovery" programs involving building and road programs.

Tonight the Bennett government has let it be known that a dominion works program is likely, federal revenues being much better than anticipated.

Ontario province, which budgeted last year for a $3,000,000 deficit, has just surprised its industrial populace with report of a $150,000 surplus and announces a $38,000,000 public buildings and highway program.

TEX GUINAN DIES; FAMED FOR HER 'HELLO, SUCKER!'

Night Club Hostess Victim of Intestinal Illness.

General Burleson. Miss Guinan forsook the obesity reducing business and stuck to the stage and screen, appearing in both types of productions.

A few years later Miss Guinan entered upon a new career—that of night club hostess. At that time night clubs, as they were subsequently known, were springing up like mushrooms to quench the thirst of those made dry by prohibition. And Texas made these night spots famous with her familiar greetings to customers of "Hello, Sucker." Besides this she became famous for snappy quips or "wisecracks."

Her first big difficulty with dry agents occurred in New York in 1927 when her "300 club" was padlocked. Many difficulties followed, one after another of Miss Guinan's clubs being raided and shut down. The biggest scrap was the raid on the Salon Royale in the spring of 1928, resulting in her indictment on a charge of maintaining a nuisance.

Texas went to trial in April of 1929 before Federal Judge E. C. Thomas and, literally stole the show. She flashed arms and fingers laden with jewelry, and also flashed ingratiating smiles to judge nd jur . She denied she dealt in liquor, expounded her philosophy on prohibition and night clubs, and convinced the jury she didn't even, in intent, violate the 18th amendment. The jury acquitted her to the cheers of Broadway. Miss Guinan became Broadway's darling.

Hit by Depression.

With this acquittal Miss Guinan reached the heights of popularity on the White Way, but for some inexplicable reason she thereafter began slipping a bit. Perhaps it was the beginning of the depression when the millionaire lists shrank and the allure of the night clubs accordingly faded. However, Texas kept going, opening night clubs, being raided, and opening others.

In the summer of 1931 Miss Guinan sailed for Paris, France, with her company of girls who were known individually to Broadway celebrants by her frequent demands: "Give the little girl a hand." Texas and her girls got to France, but not in it. A government order forbade their landing on the ground they would compete with French show girls. Great Britain issued a similar ban. Texas was mad for a while, but a year later visited Paris on a pleasure tour.

It was in 1930 that Miss Guinan settled, more or less, in Chicago. Her difficulties here almost paralleled those in New York. She opened at the old Green Mill café at Lawrence avenue and Broadway, and was faring successfully until on March 23, 1930, a shooting scrape led to its eventual closing. Miss Guinan returned east.

Subsequently she returned to Chicago and appeared at the Club Royale and at the Planet Mars. On Dec. 31, 1931, with a big New Year's eve clientele in prospect, dry agents closed the Planet Mars to Texas' disgust. Miss Guinan remained here a while after that and then struck out for New York and later Hollywood. She returned to Chicago last winter for an engagement at the Frolics and held open house on the night that 3.2 per cent beer became legal. She left on a tour last spring.

The World's Fair attracted her back, and on July 9, this year, she opened up the Pirate Ship on the Exposition grounds. The show proved a flop and ten days later a receiver for it was appointed. Texas left Chicago shortly afterward. Two months ago she was "converted" at Aimee Semple McPherson's Angelus temple.

Miss Guinan, friends said, was, inherently religious. Seven of her uncles were priests, and the family influence inculcated in her a certain character which saved her, she used to say, from several minor vices. Throughout her life Miss Guinan never smoked or drank.

Texas ventured into matrimony in 1912 with Jack Moynihan, a newspaper man, but they were divorced. Twice after that she was married and divorced.

'PILLBOX' ERECTED TO GUARD THE FRENCH CHAMBER OF DEPUTIES

[Copyright: 1933: By the New York Times.]

PARIS, Nov. 5.—On the quay commanding the approach to the chamber of deputies has just been built a reinforced concrete structure resembling a blockhouse. It is admitted that the structure, raised upon a solid stone emplacement, has been erected to serve as a post for police in event of riots such as occurred recently on the eve of the fall of the Daladier cabinet.

The "pillbox" turret is hexagonal in shape with steel doors. The walls up to the height of about 9 feet are solid, except for tiny slits, which it is suggested might be for machine guns. The upper part of the blockhouse is of glass, with an overhanging roof that gives it the inoffensive look of a boulevard newsstand. The post is connected by telephone with the central police bureau.

There has been much talk of a change of régime in France. Authorities are preparing against a coup d'état by Fascisti or others, it is surmised, but it is more probable that the blockhouse is only one of the measures projected by Prefect of Police Chiappe to aid in the maintenance of order.

AUSTRIA FERRETS OUT HITLERITES IN PAY ROLL ARMY

Dollfuss Orders Shakeup of State Machinery.

VIENNA, Nov. 5.—(AP)—A sweeping shakeup of Austria's governmental machinery under the supervision of a federal commissar, authorized to ferret out and eliminate officials and government employés of Nazi sympathies, was announced by Chancellor Dollfuss in a speech today.

The chancellor said the new commissar would be appointed within the week and would be called "the federal commissar for personnel reform." It will be the government's first move in a new "hard-boiled" campaign against undercover opposition.

"I am astounded," exclaimed Dollfuss, "that in those very circles which always laid such stress on personal honor and moral responsibility, such things as a sworn oath today are taken lightly.

Dollfuss Expresses His Contempt.

"I have only contempt for people who say, 'What's an oath, if it keeps us from being thrown out?'"

It was recalled that last May Dollfuss required all government employés to swear a new oath of allegiance to "independent Austria." Several university professors attacked this requirement as unconstitutional.

Later, during the summer, sweeping disciplinary measures were taken to eliminate Nazis from public life. Many burgomasters were deposed and many Nazis were thrown out of the army.

Apparently all this was accomplished in too gentle a manner, Dollfuss indicated in his speech.

Says People Are Losing Patience.

"Even our easy going and peaceful people can lose patience," said the chancellor. "The time is coming when we will find out who really is for Austria and who is not."

Turning to the labor question, Dollfuss said the workers must learn that the new Austria will be built on a Christian basis, which means "neither liberal, capitalistic, nor a socialistic system."

He said it was a source of strength and encouragement to know that "the Holy Father is following developments in Austria with so much understanding, which is a proof to us that we are on the right road."

Republicans Battle Police with Stones in Ulster Riot

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BELFAST, Northern Ireland, Nov. 5.—Police forcibly broke up a meeting which Republicans attempted to hold here today to protest against the imprisonment of thirty of their followers. Constables rushed the platform and pulled down Harry Diamond, the chief speaker. A riot followed. There were vigorous baton charges by the police. The crowd replied with volleys of stones.

Retired Policeman Found Dead; Three Cats in Home

Michael Reynolds, 78 years old, a retired policeman, was found dead yesterday in his home at 5470 North Parkside avenue. Three cats, his only companions, were in the house. Reynolds was last seen three days ago by a friend, Michael O'Malley, 5300 Lovejoy avenue. It was O'Malley who, unable to get any response to his knocks on the door of Reynolds' house, called police who found Reynolds dead.

TRIBUNE STORIES ON NAZI GERMANY SEIZED ON TRAIN

Crew of Orient Express Burns Package.

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Nov. 5.—A significant light on the force exercised by Nazi terrorism in countries bordering Germany is cast by the disappearance under startling circumstances from the crack Orient express between Vienna and Paris of a package containing three stories on Germany by Jay Allen, CHICAGO TRIBUNE correspondent.

Failure of the envelope containing the stories to arrive in Paris yesterday morning led to a checkup. The investigation revealed that the stories were destroyed by the train crew before crossing the German frontier after a Spanish noblewoman, who was carrying the packet, was terrorized into giving it up.

Offers to Carry Package.

The stories were put on the Orient express, which passes through Germany, instead of being mailed in the ordinary way because it is the only train which could bring them to Paris in time to catch the S. S. President Roosevelt which sailed from Cherbourg yesterday. As the train crew is forbidden by international convention to carry letters and the Orient express does not take mail, it was necessary to give the articles to a passenger.

The Spanish noblewoman, who was bound for Paris, offered to carry the package. But just before the train reached the German frontier the conductor, who had no reason to know that this particular passenger was carrying a message, came to her compartment, warned her that the train was going to be searched and that she would be taken off and arrested if the packet were found.

Terrified by this threat the Spanish noblewoman consented to surrender the packet to the conductor. This individual—he verified the story himself to THE TRIBUNE reporter in Paris—opened the envelope and read the stories. The articles were really an objective study of economic conditions in Nazi Germany, accompanied by such "dangerous pieces" of anti-Nazi propaganda as photos of the Rhine and the Frankfurt cathedral. The conductor promptly declared that the Nazis would arrest every one in the train if this were found. On his own responsibility he then proceeded to burn the packet.

Police Demand Explanation.

An investigation is being carried on in Vienna to trace the extraordinary leakage by which the conductor of the Orient express knew the Spanish woman passenger was carrying a message from THE TRIBUNE'S Vienna correspondent. In this connection THE TRIBUNE'S Vienna correspondent reveals that Austrian secret police had demanded explanations from him as to why he occasionally put stories on the Orient express instead of intrusting them to ordinary mails.

The twofold reply was that the Orient express is the fastest means of transportation outside of the airmail and that since German authorities have publicly proclaimed their right to examine mail in transit it was not safe to intrust important articles to mail service which might or might not happen to cross Germany. This answer was accepted by the police, and the foreign office specifically ordered them not to interfere.

Suspect Nazi Spies.

This raises the obvious suspicion that either the Austrian foreign office, or the secret police, or both, are honeycombed with Nazi spies. Whether or not this is the case, the comical element in the behavior of the train conductor is clear when it is realized that even if the train had been stopped by Nazis he had no responsibility whatever, and that if he had a reading knowledge of English his perusal of the articles would have convinced him they contained nothing dangerous.

The fall chrysanthemum show of the west parks will open Thursday in the Garfield park conservatory at Lake street and Central Park avenue. President Harry Joseph said that the show will continue until Dec. 3. The conservatory will be open from 8 a. m. to 10 p. m. every day and admission is free. President Joseph said that 7,500 potted plants of 675 varieties have been grown for the show. Among the rare specimens are hanging baskets with six dozen plants, a thousand blooms of white, pink, and yellow, and special Japanese varieties with 10 inch florets imported from Tokio.

HANDS OFF! WE DON'T ANNOY YOU! HITLER TO WORLD

Chancellor Repeats His Desire for Peace.

ELBING, Germany, Nov. 5.—(AP)—Chancellor Hitler told thousands, gathered here in East Prussia today, that the hands off policy practiced by Germany in regard to other nations' domestic affairs entitled Germany to the same consideration from foreign powers.

Today was Guy Fawkes day in England and he referred to the gunpowder plot of 1605 by saying, "When persons attempted to dynamite the British parliament they chopped their heads off and they still celebrate the day."

Repeats Desire for Peace.

Hitler again reaffirmed Germany's desire for peace, saying:

"I have seen war with my own eyes—more than many other statesmen can say—and I repeat that Germany desires nothing but to live in peace with her neighbors."

The chancellor said that no one was threatened more than Germany, particularly east Prussia.

"Roastless Sunday" Observed.

BERLIN, Nov. 5—Another "roastless Sunday" was enforced in most of the homes and restaurants in Germany today, with the "hausfrau" donating the money saved by the serving of stews to the winter relief fund. In Berlin alone 69,000 brown shirted Nazis went from door to door and collected $125,000. This was treble the amount collected last month. This day of self-denial will be repeated on the first Sunday in December.

The Berliner Deutsche Allgemeine Zeitung today announced that Publisher Focker of the Socialist Danziger Volksstimme and Publisher Kilian and Editor Dr. Teipel of the Centrist Danziger Landeszeitung had been arrested because they protested to the league of nations against the suppression of their newspapers.

Expelled Writer in London.

LONDON, Nov. 5.—(AP)—Noel Panter, British journalist who was arrested and held in Munich several days before his release last week, arrived in London today. He will go to the foreign office tomorrow to place the facts of his arrest and imprisonment before British officials.

He said he still was waiting to know what offense he had committed in Germany and asserted:

"Although I was interrogated twice by secret police, I was never charged with an offense. We know my arrest was in connection with my report on a review of 20,000 storm troops, but foreign newspapers were never at any time warned that a report of the event was forbidden."

Jews Order Boycott.

Meanwhile, a Jewish boycott on German goods was voted at a conference of 100 delegates representing 180,000 Jews in all parts of the country.

The resolution, which was unanimously adopted, placed an official boycott on German goods and appealed to Jews in all parts of the British empire to abstain from purchasing or using German goods or services so long as the Jews in Germany are denied the status of full equality and citizenship.

A YOUNG MAN'S CONSCIENCE ENDS HIS CHECK FRAUD

Sergt. William Shanley of the detective bureau was sitting in his parked squad car at Chicago avenue and Clark street last night when a young man stepped up to him.

"I want to surrender," he said. "I'm guilty of passing bogus checks."

The young man identified himself as Charles Ongie, 21 years old, of Iron Mountain, Mich., a student. His conscience bothered him, he explained. Ongie said he gave a fake check for $20 to a friend, Gene Ronzani, member of the Chicago Bears professional football team, and another for $25 to Dr. P. A. Nelson, 25 East Washington street.

CAUTIOUS FARM FORECAST FOR BETTER TIMES

Agricultural "Outlook" Report Is Given Out.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 5.—[Special.]—Better times for the farmer were predicted for the next crop year in the annual "agricultural outlook," prepared and made public today by the bureau of agricultural economics assisted by extension economists and specialists from the agricultural adjustment administration.

The better times will depend, the report declared, upon holding farm production to its approximate 1933 level and upon an increased demand coming by way of a pickup in industries using nonagricultural commodities. The farmer, it was asserted, need not look abroad for assistance, but is to win in the domestic market whatever betterment comes his way.

Pointing out that industries utilizing agricultural products, such as the textile industries, have already achieved a "relatively high level of activity," the report explained that "further increases in the demand for farm products will be dependent primarily upon a more pronounced recovery in the output of industries using nonagricultural products, particularly iron and steel.

Rail Purchases May Help.

The authors of the report looked to the use of public works funds in financing rail purchases by the railroads, construction work and naval building as likely to be of assistance in stimulating the key industry, iron and steel, to an upward rise.

"Income from agricultural production, including benefit payments, is likely to make some contribution to an increase in business activity," the report explained. "Gross income of farmers of 1933 has been estimated at $6,360,000,000, an increase of about 24 per cent over 1932. With the further improvement of consumer incomes in urban centers which is anticipated in the coming year, the gross income of farmers in 1934 should show some further improvement. The influence of this higher level of farm income may be expected to increase the demand for industrial products used on farms."

The report expected some of the present disparity between the prices of what the farmer sells and what he buys to be made up.

Expects Rise in Farm Prices.

"In view of the recent market advance in prices of nonagricultural products and the accompanying decline in prices of farm products," it was stated, "it seems probable that during the coming year prices of farm products will rise in relation to prices of nonagricultural products. The national recovery administration program appears to have hastened price advances in manufactured products partly as an adjustment to higher production costs.

"It appears that farmers in 1934 may anticipate a somewhat higher level of prices for their marketable commodities, as well as improvement in the exchange value of their output."

But again, it was pointed out, another uncertainty entered in with regard to future monetary and credit policies.

Costs? That's Different.

The concluding pages of the inch thick report were devoted to the "farm family living outlook for 1933-'34."

"In view of the favorable prospects for further advance in the level of farm prices, the income of farm families may be expected to increase during 1934, and there are reasons for anticipating that this increase will somewhat more than offset the probable advance in the level of prices of the commodities that farmers buy," it was said.

"Even if there should be considerable improvement in farmers' purchasing power, the income of a large proportion of farm families will probably remain at too low a level to permit expenditures beyond the bare essentials of living," the report says.

"In most sections of the country home production programs of emergency proportions will still be required, as a means of reducing the demands upon the cash income."

LINED UP FOR START IN CORN HUSKING CONTEST

Wagons and drivers in the Kansas state championship corn husking meet lined up awaiting the gun at Horton, Kas. The victor was Lawrence House of Goodland and the runnerup Cecil Vining of Baldwin. Each contestant was accompanied by a driver two gleaners who picked up what grain he missed, and a timekeeper and referee. The victors will participate in the national championship event on Thursday at West Point, Neb. [Associated Press Photo.]

MAKE NEBRASKA FARM READY FOR HUSKING DERBY

West Point, Neb., Nov. 5.—(AP)—Mr. and Mrs. Ben Stalp and their eight children were busy today arranging to entertain thousands of persons next Thursday when the national cornhusking contest is held on their farm near here.

Champions of nine corn belt states and the runnerup of each of the states will be on hand to compete for the national title.

Hundreds of well improved Nebraska farms were inspected by the committee designated for the rural athletic event. The farm house, surrounded by spacious barns, granaries, corn cribs, cattle sheds and other buildings, is five miles north of here.

But champion huskers are most interested in corn. When they start the 80 minutes' grind down the corn rows following the explosion of an aerial bomb, they will find they are in a field of yellow corn grown for champions. The contest will be staged in a forty acre field and the 1932 record of 36.91 bushels of corn shucked in 80 minutes made by Carl Sellers of Illinois is going to be hard to beat.

It will be the tenth annual corn belt classic and speed and endurance will be counted on by the eighteen contestants for victory.

While Stalp and his family are making final arrangements for the big event, officials and citizens of Cuming county and this city of 2,000 population are preparing to handle a large crowd of visitors and thousands of automobiles. Approximately 200 Legionnaires have been enlisted to handle the traffic on two gravel highways and at the farm.

TWO NEW YORK MEN ARE HELD FOR AIDING CHICAGO GANGSTER

New York, Nov. 5.—(AP)—Two men were held today on charges of conspiracy to harbor Verne Miller, sought by federal agents in connection with the Kansas City massacre last June in which five persons were slain with a machine gun.

The prisoners gave the names of Abraham Shait, 34 year old truckman, and Herbert Borenstein, 21 year old employé of Shait. Both gave Bronx addresses.

Authorities said Shait admitted he instructed Borenstein to botain automobile license plates and an operator's certificate under the name of "Frank Glaumbeck." He said he did it at the request of a friend.

Federal Agent Thomas H. Clancy said that the license plates were seen Thursday in Chicago on a speeding automobile and that Miller was at the wheel. Clancy said he had information Miller left Brooklyn in the car two weeks ago.

[Tribune Cooking Editor.]

When the last nimble dancer has chased the last song master from the stage of the Trianon ballroom tomorrow at 1:30 p. m. the moment will have arrived for 5,000 and more Chicago kitcheneers to dig out their pencils, edge forward on their chairs, and get to work.

The event is the opening of the third annual CHICAGO TRIBUNE Cooking school. That moment will mark the close of an hour of carnival, dancing, and song, and the arrival, in her stunning stage kitchen, of Mrs. Ida M. Chitwood. This nationally known and widely followed home economist will bring to her "students" a unique and tempting procession of new dishes, quick methods, and practical suggestions for putting adventure and enjoyment into the preparation of the inevitable "three meals a day." The cooking school will be held in the south, west, and north sections of the city.

Appears in Model Kitchen.

Moreover, as if this weren't sufficient excitement, the stage kitchen in which Mrs. Chitwood has promised to work her wonders is quite enough in itself to turn our housewifely eyes green with envy. Striking silver gray and tomato red cupboards, full of the latest in dishes and kitchen equipment, flank a gayly curtained window, a model sink, and a breakfast table and benches which fold down mysteriously from behind one of the tomato red cupboards. Skirt all this with rich yellow enamel side walls and add cooking ranges, electric refrigerator, and Mrs. Chitwood's own array of neat preparation tables and you have a perfect setting for culinary surprises.

The Trianon ballroom, which will be the scene of the cooking school for four consecutive days beginning tomorrow, is situated at 62d street and Cottage Grove avenue. Women from the south side are especially invited, though no matter where you live you will always be welcome at all sessions. That holds for the husbands also. And might I suggest that a kitchen wise male about the house is often a very good solution in times of culinary stress and strain!

Door Will Open Early.

At all sessions of the school the doors will be opened early in the day, entertainment will commence at 12:30, with Phil Maxwell, enthusiastic master of ceremonies, in charge, and Mrs. Chitwood will take the stage at the close of this hour of festivities.

West side sessions of the cooking school will open Nov. 14 for four consecutive afternoons at Guyon's Paradise ballroom, on Crawford, near Washington boulevard. Following this the north siders will have their innings at the Aragon ballroom, 1100 Lawrence avenue, during the final four days beginning Nov. 21.

COUPLE STEAL TAXICAB.

A Negro man and woman yesterday held up Stanley Mikos, 636 West 13th street, a Checker cab driver, and took his machine and $12 from him at 33d street and Ellis avenue.

FALLS AT NIAGARA THINNED WHEN WIND HOLDS WATERS BACK

Niagara Falls, N. Y., Nov. 5.—[Special.]—Visitors at Niagara today were astonished to find the great falls thinned to a skeleton suggestion of their usual foaming beauty. An east wind had held back the flow from Lake Erie.

No one living here now ever saw the falls so bare. The American fall was a very thin curtain, while the old horseshoe had lost all of its water face between the center of the horseshoe formation and Goat island.

The rocks all about Terrapin point and for two miles back up the river far above Goat island were bare and people walked all around the Three Sister islands, while all the other small islands above the falls on the American side were accessible by foot.

Down in the gorge the river was twenty feet below normal. All of the rocky base of the American fall was visible.

SAYS MAN HAS LONG WAY TO GO TO 'PERFECTION'

Pasadena, Cal., Nov. 5.—(AP)—Dr. Thomas Hunt Morgan, world famous biologist, who this year was awarded the Nobel prize for his discoveries in heredity, thinks man has a long way to go to reach perfection.

"As an old friend of mine says," is one of the biologist's frequent illustrations, "'the only insane species in the animal kingdom is man.'

"There is no doubt that man, as an animal, inherits characteristics, good and evil, as do animals and plants.

"I am not so certain that genius is hereditary, but feeble-mindedness is transmitted to the third and fourth generations.

"We have found 600 kinds of characters in the vinegar flies. There are as many types of abnormalities in humans as in flies."

CHINESE CAPTURE TOWN HELD BY BANDITS; 800 SLAIN

PEIPING, Nov. 5.—(AP)—After a relentless all-night battle Chinese special police, armed with heavy artillery, today recaptured the city of Funing, held by bandits for five weeks. Their merciless fire killed 800 bandits and forced the survivors to flee to the hills.

The bandits were led by Gen. Tahaotze, known as the "Big Rat." He offered to mediate a truce, but the police ignored his attempts to temporize and smashed through to victory.

Authorities said they believe the recapture of Funing effectually settles the bandit situation in the Luauntung area.

HEART ATTACK KILLS MAILMAN.

Francis O'Brien, 54 years old, 5412 Gale avenue, a veteran mail carrier, died of a heart attack in his home yesterday.

LIFE SENTENCE OF GEORGE M'GEE MAY AID WALTER

Latter's Friends Use It to Avert Gallows.

Kansas City, Mo., Nov. 5.—(AP)—Friends of Walter McGee, condemned leader of the kidnapers of Miss Mary McElroy, today seized upon a life imprisonment sentence meted out to his brother, George, as an avenue for his escape from the gallows.

"I believe this verdict will give Walter's counsel a strong talking point for commutation of the death sentence," said Mrs. Alberta Brewer, a sister of the kidnapers. "If it will save Walter's life I will be more satisfied."

George McGee, 22 years old, was sentenced to a life term late last night by a Circuit court jury which convicted him of participating in the $30,000 kidnaping of the 25 year old daughter of City Manager Henry F. McElroy.

In contrast with the trial of his brother, at which no defense testimony was offered, George McGee waged a battle for his life.

REPORT BANKER C. E. MITCHELL ASKS TAX PACT

New York, Nov. 5.—(AP)—The New York American says Charles E. Mitchell, former chairman of the National City bank, is negotiating with the government for settlement of his income tax dispute under sponsorship of J. P. Morgan & Co.

Mitchell recently was acquitted on three charges of trying to defraud the government out of approximately $1,000,000 in taxes.

The newspaper says J. P. Morgan & Co. sponsored the proposed settlement by first offering to guarantee $75,000 and later raising the bid to $125,000 to clear Mitchell of civil liability.

Asked if he had made a definite offer, guaranteed by J. P. Morgan & Co., for a settlement of the dispute, Mitchell said tonight: "I refer you to the government." He added that the figures $75,000 and $125,000 were not correct.

Fall at Fair Is Fatal to California Visitor

Frank L. Harris, 51 years old, of Temple City, Cal., died yesterday in the Chicago Memorial hospital of injuries received Oct. 24, when he slipped and fell in the Fair grounds. He had been staying at the Grace hotel, 75 West Jackson boulevard.

SUSPECTED AUTO THIEF IS SLAIN BY POLICEMAN

AUTOMOBILE THEFTS.

Automobiles stolen, 97; recovered, 59; stripped, 9 [from police records for the twenty-four hour period ending at midnight Saturday].

Policeman Edward Breen of the Englewood station yesterday shot and killed a suspected automobile thief. Two companions of the dead man escaped.

The three were pushing a new sedan through the gate of a fenced lot at 6201 Aberdeen street when Policeman Breen, in plain clothes, drove by in his car. They fled as he stepped out to question them, taking separate paths. At the rear of 6237 South Carpenter street the detective fired two warning shots at one fugitive, who kept on running. The policeman then fired the third bullet at him, killing him instantly.

The dead man was identified as Ray Feager, 4518 Lowe avenue, who had a police record as an automobile thief.

The car which Feager and his two companions were pushing had a small cut in the top so that a stick could be used to open the door. This indicated the car had been stolen, the police said. It had no license plates.

RECOVER BODY FROM LAKE.

The body of an unidentified man about 55 years old was recovered from the lake off 90th street yesterday by the South Chicago coast guard.

HIS HARD 'WORK' CALLS FOR BEER; JOB IS ROBBERY

Richard Gray, 19 years old, 615 North Dearborn street, was about to quaff a stein of beer in a tavern at 651 North Clark street last night when Policemen William Kelly, Patrick Fitzgerald, and Cecil Tillman seized him.

"Here I've been working all night and now I'm getting pushed around," complained Gray.

His work, police said, was holding up people. Gray, they said, first entered the drug store at 632 North State street and got $15 and a coat from Irving Weisaman, the manager. Then, it is charged, Gray went to Helen's restaurant at 812 West North avenue and got $8 from the till and a coat from Tony Eichmeier, 1665 Dayton street, a patron. After that he went to get his beer. The coats were recovered. In Gray's room were found letters from Sioux Falls, Ia., addressed to Lloyd L. Long.

and neglect your own physical condition?

You may be extremely cautious about going out in bad weather. Your experience during past winters may have taught you that you're much more susceptible to illness after exposure.

But what inner defense can you offer against the ills that prevail at this time of year? This is what many people are asking. They have an entirely new conception about winter ills. It's as important to build up resistance, they've found, as it is to guard against exposure.

How important to get the factors which increase resistance!

Two, in particular, are helpful—Vitamins A and D. They may be obtained from halibut and cod-liver oils. Vitamin D is also available in Viosterol.

Now, however, a vitamin concentrate made from all three of these sources, supplies people with an abundance of these valuable resistance-builders. Squibb Adex Tablets-10 D.

Each Adex tablet contains 1000 units of Vitamin A and 2450 units of Vitamin D.

Taken every day Adex tablets help increase inner resistance against winter ills. They help you meet the extra tax of exposure and indoor living. Available at any reliable drug store.

FACTOR KIDNAP TRIAL DEPENDS ON EXTRADITION

Await Decision of U. S. Supreme Court.

Cook county prosecution of Roger Touhy and members of his gang as the kidnapers of Jake Factor officials said yesterday, depends on the outcome of the proceedings to extradite Factor to England where he is accused of swindling British investors out of $7,000,000 in stock deals. A decision by the United States Supreme court on Factor's appeal against extradition is expected within two weeks.

Meanwhile federal authorities are preparing to try Touhy and three of his gangsters in St. Paul as the kidnapers of William Hamm Jr., wealthy brewer. Under the so-called Lindbergh law, a federal statute, the maximum penalty for kidnaping is life imprisonment whereas if the gang is tried under Illinois law the death penalty is possible.

Courtney Ready for Action.

State's Attorney Courtney is ready to move for the indictment of Roger Touhy, Gustave "Gloomy Gus" Schaefer, Willie Sharkey, Edward "Father Tom" McFadden, and Louis Kator on the Factor kidnaping charge. Kator is being held here as a federal prisoner and the other four are to be tried for the Hamm kidnaping in St. Paul this week.

Factor has identified the Touhy gangsters as his kidnapers, who collected $70,000 for his release. He is anxious to prosecute them and will give evidence, he has said. But the prosecutors are considering the possibility that Factor may not be here to prosecute because of the extradition case.

A Question of Speed.

In the event of a decision sending Factor to England for trial speed would be required to have him testify here against the Touhy gangsters. He might obtain a delay on a motion for a rehearing, or the government might grant him a stay if a trial were imminent in Chicago, it was said.

Cook county law enforcement officials said they would like the opportunity to subject the Touhy gangsters to a trial in which the death penalty could be inflicted. But whether a case could be made against the gang with Factor in England was a question not answered yesterday.

TOUHY GANG TO BE TRIED

St. Paul, Minn., Nov. 5.—(AP)—Gangdom and the United States law will come to grips again this week over the kidnaping of a millionaire.

Joseph B. Keenan, assistant attorney general, assisted by George F. Sullivan, United States district attorney, will prosecute four men as participants in the $100,000 kidnaping of William Hamm Jr., millionaire head of the Theodore Hamm Brewing company here. On or about Nov. 8 the trial will start in the federal court under the Lindbergh law. The trial of the kidnapers of Charles F. Urschel was the first under that statute.

The four men to go on trial here are Willie Sharkey and August "Gloomy Gus" Schaefer, Roger Touhy, leader of the Chicago Touhy gang, and Eddie "Father" McFadden. They were seized by a rookie Elkhorn, Wis., constable on July 22, after a minor automobile accident.

Federal Charge Quickly Follows.

With their arrest and immediate incarceration, authorities charged them with the Hamm abduction. The government subsequently balked every effort of their attorneys for reduction in the $100,000 bonds for each, so the four have stayed in various jails awaiting trial on accusaations of transportation in interstate commerce of a kidnaped person held for ransom and conspiracy to transport such a person.

The millionaire brewer is expected to be the government's star witness. He had promised, after being released, almost four days after his abduction June 15, that he would aid the prosecution of his captors.

IN SHOOTING

MRS. LILLIAN VENCEL. DONALD TRACY.

Mrs. Lillian Vencel, 24 years old, who formerly lived in Christopher, Franklin county, was found shot to death in bed yesterday in an apartment at 147 West Oak street, with Donald Tracy, 28 years old, lying beside her, critically wounded. He was taken to the Bridewell hospital where slight hope was held for his recovery.

Mrs. Vencel, who was known to neighbors as Mrs. Lorraine Tracy and was asumed by them to be Tracy's wife, had been living in the apartment with him for two years.

Reconstructing the double shooting the Chicago avenue police believed that Tracy shot Mrs. Vencel during a quarrel and several hours later, realizing she was dead, shot himself. This theory was supported by the fact that Mrs. Vencel had been shot in the left side of the head and that she could not have held the gun in position to inflict the wound because she was righthanded.

Under the alias of Donald Eberle, Tracy was questioned by police as a robbery suspect several months ago, but was released. He had worked as a taxicab driver. Mrs. Vencel was a waitress.

DUCK HUNTER KILLED.

Sioux City, Ia., Nov. 5.—[Special.]—Struck in his chest by a shotgun charge, Charles McGee, 22, of Sioux City, was killed today as he started to leave a rowboat after a duck hunting expedition on the Missouri river. He is survived by the widow and a small son.

U. S. DENOUNCES PACT WITH GREECE ON EXTRADITION

Decision in Insull Case Angers Washington.

It would never be possible for the American government to ask us to violate the legal protection offered any fugitive against, the conscience of our judges for the purpose that we may be spared any trouble or consequences. To extradite Insull in such a way would be cowardice on our part."

This view, of course, has nothing to do with the other possibility of expelling Insull by police measure.

Political Leaders Worried.

Whatever will be the Greek reply to the American action, it was evident here that political leaders and those responsible are distinctly worried, and it seemed only a question of whether the situation does not offer too tempting a political situation for the various parties here to exploit.

Lazarimos denied that his interview with Insull had anything to do with the treaty denunciation. He maintained the judges' decision was inevitable under Greek law. Lazarimos, however, said the Greek judges had been against Insull and in favor of extradition up to the last moment and reached their decision only after they secured the deposition of Alex Arsenault, bookkeeper of the Corporation Securities company.

It was this document that decided the judges that Insull ought not to be extradited, according to Lazarimos. This viewpoint is interesting especially because of the fact that, according to the American viewpoint, the introduction of documents by the defense in an extradition hearing is illegal and contrary to the treaty.

"More Lenient" in Greece.

The Greek law on bankruptcy, Lazarimos argued, does not punish one for doing what Insull did.

"I do not say he is not guilty in America," he said, "I merely say we are more lenient here."

Whether Insull would try to escape from Greece or where he would go in case the Greek government did decide to deport him became an anxious problem for American authorities here tonight. He is absolutely free to go where he likes as far as the police watch is concerned. Insull also has an American passport in his possession although it has been declared null and void.

It was learned that Insull might get to Iraq or the Hedjaz or some other of the new countries in the near east which as yet have no extradition treaties with America and again be safe. Insull tonight said he is not planning to leave Greece.

U. S. SENDS CURT NOTE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 5.—[Special.]—In no uncertain terms, the United States government has informed the government of Greece that the latter's refusal to return Samuel Insull for trial in Chicago is a violation of the extradition treaty between the two countries and clear cause for the United States to denounce the treaty and seek its termination at the earliest possible date.

The state department today made public the text of the note which it had instructed Lincoln MacVeagh, American minister at Athens, to deliver to the Greek minister of foreign affairs, as the result of the action last week of the Greek Court of Appeals in rejecting the American demand for the return of the public utilities magnate.

"I am instructed to inform your excellency," the note declares, "that the United States government has learned with astonishment that the Greek authorities have again declined to honor the request of the United States for the extradition of Samuel Insull, a fugitive from American justice."

Treaty Called "Useless."

Then, in language which placed the document in the diplomatic category of "strong notes," the state department message pointed out the manner in which the Greek authorities had violated their treaty obligation and asserted that the Insull case proved the usual extradition treaty to be "useless" when the Greek government was the other party concerned.

"My government," the note declared, "finds it difficult to reconcile this unusual decision with the admission of the competent authorities that the fugitive committed the acts with which he was charged and that these acts are illegal and fraudulent both in the United States and Greece. Without going into the details of the decision, it is evident that the authorities attempted actually to try the case instead of confining themselves to ascertaining whether the evidence submitted by the United States government was sufficient to justify the fugitive's apprehension and commitment for trial. There can be no doubt that the question of criminal intent referred to by the Hellenic government would be fairly and judiciously passed upon by the courts in the United States. I am to add that my government considers the decision utterly untenable and a clear violation of the American-Hellenic treaty of extradition signed at Athens on May 6, 1931.

"Inasmuch as the Greek authorities have now seen fit on two occasions to deny the just requests of the United States made under the provisions of the above mentioned treaty, it is apparent that this treaty, although similar in terms to treaties which the United States has found effective in extraditing fugitives from other countries, can not be relied upon to effect the extradition of fugitives who have fled to Greece. My government therefore considers that from the American point of view the treaty is entirely useless. Accordingly, I am instructed to give formal notice herewith of my government's denunciation of the treaty with a view to its termination at the earliest date possible under its pertinent provisions."

Lindberghs Tour Holland; May Delay Switzerland Hop

THE HAGUE, Nov. 5.—(AP)—Owing to unfavorable weather conditions, it appeared probable tonight that Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh will postpone their flight to Switzerland, which they had planned for tomorrow morning. The couple toured Holland by automobile today. Their Switzerland flight will be routed by way of Paris.

BURY U. S. DANCER FOUND SLAIN NEAR MOUNT OF OLIVES

JERUSALEM, Nov. 5.—(AP)—Joan Winters, the blonde American dancer who was found slain here Friday at the foot of the Mount of Olives, near the Garden of Gethsemane, was buried with simple rites in the American mission's cemetery today.

An American clergyman, the Rev. Mr. Shap, officiated at the services, which were attended by the United States consul and the vice consul. Police authorities said today that their investigations have revealed no further developments in the mysterious murder of the girl and an Indian, believed to be Hyder Abadi, whose body was found beside hers.

The police are working on the theory that the couple was killed by Arab rioters while the man and woman were taking a stroll in the moonlight.

COSTLY TOBACCOS?

ALWAYS the finest tobaccos
ALWAYS the finest workmanship
ALWAYS Luckies please!

Copyright, 1933, The American Tobacco Company.

"it's toasted"

FOR THROAT PROTECTION—FOR BETTER TASTE

One Hundred Million Dollars worth of fine Turkish and Domestic tobaccos are being aged by the makers of Lucky Strike

In fine warehouses like these—open to soft Southern breezes—a huge reserve of choice Turkish and Domestic tobaccos is aging and mellowing. 27 different kinds of tobacco, "the Cream of the Crop"—for nothing but the best is used to make Luckies so round, so firm, so fully packed—free from annoying loose ends. That's why Luckies are always so mild, so smooth.

Studebaker writes a new low price tag!

Startling New Studebakers

From the SPEEDWAY comes their stamina

From the SKYWAY comes their style

TAKE a look at them! Take a drive in them! The whole world of motoring offers nothing to compare with them! . . . They're the finest automobiles that ever carried the famous Studebaker nameplate. Yet their prices are sensationally and substantially under the lowest for which any previous Studebakers have sold!

Quality in every detail!

Impressively long and roomy—marvelously comfortable—superbly fitted and upholstered, these startling new Studebakers are dramatically streamlined in the manner of the most modern transport speedplanes.

The armor-plated, steel-structure bodies are not only exceptionally quiet but tremendously rigid and strong.

Wherever you look, you'll see that flawless workmanship for which Studebaker is world-renowned.

Unexcelled engineering!

You'll find in these startling new Studebakers the kind of stamina, power and reliability that enabled five 85% stock Studebakers to score sensationally in the last Indianapolis 500-mile race when only 14 out of 42 starters were able to finish—and 7 of the first 12 winners were Studebaker powered!

Furthermore, these new Studebakers are a progressive development of those "automatic automobiles" with which Studebaker thrilled the world earlier this year.

You have scarcely anything to do but steer these Studebakers. One uncanny "mechanical brain" after another reduces the physical effort and mental strain of your driving to an almost incredible extent.

History-making prices!

Studebaker has put prices on these cars that will enable thousands of very moderate means to enjoy Studebaker prestige and performance. Come in and see for yourself what these prices represent in value.

Think of it—a Studebaker President Eight for as little as $1045—a Studebaker Commander Eight for as little as $845—a Studebaker Dictator Six for as little as $645! And each the finest car of its type that Studebaker has ever built!

Hear Studebaker's all-star air shows over the coast-to-coast Columbia network—every night from Saturday, November 11, to and including one full hour Thursday, November 16. Kate Smith—George Gershwin and William Daly—Harry Richman and Vincent Lopez—Helen Morgan and Willard Robison's Deep River Symphony—Morton Downey and Jacques Renard.

Continuance of these amazing low introductory prices is not assured. Now is the time to take advantage of them before possible revision upward is made necessary by higher costs of materials.

"The newspaper is an institution developed by civilization to present the news of the day, to foster commerce and industry, to inform and mold public opinion, and to furnish that check upon government which no constitution has ever been able to provide."

TAMMANY.

Whatever happens in the New York elections, Tammany may be observed as the best political organization America has ever seen. By best is not meant moral. Tammany has not been a civic moral institution. It has been best in the sense that it served its members and supporters over a long period of years better than any other political organization in the country. It has polled more votes, which is the first object of politics; it has held control longer, it has elected its candidates, and it has governed the largest and richest city in the country almost unbrokenly. It has withstood scandal, it has collected its percentage on the dollars spent for public purposes in New York, it has been powerful even in nominating and electing Presidents of the United States, it has provided rulers for the city, and when beaten on infrequent occasions it has come back to suppress the reform which defeated it and to resume its business of running New York, collecting percentages, grafting on public money, affecting national politics, and sometimes deciding national issues.

Reform has beaten against this organization and sometimes has downed it. But it comes back. It knows how to manage the great metropolitan democracy of New York City. By managing this democracy, in getting the votes it needs, it has access to the public treasury, levies upon it and supports its workers and spreads its influence into the affairs of the nation. Its critics rise and pass away and Tammany remains. Its record and its work do not lead to counsels of despair necessarily, but its history certainly will stamp prudence upon the thoughts of Americans who would crowd government beyond the field of endurable operations.

Tammany must be regarded as an enduring source of American government. It is the model for every political organization the country over. Not all of them can achieve its success, but all would like to. Its methods are the most successful that have been applied in the American science of government. They are most successful in putting men in office and they are most successful in making a majority of the voters like what they get. They are the most successful in getting for the politicians what they want. That is a source of government which the United States has been unable to escape so far, and it is the element which must be taken into consideration whenever government ideas are studied. These ideas are not carried into effect in a vacuum. In the end they come back to the source of government, and many wise men still think with Jefferson that the best government is the least government.

RIGHT IN GOOD OLD LONDON.

When money, gold, or other property of great value and small bulk is taken from one place of deposit to another in an American city the removal is generally in an armored car and the guards have their weapons ready. Americans have been accustomed to the sight of this armed and armored protection moving in otherwise peaceable and crowded streets. People have smiled to see the apparent concession to the power of lawlessness, but the fact is recognized that swiftly moving gangs of criminals can raid a treasure in the very heart of a city in midday much more easily if protections are neglected than they could get at the same treasure in the still of night by old fashioned stealthy yegg methods.

Foreign cities have been slow to recognize changed conditions, probably because their criminal elements have not been quite smart enough or daring enough to take advantage of opportunities. Americans will smile when they read that a raid in London netted the robbers $60,000 in gold because the treasure was being carried through the streets in a miscellaneous load of cartage in a one horse dray, in charge of a teamster and his assistant. The teamster, making a round of deliveries with the gold as an incidental package, stopped to leave some parcel and his dray was seized by robbers stepping from an automobile.

If the American display of armed force seems a bit ridiculous to foreigners who observe it, nothing could appear more naïve than the dispatch of a small fortune in a box as if it were so many pounds of beans. It is magnificent trust in the majesty of law and the respectability of the criminal class, but it is slightly overdone even in London, where the conventional burglar is still supposed to be a good man of family with the highest respect for the church and the law he undertakes to violate.

POLITICS IN BANKING.

Banks that are able to withstand official pressure in our opinion owe it as a public duty to refrain from issuing preferred stock to be held by the federal government as security for government aid. The eventual consequence of this proceeding must be to bring the conduct of banking within the decisive control of the central government. It means, in short, that American banking will become a function of national politics and its policy and practice controlled by political and not financial considerations. Whatever the weakness disclosed in the conduct of banks in recent years can and should be remedied without surrendering banking to the domination of politicians.

THE ISSUE IN THE LEGISLATURE.

Gov. Horner has predicted success for the relief bond authorization now pending in the legislature. Citizens of Illinois who have followed the debate on the proposal in the legislature are very nearly united, we believe, in the hope that the governor's forecast will be proved correct. The alternative is intense suffering on the part of many thousands of families in the state.

The most telling argument against the bonds has been the charge that the relief administration in the past has been extravagant. It does not follow that there will be extravagance in the future. Obviously it is becoming increasingly difficult to obtain money for relief and appreciation of the difficulty is sharpest in the minds of those who will administer the funds to be derived from the bond issues. They know better than any one else can that now, and for the indefinite future, the aim must be to make the available funds go as far as possible.

In the belief that the administration is determined to conduct its relief activities with a maximum of economy, citizens have approved the bond issue program and expect their representatives in the legislature to vote for it.

SAVED BY A SLOGAN.

The big frolic at the Fair Nov. 8 is expected to broach 2,000 barrels of free beer. The committee on entertainment is looking for 200,000 free sandwiches. The drys viewed the plans with dismay. Probably circumspect people of a broader view of life had a doubt or two as to the propriety of so much Gambrinus on the Santa Claus side. There was protest and a compromise.

Occasionally the slogan ways of the American people appear as naïve as they are inevitable. There is an indomitable spirit of reliance upon a good phrase to control an event and direct an outcome. There is almost a voodoo significance given to the magic of a few suitable words. The phrase first proposed for the frolic was Personal Liberty day. Its meaning was to be heightened by what is in the general expectation already recognized as a fact. On Nov. 7 three more states will be added to the repeal list and the necessary thirty-six will have been obtained. The opposition to beer, failing to make headway against the 2,000 free barrels, centered upon a demand that the slogan be changed. This was granted and the day we celebrate will be Personal Responsibility day. Thus everybody is satisfied. One side gets the beer, the other gets the slogan. Between the two the grateful citizenship should be able to be both satisfied and dignified. John Coughlin seems to be master of ceremonies. Nevertheless, the donors of the free beer and cakes appear soft in the head. To John, as the people's tribune, a Roman holiday is an old County Democracy picnic.

CRACKING DOWN ON FORD.

An official of the NRA remarked the other day that if Henry Ford failed to conform to the code of the automotive industry the license provision of the recovery act would be applied to him. As Henry Ford is a pioneer of high wages and shorter hours, it is not likely that he will be found at fault in respect of these substantial objectives of the recovery act. But the threat of punishment for insubordination is not inspired by a passionate concern for Mr. Ford's employés. The objective, we suspect, is the domination of industry by the government—that is, of the Democratic machine. This official says that if the President decides to exercise his authority under section 4 of the NRA act, "the manufacturer would not be permitted to manufacture automobiles until he had taken out a license or he would be subject to fine and imprisonment," and he adds that "when the license is issued Mr. Ford would be placed under the same provisions he is attempting to escape by refusing to sign the NRA code."

This threat will suggest to American newspapers that if an industrialist with a record like Henry Ford is to be disciplined in this way there is little assurance that newspapers will not be subjected to the same pressure regardless of the fact that their conditions are at or above the present official standards in wages and hours of labor.

The Ford controversy is of first rate importance in separating the economic and political objectives of the NRA experiment.

Editorial of the Day

COMMON SENSE IN INDUSTRY.

[The State Journal, Lansing, Mich.]

Ought a business summarily be abolished because it cannot pay an altogether satisfactory wage? The problem is not a remote nor purely theoretical one. Some phase of the question is all about us nearly every day.

Within recent days a Detroit attorney, representative of strikers, was quoted thus:

> We will not permit ourselves to be put in the position of having failed to do everything in our power to adjust this controversy, even if we are convinced that the only thing that will win the right of the men to a decent living is their own power to compel the employers to give in!

The plain inference is that any business can be made to yield such a living as those who draw pay from it desire. Another implication is that plain selfishness on the part of the factory management stands in the way.

Against the foregoing put the facts developed at a recent NRA hearing in Washington. There was a certain business making a popular 5 cent article. Its representatives went to Washington when the NRA came into being, and along with others complied with the code. The management of the business tried under the code, found they could not make a go of it under the new conditions, and so closed down, throwing 7,000 men out of work.

More recently representatives of the closed business, representatives of those employed by the business when running, and influential citizens of the little city where the business was conducted went to Washington and asked for a rehearing.

It was pointed out and agreed that the article manufactured could not be sold in any large way for more than 5 cents. It was one of those articles which might be termed of nickel appeal. Management and workers alike recognized the price limitation. The officials at Washington before whom the matter was brought consented to the resumption of business at a scale of wages permissible under the income. This permission did not carry out the NRA theory, but practically every one concerned felt that a common sense concession had been made.

It is true, no doubt, that some undertakings, if continued, would afford such abysmally low wages that the undertaking might better be abandoned. Nevertheless, such exceptions by no means dictate that every business which cannot come up to a high standard of wages should be closed down and abolished. Quite a degree of common sense must be used in dealing with present situations.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

Hew to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

ANOTHER REVOLUTION is impending in Cuba. That is, it was impending according to the Saturday tidings received from Havana. Of course, by this time, for Saturday was two days ago, they may have had half a dozen revolutions down there. The tourist season is beginning now, and most of the Americans have grown so tired of looking at Morro castle and sitting around Sloppy Joe's that they don't get a kick out of anything down there any more except the revolutions. The Cubans plan to hold them regularly twice a week, Tuesdays and Fridays; matinées Wednesday and Saturday afternoons. Free beer every Friday and rain checks given if the regular performance is postponed.

SONNET.

Beyond the summer and the seasons' prime,
Beyond the winter and the waning rays,
Inviolate, beyond the touch of Time,
I keep one hour of one immortal day
When Love unveiled, with sudden, splendid pride, Stirred at my heart and cred: "Look up, and see;
Empire and Destiny are at your side;
Life, and the things that have been and shall be;
Death, and the things that will not be again;
Earth, and the springing of the early flowers;
Sorrow and hope and ecstasy and pain;
Hours that are flashes, moments that are hours . . ."
Wondering I looked and said: "Can these things be?"
And it was your dear eyes that looked at me.

DOROTHY KISSLING.

THE ILLINOIS LIQUOR COMMISSION, which is trying to decide how we're going to do our drinking after prohibition gets the gate, hasn't made up its mind yet. But one thing seems certain; there will be drinking or moaning at the bar. People who want hard likker will have to sit down at a table and order something to eat, a chop or a steak, or something like that. So we may as well get all set for a Kentucky breakfast. Frederick Philip Stieff in his cookbook, "Eat, Drink, and Be Merry in Maryland," tells what a Kentucky breakfast is.

"A Kentucky breakfast," says the host, "is a big beefsteak, a quart of bourbon, and a houn' dawg."

One of the guests will ask: "What is the houn' dog for?"

The host then replies:

"He eats the beefsteak."

PROGRESS IS BEING MADE (copyright owned by F. D. Roosevelt, Washington, D. C.) on the Linebook for 1933, but we're no miracle men either, and with everything else out of joint in these times, the Linebook publication date will fall a week later than usual this year. However, you'll get it in plenty of time for Christmas, always provided you get it before the first, last, and only edition is sold out, which a lot of you procrastinators don't, no matter how much I tell you to order all you want early. But I'm a man of infinite patience and I'll probably warn you over and over again this year, just as I've been doing for the past ten, and a lot of you will wait again this year just as you've been doing for the past ten, until the Linebooks are all gone, and then you'll come and weep on my shoulder because you can't buy a 1933 Linebook anywhere for love or money, and what to do, what to do? What I'll do will be to lend you a nice big hanky, so what? But not crossing bridges before we get to them, what's the use? Right now the Line office looks like the dangerous ward of a psychopathic hospital after a patient has escaped from his straitjacket: The Linebook of 1933 is being assembled! As usual, we're trying our best to put in all the things that all of you want in it, and where we don't it's only because only so much will go in 64 damn pages after all. Still, we're trying our best, and will up until the last minute, to get everything you want into it and, failing that, the things that the greatest number of you want. And I hope, when the Linebook of 1933 appears on December 8th, that you'll be as pleased with it as you've been so good as to be always heretofore, and—well, that you'll like it, that's all.

MR. LA GUARDIA says Mr. McKee, one of his rivals in the campaign for mayor in New York, is a grafter, a party hack, and extravagant. Mr. McKee says Mr. La Guardia is a communist, a liar, a demagogue, and reckless and irresponsible. It's a good thing the election is tomorrow. In a few more days the candidates might get a little rude.

SO YOU WROTE VERSE.

So you wrote verse—I find it new (Twas much the same as mine),
But that was many years ago,
A half forgotten time
When I admired you on the screen,
And wished that I could grow
Into a woman such as you—
So lovely, languid, slow.
Now you are dead, and I explore
Words written by your hand;
Our paths have crossed in several ways,
But you would understand.

OVERCOMING BASHFULNESS.

DR. FRANKLIN H. MARTIN, secretary of the American College of Surgeons, tells the story of his life in the first volume of "The Joy of Living." In this recital there is much food for thought in this period when so many parents consider that their children face insurmountable difficulties.

Young Martin's father went into the army in the civil war in spite of his wife and two small children and an empty cupboard at home. He died while a soldier and thereafter the widow had to care for her family out of the pension and the small sums she could earn. Young Martin got an education of a sort by his own efforts, working his way through medical school as he had done when going to school in the country.

Our interest lies in Dr. Martin's recital of how he overcame a personality difficulty. There are many thousand people who have the personality trouble that affected young Martin, but not all of them are successful in overcoming their trouble. Writing of himself in his early adolescence he said:

"It pained me to meet strangers. I was tongue tied in their presence. . . . I was paralyzed with bashfulness. . . . My diffidence was painful not only to me, but it distressed my relatives and friends. I was as much embarrassed because I disappointed them as at my own personal misery. . . . It was a type of insanity that I struggled long and persistently to master. In my mind there was a determination to force myself to do or attempt to do the thing that I naturally shrank from doing. Hence I developed an appearance of bravado and brusqueness, an unpleasant brusqueness."

Those who know Dr. Martin agree that he has never routed this bashfulness and timidity from his personality makeup. Perhaps it was too intimately woven into his fabric to make that possible. But by patient, persistent training he has developed compensating qualities that have antidoted his weakness. Instead of yielding to his inate urge he faced his trouble and strove to train himself out of it. The battle that he put up against his shortcoming was one of a series which served to make out of the timid, bashful boy a man of courage, determination, decision, aggressiveness, and self-reliance. Balancing the harm against the good that this inherent personality weakness has brought about Dr. Martin should hold it an asset, even though possessing it was as unpleasant as holding a bear by the tail.

The key to his success is found in: "There was a determination to force myself to do or attempt to do the thing I naturally shrank from doing." No effort to run away from unpleasantness was there. And trying to escape the unpleasant, by fair means or foul, is one of the fruitful sources of diseased personality.

WHY THEY GET FAT.

Mrs. M. W. writes: Why do some women, when they reach middle age, develop such large abdomens and get so out of shape, and what can they do to prevent it?

I saw a woman this morning who complains that her health is bad, yet she is too fat, her abdomen is too large, and she is all out of shape. Do they eat too much, or what causes this deformity?

REPLY.

The usual reason is overeating and underworking. In some instances it is due to a disorder of an endocrine gland, such as the pituitary, the thyroid, or the gonads.

KEROSENE WILL DO IT.

Mrs. R. writes: Is there anything that will kill parasites in the head?

REPLY.

Yes. Kerosene will do it in short order. However, remember these facts: First, lice run from kerosene. They take refuge elsewhere and return when the coast is clear. Second, a head that has been depopulated is often restocked by some kind neighbor. Third, after use of kerosene the hair must be washed with warm vinegar and then combed with a fine tooth comb else the restocking services of a friend may not be required

ALIMONY PAYMENTS.

Villa Park, Ill., Nov. 1.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—I am divorced and am making $90 per month. I have a court order to pay $10 per week. 1. The boy is 16 years of age. 2. How long do I have to pay and how can I get this reduced? I have no money and am in arrears. J. D.

1. We assume that your payments are for the support of your son.

2. Your obligation depends on the wording of the court order. If it referred to your son as a minor there probably is a basis for an implication that your payments will continue until the boy becomes 21 years of age, unless you secure a modification of the order by satisfying a court that the boy is able to support himself, or that your own circumstances have changed.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

JUDGMENTS.

Ingleside, Ill., Nov. 1.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—1. Is a judgment rendered by a judge in the Appellate court on Jan. 12, 1928, outlawed by the statute of limitations? This judgment was against an estate for services rendered. 2. If not, is it outlawed at seven years, or at any time, and what must be done to renew this judgment? C. H. H.

1. The limitation period on judgments is twenty years, but a claim against an estate might be no good if the assets had been dissipated.

2. After seven years it ceases to be a lien and if you wish to have a lien you should take steps to revive the judgment. It probably will be advisable to employ an attorney.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

DEPORTATION.

Chicago, Nov. 1.—[Friend of the People.]—If a man and wife come from Canada to the United States under a false name, but pay their head tax, can they be deported? They have been here ten years, but have used their true name since arrival. What would be done about their two children born here? Could they be deported if the father is working, although they have been supported by both county, city, and relief agencies for the last two years? The man is English and the wife Canadian. H. T.

You are advised that an alien who entered the United States under a false name prior to July 1, 1924, and who has since continuously remained in the United States, may not be deported at this late date if there are no other irregularities. Children born in the United States remain citizens thereof unless and until some other nationality is acquired by them. United States citizens are not subject to deportation.

District Director of Immigration.

FROM ACROSS THE SEA

BY NORMAN INGREY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SANTIAGO, Chile.—Approximately $500,000,000 of American traders' credits are frozen in South America. How to thaw them is one of the most important and urgent tasks for the newly appointed ambassadorial representatives of President Roosevelt.

Official negotiations are taking place with a few of the powers, notably Argentina and Brazil. Informal discussions are being held with others, but little progress has been made.

Both sides are oscillating between the compensation treaty idea and the proposal to "wait and see" if trade improves. Meanwhile, the release of these funds is blocked.

Millions Await Conversion.

American blocked pesos belong principally to operators of electric, telephone and other public utilities, gasoline distributors, construction companies and general importers. Millions of these pesos remain in American branch or national banks awaiting conversion. More millions, especially in Chile and west coast republics where the danger of depreciation is enhanced, have been invested in local industrial stocks and in the acquisition of farming estates.

Where the frozen money has been left in the banks the governments are scheming to drive it out again to develop local industry and trade. No interest is paid and parliamentary maneuvers to tax the funds are the order of the day. Little assistance is forthcoming to enable their transfer for the payment of back debts.

An Open Question.

A canvass of American trading opinion in Rio de Janeiro, Buenos Aires and Santiago reveals that it is now almost an open question as to whether holders of blocked milreis and pesos would enjoy an immediate compensation agreement or would prefer a gradual thawing of their frozen credits by waiting for a general trade improvement which many of them believe is at hand.

The flow of specialized Brazilian and Argentine products to the United States is beginning to increase. As it increases more pesos flow with them. They are converted into dollars to pay merchant debts at home. American traders in the Argentine prefer to see conversion this way than by any such agreement as the British made to lend their own money to enable the Argentines to pay them back.

FRIEND OF THE FARMER

[Inquiries on farm management, financing or governmental regulations addressed to this department must be accompanied by stamped, addressed envelope for reply.]

C. S. F. asks: Where should I sign up to participate in the government's corn and hog reduction program recently announced? Will I have to write to Mr. Wallace?

Answer: Details of the corn and hog reduction program have not been organized or announced sufficiently to indicate how farmers may begin to participate. We advise you to keep in touch with your county farm adviser and to read news announcements from time to time. It may be expected that the plan will shortly be placed in effect.

P. L. asks: How much federal bonus money has been distributed to tobacco growers?

Answer: The amount to date reported to have been distributed to growers of cigar tobacco is approximately $230,000. About 2,100 growers in Ohio, Illinois, Wisconsin, Pennsylvania, Connecticut, Massachusetts, New Hampshire, and Vermont participated in this first payment for cigar tobacco acreage reduction.

HOUSING.

Chicago, Nov. 3.—The proposed government building of flats to be rented at $9.50 per room is, in my view, a hardship on property owners, who have thousands of empty flats now, and it would take just that much more money away from them when they don't get enough revenue to meet their taxes as it is. Everybody seems to agree that flats renting at $3 to $5 per room are vacant all over the city, and more that are rented are occupied by people who owe many months of rent. Could that amount of money not be used for other projects that don't throw more hardships on property owners? C. BELLION.

FROM ANOTHER PROPERTY OWNER.

Chicago, Nov. 3.—The savings of my lifetime are invested in a three flat building and a couple of vacant lots. Other minor investments in stocks and bonds are worthless.

No, this is not a case for the home finance department. I am not in a condition of immediately losing my real estate, but the house building projects undertaken by Mr. Ickes of the public works department will soon place me there.

No class of people were more cruelly hit by the depression than the property owners, and the only hope left to those comparatively few who have weathered the storm was the expectation that there would come a shortage in building so that rents would pay at least the upkeep and that there might ensue a possibility of selling.

Now the government is starting wholesale building projects when probably one-fourth of the apartments are vacant.

Of course we little owners cannot compete with the government in low rentals, as our buildings were not erected with "easy money" or with low taxation and rate of interest.

Will the kind government take over our small buildings before we lose them?

What price ownership? Apparently that is taboo, as well as many other privileges of our glorious lost republic.

Mr. Ickes cannot know what injustice he is perpetrating. S. A. R.

PLEA FOR THE ADMINISTRATION.

Hammond, Ind., Oct. 29.—My voice is only one of the multitude, but I say give the NRA and Roosevelt a chance. He may not be dead right on all his plans, but at least he's trying. Isn't that more than the powers that be have done in the past? JANET E. JONES.

THE HIGHER PRICE OF FLOUR.

Chicago, Nov. 2.—I wonder why so much fuss is being made about the price of milk advancing one cent. Nothing is being said about the price of flour and bread. The price of flour has been almost doubled, still no comment other than better times are on the way. Why not so with the milk price? The farmers received a fair advance in their price of milk. Are they getting as fair an advance in their price of wheat? MRS. O. P.

ADVENTURE.

Cicero, Ill., Oct. 30.—I am a 20 year old lad. Since leaving school I have buried myself in books, studying philosophy, psychology, history, geography and particularly romantic literature. I have also studied the youth of all ages and compared those of the present with others of the past. By this study I have come to the conclusion that the restlessness and discontent of all young people is loss of adventure. Personally I feel this lack of romance and try to find satisfaction in the reading of the romantic classics. It is my opinion that the greatest romantic age was that between the 17th and 18th centuries. I do not intend to submit to the standardization process. On the contrary, I am fighting it single handed and I have a plan whereby all boys of the same opinions will help me as well as satisfy their natural leanings toward adventure.

I am going to organize a club to be known as the Adventure club, composed of Chicago boys. By a monthly club fee I intend to rent a home as our headquarters, to contain a room for discussion; a room for games, a music room where fellows may sing real songs, not croon love songs; a reading room full of adventure books and magazines, of adventure pictures, a pirate ship or a south seas scene. Everything about the place will suggest romance. In the basement we will have a workshop where we can make various machines and contraptions of our own design, boats, etc.

We will go on long hikes, exercise for physical perfection. We'll be patriotic. In summer we'll camp in the west or sail on the lake. When we increase our prestige and financial resources we can sponsor expeditions and exploring parties to South America and possibly the orient. As soon as the club is organized I intend to take a vote for the club hero. Each member will name the one who in his opinion is the greatest adventurer. JOSEPH C. MANKO, 1901 South 57th court.

DISCREET BUT DISLOYAL.

Chicago, Nov. 1.—Your very discreet but very obvious and very disloyal opposition to the NRA and to the efforts of President Roosevelt to restore economic prosperity have aroused the indignation of a great many of my friends, and both for them and myself I wish to protest against your policy. Open, honest, and friendly criticism and suggestion are quite admirable, but subtle derision and disparagement such as have appeared in THE TRIBUNE columns for the last four or five months are not only unpatriotic in the extreme but even contemptible. Are you too Republican to be patriotic? C. L.

PROTECTION OF JURORS.

Chicago, Oct. 29.—Do you not think that your paper, with reputation and prestige, could and should agitate for the private examination of jurors by the judge or some one with sufficient authority so as to avoid the embarrassment and dangers to jurors or their families, especially in criminal cases? 21,000 ATTEND GREAT FOREIGN MISSIONS RALLY

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

The orient may repay America's foreign missionaries by sending Christians to complete the evangelization of this country.

This was the challenge to western Christianity made yesterday by Dr. E. Stanley Jones, noted missionary to India, in an address before an audience of 21,000 in Chicago Stadium.

Leaders called the meeting the greatest Protestant rally ever held for a definite cause. Dr. Jones' address was the first event in a series of missionary conferences under joint auspices of the Chicago Church federation and the United Foreign Missions conference of North America. The conferences will continue throughout today and tomorrow, principally at the Chicago temple.

"Saints Evenly Divided."

"Protestant Christians," Dr. Jones said, "are of all people most united at the center and most divided at the circumference. The saints are about evenly divided among the denominations. If to realize that fact hurts your denominational pride, it may be good for your Christian humility."

Dr. Jones, whose book, "Christ of the Indian Road," is now regarded a classic of modern religious literature, dwelt on the theme that the "uncompleted task of the evangelization of the United States" could well fall to oriental Christians.

"Christian missions are not the result of a fussy desire to regulate other people's souls, though there has been a good deal of that," said Dr. Jones. "The reason is that we've told all our young people as they graduated from college that they were to go out and be leaders. The world is sick of leaders; it is perishing for servants. He who became the Servant is the greatest of all."

Tells Purpose of Missions.

Dr. Jones denied that the function of missions is to export America's surplus religion to other countries. On the contrary, he said, the missionary movement arose out of a craving that America should become more Christian.

"Our religion would dry up if we should concentrate it on ourselves," Dr. Jones added. "Our stretching hands across the sea as Christians, in itself, is a gesture of prayer."

Bishop Ernest Lynn Waldorf of the Methodist Episcopal church, chairman of the missions conference committee, presided at the Stadium meeting. He was assisted in the service by Dr. James T. Vaneklasen of Wilmette, Dr. Robert Clements, president of the Church federation; Dr. Joshua Oden, pastor of the Irving Park Lutheran church, and Dr. A. M. McDonald of the Baptist executive committee of Chicago. Choral numbers were furnished by massed choirs numbering 1,500 under the direction of George L. Tenney, president of the Chicago Choirmasters' guild.

3,000 PAY TRIBUTE TO MARTIN LUTHER ON 450TH BIRTHDAY

Three thousand members of Lutheran churches in Chicago packed the grand ballroom of the Stevens hotel yesterday afternoon, and all but filled the foyer as well, to rthe observance of the 450th anniversary of the birth of Martin Luther.

A plea for more spiritual and less mechanical instruction of the next generation of Americans, voiced by the Rev. H. W. Prange of Trinity Lutheran church in Oak Park, featured the addresses by Lutheran ministers. It was echoed in different phraseology by the Rev. Alex Ulrich, president of the north Illinois district, Missouri synod.

A mixed chorus of 400 voices under the direction of J. G. Schmid and Walter Sassmannshausen, accompanied by Erwin Brunn, sang anthems of Bach and Stein, and the Hallelujah chorus of Handel. The Luheran Symphony orchestra of Greater Chicago, conducted by its founder, Andrew Wendelin, contributed an overture as the prelude of the service, and accompanied both the chorus and the congregation in several of the old favorite hymns.

Special services will be held in each Lutheran church to commemorate the actual anniversary of Luther's birth next Friday.

PREVENT PARADE OF 400 MOSLEMS IN CAIRO, EGYPT

CAIRO, Nov. 5.—(AP)—A strong police cordon placed around El Azhar university today prevented 400 Moslem students from a demonstration.

They had planned to march through the streets as a gesture of sympathy toward the Arabs of Palestine who demonstrated last week against Jewish immigration into Palestine.

Jerusalem Still Tense.

JERUSALEM, Nov. 5.—(AP)—Normal outward conditions prevailed in Palestine today after the recent rioting by Arabs against Jewish immigration, but the feeling of tension had not completely subsided. Newspapers are appearing on the streets again and the corps of special constables has been disbanded.

COLOMBIA, PERU TALK PEACE, BUT PREPARE FOR WAR

Active in Upper Amazon Near Leticia.

BY ANTHONY PATRIC.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MANAOS, Brazil, Oct. 27.—[By Air Mail.]—Under the auspices of Brazil's foreign minister, the foreign ministers of Peru and Colombia are negotiating at Rio de Janeiro for settlement of the strife over the Amazon river town, Leticia, which a band of Peruvian volunteers from Iquitos seized 14 months ago, provoking an undeclared war between the two countries.

The aspect is quite different in the upper Amazon where observers see Colombia's propaganda activities and the preparation of fortifications by both nations. Nobody believes in the possibility of a peaceful settlement, and the common saying is, "War is absolutely unavoidable; Peru will never consent to Leticia being under the Colombian flag."

Strengthen Weak Points.

THE TRIBUNE correspondent, traveling up the river, could see that every weak spot along the Amazon and Putumayo rivers is being strongly fortified by one or the other of the two countries. Troops are massed at strategical points and are kept ready to start operations at a moment's notice. The situation gives the impression that both Peru and Colombia agreed to submit the dispute to a diplomatic conference in order to gain time to complete the organization and concentration of their armies.

Colombia is engaged in a steady work of fortification in the neighborhood of Leticia. Huge purchases of stone, sand and cement are made daily in Para [at the mouth of the Amazon river], Manaos, and other small towns of Amazonas state. The fork of the Putumayo and Amazon seems to be strongly fortified, and farther up the Putumayo, Tarapaca is defended by six French "75" guns and three anti-aircraft guns.

Arms Carried Up the River.

Ammunition, airplanes, guns, and machine guns constantly pass through Para and Manaos en route to the Colombian military base at the mouth of the Putumayo. Local banks hold large amounts of money to the credit of Colombian agents, who have made their headquarters in this Brazilian city. Consular representatives are busy trying to enlarge the circle of Colombian sympathizers. Local tradesmen have ceased to worry about the low prices of rubber and nuts, hoping for further military operations and fat profits.

River traffic has increased, especially between Para and Iquitos, due to Peruvian activities. The treaty of 1851, between Brazil and Peru, while not being advantageous as that between Brazil and Colombia, gives Peru the privilege of navigation on the Amazon and there are no restrictions concerning armaments and warships.

There are no secrets in connection with both the Peruvian and Colombian traffic at Para, the customs house being open to anybody. Ocean freighters unload war materials on a pretty large scale and they are shipped on river boats up the Amazon. The only point in which Peru shows less activity than Colombia is in propaganda. Apparently Peru prefers to invest money in guns than in problematic sympathy.

JAPANESE WAR PLANES FLY OVER SOVIET FRONTIER

MOSCOW, Nov. 5.—(AP)—A soviet telegraph agency dispatch from Vladivostok reports without comment that a squadron of Japanese military airplanes flew over soviet territory Nov. 3.

The dispatch said the planes penetrated the soviet frontier to a depth of from 15 to 20 miles in the vicinity of the west bank of the gulf of Amur and were sighter over four soviet villages, namely, Sloviankа, Barabash, Maramorraya, and Ovchinnokovo.

"Among the Japanese war planes trespassing the soviet frontier were eight scouting planes and one bomber," said the dispatch, adding: "Separate cases of such flights have been notice before, but this flight had no precedent as to the number of planes involved."

Denies Knowledge of Flight.

TOKIO, Nov. 6 (Monday.)—(AP)—The war office today denied knowledge of any flight of Japanese airplanes over soviet territory southwest of Vladivostock such as reported by Tass, the soviet telegraphy agency.

LITVINOV MAY GO TO CHICAGO FOR 'REAL U. S. VIEW'

Trip Depends on Time at His Disposal.

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
[Copyright: 1933: by The Chicago Tribune.]

ABOARD S. S. BERENGARIA, Nov. 5.—There is just a chance that Maxim Litvinov, foreign commissar of soviet Russia, will visit Chicago during his trip to the United States to seek recognition from the American government.

This will be his first visit to America and he is desirous of seeing something of the real American scene. He realizes he will get it neither in cosmopolitan New York nor political Washington. Whether he visits Chicago depends upon the time at his disposal. He does not wish to remain in the United States more than a week or ten days for he has many urgent questions awaiting him at home.

No Public Speeches.

But if, as he hopes, he is able to settle the recognition question with President Roosevelt in a few hours and leave the debts and other questions to be discussed later by expert commissions, and if he can complete his necessary talks with bankers and industrialists in New York, he may make a flying trip to Chicago.

He intends to make no public speeches. He will probably accept a luncheon invitation from the overseas writers and may give a brief informal talk on that occasion. He is opposed to any big mass meetings at New York or elsewhere where he fully realizes he would be talking either to an audience of persons already converted to communism or of persons who were merely curious.

He will be guided, however, by the advice of Boris E. Skvirsky, soviet agent in America, and he may be compelled to make at least one public appearance. If he does, however, it will be against his will for, despite the fact that he is one of the ablest diplomatic bargainers in Europe, he is a modest, even a shy man and hates publicity.

Lips Still Sealed.

He continues to refuse to discuss his mission to America and insists he will have nothing real to say until after he has seen the President. There will be some sort of a "handout" at quarantine, but it will say nothing more than the ordinary polite nothings.

The Berengaria ran into rough and cold weather today and the dining room was almost deserted. The Russians, however, are turning up for all meals. Although none of them has ever been on the ocean before, they are proving good sailors.

Litvinov has had several talks with Arthur Garfield Hays, New York attorney, who participated recently in the unofficial inquiry at London into the German reichstag fire. The Russian has not yet converted Hays to communism.

HOPES TO CLEAR CRIMINAL COURT DOCKET IN 2 MO.

Judges Now Work Faster than Grand Jury.

Chief Justice Philip L. Sullivan of the Criminal court yesterday made public statistics to show that he and his associates have been gradually cutting down the pending Criminal court cases to a point where speedy trials of all criminals can be had within a few days of indictment. Two more months of activity such as has been shown in the last month should bring about the desired effect, Judge Sullivan said.

The judges now have pending only 298 indictments which were returned by the grand jury prior to Aug. 4. The chief justice has requested his associates to make a drive this month to clear the dockets of all these old cases, in addition to caring for the current business.

Many Are "Chain Cases."

The chief justice pointed out that the 841 indictments now pending do not involve so much work as might seem to be indicated, because many of these indictments are so-called chain cases, where a defendant or group of defendants may be indicted in a series of 10 or 12 cases. The usual practice is to try one of these chain cases, and if a satisfactory conviction is obtained to dismiss the others or give concurrent sentences.

A comparative table showing the work performed in the Criminal court in October in the years 1931, 1932, and 1933 follows:

Sentenced to penitentiary	165	169	196
Sentenced to Bridewell on felony charges changed to misdemeanors	86	83	45
Sentenced to county jail on charged charges	3	12	10
Placed on probation	81	74	27
Number of jury days	65	77	221
Indictments disposed of	478	563	508

The judges during the last month worked more rapidly than the grand jury. The latter body returned 342 indictments, while the judges disposed of 502 indictments.

To Keep Full Quota of Judges.

Several of the judges have expressed a desire to return to Civil court work, but Chief Justice Sullivan has said he will insist on a full quota being in the Criminal court until the dockets are cleaned up "once and for all." Judge Joseph B. David will start work in the Criminal court this morning, to take the place of Judge William V. Brothers, who has returned to his Civil court.

BASQUES IN SPAIN VOTE ON SETTING UP OWN STATE; SEE VICTORY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MADRID, Nov. 5.—The Basque nationalists are jubilant in the belief that the plebiscite held today in three provinces of their region has resulted favorably in the setting up of an autonomous Basque state within the Spanish republic.

Provisional returns indicate that these members of one of Europe's oldest races are wholeheartedly in favor of independence, but complete results must be awaited before it can be known if the 400,000 votes necessary to approve the autonomy project have been polled.

In the seaside resort of San Sebastian over 90 per cent of the electorate went to the polls, 43,000 voting in favor of independence. A scant 700 voted against the plan. In Vitoria it was estimated the balloting was even, but in Bilbao there was a balance in favor of autonomy. Socialists and left wing republicans complained that the system of control over the plebiscite was so lax as to turn the referendum into a farce. Some republican parties advised their members to abstain from voting, and indicated they may challenge the legality of the result.

OPEN TRIAL OF 2 TODAY IN KILLING OF POLICEMAN

After eleven months of investigation, the last of the pending cases involving the killing of a Chicago policeman is scheduled to go to trial this morning before Judge C. P. Molthrop in the Criminal court building.

The defendants are Joseph Majczek and Theodore Marcinkiewicz. They are accused of killing Patrolman William D. Lundy, a veteran of the city force, on Dec. 9, 1932, during the hold-up of a delicatessen store at 4312 South Ashland avenue.

"There has been a long delay in this case," said State's Attorney Courtney, "but it was unavoidable. We needed time in which to collect evidence. It is now in our possession and we are ready to go ahead."

A recent letter to the Voice of The People department of THE TRIBUNE said that there had been twelve continuances granted at the request of the defense. The records of the case show the following entries:

JAN. 19—Indicted.
FEB. 1—Case assigned to Judge Fardy. Continued.
MARCH 13—Continued by agreement.
APRIL 17—Continued by agreement.
APRIL 24—Continued on motion of defendant.
MAY 15—Continued on motion of defendant.
JUNE 5—Continued on motion of defendant.
JUNE 26—Continued on motion of defendant.

SEPT. 6—Continued by agreement.
OCT. 23—Held on call.
OCT. 26—Held on call.
OCT. 30—Held on call.

Assistant State's Attorney John Leonard Murphy will prosecute the case.

Powder Cleans and Whitens Teeth—as nothing else can

THERE is nothing known that will clean and polish teeth so quickly and leave them so gleaming white—as POWDER.

That is why your dentist, when cleaning your teeth, as you know—always uses powder.

As it is only the powder part of any dentifrice that cleans, a dentifrice that is ALL POWDER just naturally cleans best.

Dr. Lyon's Tooth Powder is ALL POWDER—100% cleansing properties. This is more than twice the cleansing properties of tooth pastes.

Dr. Lyon's Tooth Powder cleans off all stains and tartar, and polishes the teeth in a harmless and practical way that leaves them sparkling—many shades whiter. Free from all grit or pumice, it cannot possibly scratch, or injure the softest enamel.

Dr. Lyon's Tooth Powder keeps your teeth REALLY CLEAN and clean teeth mean—firm, healthy gums, freedom from pyorrhea and the least possible tooth decay.

Once you use powder you will never go back to a less scientific way of tooth cleansing. It leaves your teeth feeling so much cleaner, your mouth so refreshed, and your breath so sweet and pure.

Dr. Lyon's Tooth Powder is not only doubly efficient, but it costs only half as much to use. Even a small package lasts twice as long as a tube of tooth paste.

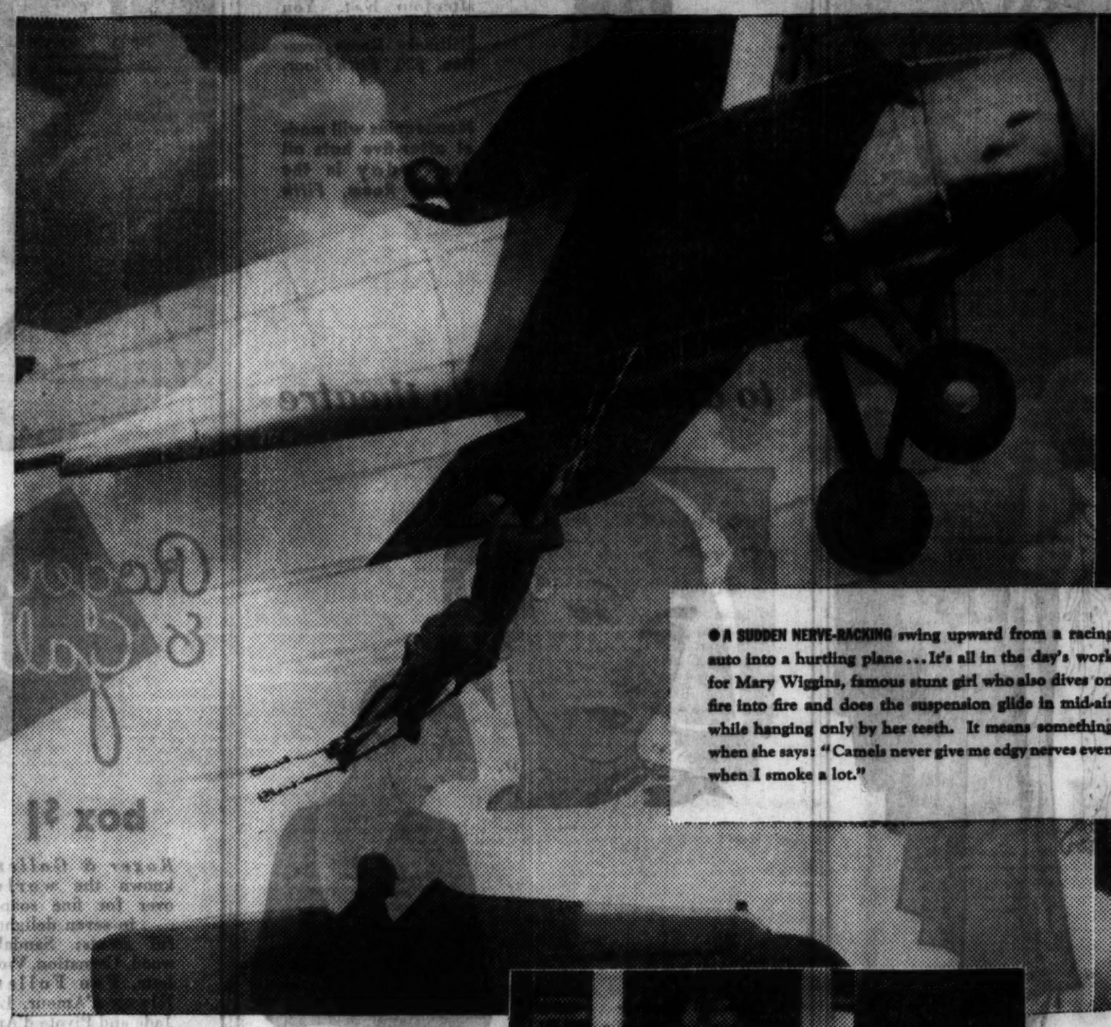
IT TAKES HEALTHY NERVES—



TO BE AMERICA'S GREATEST STUNT GIRL

● A SUDDEN NERVE-RACKING swing upward from a racing auto into a hurtling plane... It's all in the day's work for Mary Wiggins, famous stunt girl who also dives on fire into fire and does the suspension glide in mid-air while hanging only by her teeth. It means something when she says: "Camels never give me edgy nerves even when I smoke a lot."

JOE: I'm so glad to see you, Sue. Were you nervous during your first flight?

SUE: Not a bit. I smoked Camels all the way, and I never felt better! I haven't worried about nerves since I took your advice and changed to Camels.

IT IS MORE FUN TO KNOW
Camels are made from finer, MORE EXPENSIVE tobaccos than any other popular brand.

Steady Smokers turn to Camels

LISTEN TO MARY WIGGINS, greatest of all girl stunt performers, as she tells of her discovery that one cigarette is different from the others! She says:

"I have to be sure my nerves are healthy to do my stunts, changing from a speeding auto to a plane, the high dive on fire into fire, wing walking while up in a plane, and the high-altitude parachute jump. As to smoking, I've found that Camels don't interfere with healthy nerves. I've tried all the brands. Camels are milder and better in flavor. They do not give me edgy nerves even when I am smoking a lot."

You'll like the rich Camel flavor and mildness. And your nerves will tell you the difference there is in Camel's costlier tobaccos.

Miss Molloy Will Be Bride of Southerner

Engagement to Atlanta Resident Told.

BY JUDITH CASS.

TWO dozen of Miss Catherine Pearson Molloy's friends discovered Saturday evening that her usual winter holiday in Miami Beach has been filled with more than passing interest the last three years. At a dinner party at the town apartment of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. David Joseph Molloy, her father announced her engagement to James Dumas Henry of Atlanta, Ga., son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert L. Henry of Miami, Fla.

Fortunately Mr. Henry was able to make a flying trip from the south to receive personally the many and enthusiastic congratulations that came his way. A member of an old Georgia family, he is now engaged in business in Atlanta and will take his bride there to live after their marriage on Dec. 16.

Immediately after telling of their engagement Miss Molloy and Mr. Henry revealed the further interesting news of their wedding date. The ceremony will be a simple affair at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Molloy.

Miss Molloy, a popular member of both the Junior League and the Service club, was presented to society on Sept. 12, 1931, at a tea given by her parents in Lake Forest. Previous to this she was graduated from the Girls' Latin school and then finished at Briarcliffe.

On her late mother's side Miss Molloy is the granddaughter of the late Eugene H. Pearson, a millionaire lumberman of northern Michigan. At the time of the former Mrs. Molloy's death a year and a half ago her generous gifts to the Chicago charities in which she had been so genuinely interested were widely recognized. Among the charities that were recipients of gifts were the Salvation Army, the Volunteers of America, the Boys' Shelter club, the Chicago Nursery and Half Orphan asylum, and the Allendale Farm.

Goult-Sargent Wedding Announced.

Of importance is the announcement this morning of the marriage on Oct. 21 of Miss Mariam Goult, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Otis Goult of Plainfield, Wis., and Haskell Sargent, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred W. Sargent of Evanston. Although Mr. Sargent and Miss Goult were married at the First Methodist Episcopal church of Wilmette, the wedding was such a simple affair and they slipped away so quietly, many of their friends did not know of their marriage until they returned to Mr. Sargent's home this week-end to attend the Northwestern-Minnesota football game.

The romance had its beginning at Northwestern university where both Mr. Sargent and his bride were graduated. Mrs. Sargent finished last June but Mr. Sargent was graduated in 1931, spending the following year at the Northwestern law school. Now Mr. Sargent is engaged in business in Minneapolis where the young couple have already taken up residence.

Give Many Parties for Miss Channon.

Miss Letitia Channon's sister, Mrs. William A. Blake, isn't coming for "Tish's" wedding to Charles Augustus Schreiner Jr., on Wednesday but the new Mrs. Schreiner will see Mrs. Blake in New York before the Blakes sail to spend the winter in Rio de Janeiro, for they do not sail until Saturday and the Schreiners are going east on their wedding trip.

The last week or ten days have been filled with parties for the popular bride-to-be. Last night her sister, Mrs. Roy A. Bard of Winnetka, who is to be her only attendant on Wednesday, gave a buffet supper, and today Mrs. Ralph Mills is entertaining at luncheon. Tonight Harry Drake is to be host at a dinner dance.

Among other who have entertained for Miss Channon are Mrs. Daniel Trude, Mrs. Gaylord Olmsted, Mrs. John A. Graham, the Frank Schreiners, the Leslie Olmsteds, Mrs. John R. Dean, Mrs. William Heagney, and Mrs. LeRoy Woodland.

Miss Channon's other sister, Mrs. Scott Nesbit, is here from Warrenton, Va., for the wedding and its attendant festivities, and is the guest of her mother, Mrs. James H. Channon.

Form College Hockey Team.

It looks as though Chicago will have some grand amateur hockey this winter if a few more players can be rounded up to fill in the team that is being organized by Arthur B. Hellyer and Donald R. McLennan Jr. The team is called the All College Hockey team, and for the present it is practicing at the Coliseum every Tuesday night. The requirement for playing on the team is that the applicant must have played on his college hockey team.

This team is indirectly an outgrowth of the Chicago Athletic association team that did so well two or three years ago. The members of the All College team who played for the C. A. A. include Mr. Hellyer, Frederick McLaughlin II., John M. Simpson, and John Stevens. Other members of the All College team are, besides Mr. McLennan who will not be here to play much longer because his business is transferring him to New York, Potter Palmer III., Harvard; A. Watson Armour III., Princeton; George Moseley, Yale; Gerald Monohan, Pitt, and Gabriel Josephs, Michigan.

"Bill" Morton, Dartmouth, and John Bent, who played with C. A. A. team last winter, are working out of town this winter. The All College team has ten players and it needs about five more. Mr. Hellyer and the other young hockey enthusiasts are hoping that their ranks will be swelled by hockey players from Wisconsin, Michigan and other surrounding colleges

Mrs. Linn Wins Silver Cup at Hunter Trials

BY INDIA MOFFETT.

It was perfect weather for the riders and horses but not so pleasant for the onlookers yesterday at the hunter trials held by the Onwentsia Hunt club at Millburn, but every one had a thrilling time and there were no bad spills, in fact very few minor ones, to mar the occasion. Cars with heaters in them were the favorite vantage place from which to watch the trials for the air was chilly even through a fur coat and the ground was damp even through galoshes.

It was hard to stay in a car however during the thrilling jumps and as soon as one was warm it was a temptation to get out and stand near the jump over which the riders entered the field from the club across the road. When the pleasant odor of hot food was wafted over from the corner of the field where luncheon was being prepared every one began edging down toward the big tent and a huge roaring fire.

And as soon as the morning events were over every one made a beeline to the table where luncheon was being served buffet style. In just a short time all the 120 chairs were occupied and others had to wait for "the second table." The farmers over whose land the hunt rides and their families were the especial guests of the club.

Mrs. Howard Linn Wins Silver Cup.

Three persons won most of the honors in the trials. To Mrs. Howard Linn on her hunter Winway went the silver cup, and to her and Donald B. Douglas, who was second in the single trials, and Laurance H. Armour, who was third in the singles, went first place in the hunter team trials. Joseph T. Bowen Jr., riding Hopeful, the property of Mrs. Edward A. Cudahy Jr., was fourth in the singles and he and his wife and James Simpson Jr. were second in the team events. Mr. Bowen also rode in the team that won third, Mrs. Kimball Salisbury and Thomas Leiter being his partners then.

Fur coats were worn by almost every one, even the riders when they weren't riding. Mrs. William H. Mitchell, who had arranged the day's events, kept on her mink coat over her smart dark blue habit most of the time, but she removed her silk hat and was bareheaded most of the day. Mrs. Linn's smart black habit was covered with a checked tan tweed coat lined with fur when she wasn't riding, and her silk hat was held firmly in place with a large meshed veil. Mr. Linn, who didn't ride, was enveloped in a raccoon coat. He distributed programs.

Mrs. Laurance Armour Smart in Beaver Coat.

Mrs. Laurance Armour, who didn't ride, watched the events from the side in a smart beaver coat, which when unfastened showed a very becoming pale pink jersey blouse and brown tweed skirt. Three young but very interested onlookers were Elizabeth and Marie Hubbard, whose mother, Mrs. Merrill Hubbard, rode and Patty McLaughlin, daughter of the George F. McLaughlins. The Hubbard sisters were smart in dark blue coats buttoned from neck to bottom with small round red buttons and caps shaped like overseas ones of blue with red trimmings. Patty, too, was in blue, not so dark as Elizabeth's and Marie's and more feminine in style. The odor of hot buttered popcorn intrigued this trio away from the trials and down to the luncheon marquee sometime before noon.

Italian Visitors Are Present.

Donna Myriam Potenziani, who has just returned to Chicago with her father, Prince Potenziani, for the closing of the Fair, was escorted yesterday by Col. Graziani who came from Italy with her and her father. Donna Myriam was one of the few women who had been wise enough to wear galoshes. With the galoshes and a warm brown fur coat she looked more comfortable than most of the others.

Among others who watched the trials were Mrs. Dekoven Bowen Phelps in a stunning silver muskrat coat made with a large roll collar tied in front with brown velvet ribbon; Mr. and Mrs. Richard Bentley, L. Newton Perry, Mr. and Mrs. Robert McCormick Adams and their children, Mr. and Mrs. Philip Maher, Miss Theodora Shaw, Mrs. Austin Niblack and her young daughter and son, Mr. and Mrs. Byron S. Harvey and the Milton Morses.

Others were the David Pecks, William E. Clow Jr., Mrs. Donald Douglas, the James Simpsons and their son's wife, Mrs. Simpson Jr. [he was riding], Mrs. Charles F. Glore, the John F. Jelkes, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Hoving, Mrs. Donald Ryerson, the Edward H. Bennetts, Mrs. Robert R. McCormick and Mrs. Henry Hooper who had driven over from Wheaton for the morning events but who had to return there in time for the regular Sunday hunt of the Dupage county hunt in the afternoon.

Good Morning!

Fast work, Fox!

No sooner does the eminent Spike O'Donnell tell the head of a congressional committee how to make the world safe for citizens than out pops this enterprising company with Mr. Spencer Tracy doing practically the self same thing. Only Spencer does it better. [A coincidence, of course, because when Mr. Tracy made the picture Mr. O'Donnell hadn't spoken.]

"The Mad Game" is a plotful and exciting gangster drama, the story of which I refuse to tell you. Only from this typewriter shall you learn that Mr. Tracy, a beer baron—honest as beer barons go—is framed and sent to jail. Being a man of sense and moral calibre, he takes gallantly the medicine dealt him by a federal judge he'd been told could be bribed. He sees the error of his ways, acquires a wholesome respect for his government, and plans to go straight when his term is ended. . . .

Because of his knowledge of crime and criminals and his w. k. intimate acquaintance with a dastardly fellow suspected of being the head of a kidnaping gang it becomes our hero's duty and pleasure to help round up a gang of—but, wait a minute! Didn't I say something about NOT telling you this story? . . .

While Mr. Tracy is himself, he's immense. Not so hot after he goes into disguise. I'd have known him anywhere, and so would the gang he's supposed to fool. As for the girl who loves him—she's smart like I am. She spots him instanter. . . .

Re that girl, Claire Trevor. A find! She has poise and an air. A thin, sultry blonde with something definitely maewestian about her. Miss Trevor portrays a newspaper reporter whose ability to mix and keep her mouth shut results in tough assignments which she fills neatly.

Other rôles are effectively played and direction was snappy. And this, for a fact:

Gangster and patriot alike will be firmly convinced of one thing upon the conclusion of this picture, i. e.:

BY CHARLES COLLINS.

The theatrical season of 1933-'34 began, a month behind time, with last night's appearance at the Grand Opera house of Noël Coward's operetta, "Bitter Sweet." The first nighters of the town, who have been gasping vainly for new shows ever since the Fourth of July, assembled in full force to witness Marion Claire's transition from grand opera to light; to welcome the return of Allan Jones, their favorite "Student Prince"; and to see if that British wonder boy, Mr. Coward, is really clever enough to write the libretto, lyrics and score of a musical romance without giving cause for a few muttered remonstrances.

It was an evening of mixed emotions. We were all, I believe, in a mood to cheer wildly on the slightest provocation, for Miss Claire is a charming, unaffected young creature with the right voice for a melting love song, and Mr. Jones is a debonair youth who can carol like a casual cherub.

But as scene after scene passed by, something seemed to be letting us down. The romance did not charm us perceptibly, and the music passed into one ear and out the other without creating the mood of enchantment. I soon began to suspect that Mr. Coward himself was the responsible party. The British wonder boy, whose name is a synonym for theatrical cleverness, apparently stubbed his little finger when he undertook to dash off an entire operetta [talk, rhymes and tunes] without assistance from any one except, possibly, the anonymous musician who made the orchestral arrangement.

True, the piece has had its year in London, where the folks are kind to British wonder boys who happen to be in the fashion. It has also had a run in New York, as staged by the opulent Mr. Ziegfeld, and has been converted into a photoplay. All this is a part of the theatrical history of the last four years.

Nevertheless, "Bitter Sweet" is not the kind of an operetta that can bring me, panting with eager anticipation, to its revival. Its story, stretched thin through a series of episodes ranging from 1875 to the present, runs in a commonplace pattern, and its numbers too often sound as if Mr. Coward had warmed up a weak solution of the compositions of his elders and betters at the operetta game.

The narrative is retrospective: an old marchioness reveals to a group of jazz-age youngsters the sweet and bitter story of her love-life. This begins in the bustle and polka period when on the eve of her marriage she eloped with a poor Austrian musician. In the second act she is a hostess in a Viennese café, where an amorous army officer kills her jealous husband. In the third act she is a famous prima donna, singing her husband's songs, and is wooed and won by a marquis. A sad, sweet tale, perhaps, but without much of a thrill in it, and woefully lacking in the humorous sallies for which Mr. Coward is renowned.

Hope Emerson, Larry Rich, and Harry K. Morton contrive to win some hearty laughter by merry conduct in the café episode; but in general "Bitter Sweet" fails to sustain Mr. Coward's reputation as a wag. The production is an ample affair, with costumes and stage settings and chorus people in great quantity. As a new girl of the operettas, Miss Claire is appealing, and the romantic Mr. Jones does his talented best to compensate for the lack of magic in Mr. Coward's work.

Front Views and Profiles

HE is a tradesman who is a daily depositor at the Northern Trust company, and he frequently brings his dog inside its august portals with him. The other day, as they walked down the marble floor, past the high-collared elevator attendants and the sedate bankers, the dog gave a sudden, sharp bark, probably by way of protest against the general solemnity. His owner stooped over to whisper to hi...

"Sh-h, fellow. You're in church now," he said.

WE offer as the nicest big city sight of the week the fashionably dressed woman of middle age, seated in the seventh row at the performance of "Dangerous Corner" last Thursday evening. During the intermission she popped a thermometer in her mouth, waited the required two minutes, then nearsightedly took the reading. Apparently all was well, for she settled back comfortably in her seat for the next act.

THE other day a newspaper reporter called a hospital to inquire about a certain patient. She asked the nurse if she might speak with the surgeon in charge.

"I'm sorry, but you can't now. You see, he's scrubbed, and likely to be for some time," she said.

Meaning, of course, that his hands were scrubbed and disinfected, that he was ready to begin to operate, and naturally couldn't handle the telephone.

THE current gag concerns the wire Mr. Hoover is supposed to have sent President Roosevelt, quoting Bert Lahr's radio gag:

"Some fun, eh, kid?"

* *

SLIGHTLY humorous, perhaps, was the plight of a Tavern club member at a recent farewell party for a distinguished member who has gone east to live. Standing with a little group, he ventured the current gag about Roosevelt being like Columbus, because when Columbus started out he didn't know where he was going, when he got there didn't know where he was, and when he returned didn't know where he had been.

"So that's the way they feel about Roosevelt in the middle west," commented a stranger, a little man with a brown mustache.

The member explained that it was just a gag, and that as a matter of fact Roosevelt has warm admirers and supporters out here. Then he turned to another little group and began to talk economics, and after representatives of two large banks joined the group remembered how much money he owed them and broke into a cold perspiration over the statements he had been making in their presence. To change the subject he turned to another member and inquired:

"Who is that little man with the brown mustache who was interested in the Roosevelt sentiment out here?"

"Nicholas Roosevelt," came the answer.

The unhappy member felt a little better, however, when he learned he was one of the Republican Roosevelts, not the Democratic ones.

By NORVAL RICHARDSON

SYNOPSIS.

Sheila, known as "Bun" O'Reilly, an American, makes a comfortable living abroad by helping fellow countrymen out of difficulties. Fred Crawford, a Paris newspaper man, is her friend and counselor. Bun agrees to help James B. Finlay, an elderly, wealthy American, find his young wife, Helene. He wants no publicity. He had met Helene after the war in Bucharest. He had installed her family, the Bobianoffs, in a villa on the Riviera at Grasse. Her brother, Ferenz, he had brought to America. No trace can be found of Helene and her parents since the last time she returned to visit them. Bun's suspicions are aroused by Finlay's niece, Mrs. Craymer. A recent newspaper picture showing Helene standing with a tall woman in a group at Biarritz is the only clue Bun has to go on. That same night Finlay is murdered. The money Finlay had given Bun as advance payment is stolen from her apartment. Finlay's son, Robert, arrives from America. He proves to be an impostor. Bun meets the real Robert Finlay in Cannes. She is attracted to him, but believes he's in love with Helene. She continues the quest with him. The tall woman with Helene in the group picture is identified as the Countess Vernadon, who has a villa in Grasse. Bun and Robert call on her at her dreary villa. She denies knowing Helene. As they are leaving they see a woman fall from a window. Back at the hotel Bun sees Mrs. Craymer, who has appeared at the hotel, drop a note to Robert. Next day Mrs. Craymer is found dead. Fred Crawford arrives at Cannes. Bun's maid, Liberté, had been watching Mrs. Craymer's room and is now held by the police.

INSTALLMENT XXXI.

CONVICTING EVIDENCE.

Bun was so long silent that Crawford looked at her curiously. "I hope my continuity hasn't paralyzed you."

She frowned. "Not quite, Fred. I'm wondering if you really think you've told me anything I haven't been over a hundred times before you came. It's all as simple as you put it. The only trouble is in proving it."

"That's not our job. That's for the Sureté to do."

"Yes. But can they?"

"I'd say they could—with our help."

A knock on the door made them both start. Bun called out to come in. Robert Finlay opened the door and stood facing them. Bun rose quickly.

"You know Mr. Crawford."

"He's just arrived—to report Mrs. Craymer's death."

Finlay's face fell. "I suppose that has to be done." He took a chair heavily. "I've just been answering a thousand questions from those Sureté people." He brushed his hand across his eyes. "It's a pretty grilling experience." He looked at Bun. "I'm sorry—they want to begin on you after luncheon."

Bun's chin went out. "I don't mind. Only—I'd like to know how much you've told them."

"Everything." He answered with obvious despondency. Then, to Crawford: "I had hoped, when I came over here, to keep my father's wife out of all this. That seems impossible now. I've told them the whole story. Strangely enough, they seemed to know it."

Crawford nodded. That's their business. What they didn't have on this side they got from the other by cable. But you may be sure they're not publishing it—nor am I."

Finlay's face brightened. "You mean that?"

"I do."

Finlay grasped his hand in a warm clasp. "Thank you. You understand my reason? If all this were connected with Helene you can see what a scandal it might make. I want to save her at all costs."

Crawford rose and walked towards the balcony. "I don't know that you're going to be able to do that. Everything points to the fact that her family have acted suspiciously. People don't disappear off the face of the earth without some reason."

"There is some reason—a perfectly good one, I'm sure. I've racked my brain to find it. I can't. My father gave them a good income, he allowed Helene to visit them each year, he bought this villa at Grasse for them. What more could they want? It's all incomprehensible."

"It is to us. It isn't to them. As soon as we find out the reason it will all be as clear as day."

A little silence fell over them, broken at last by Bun. "If I'm to be questioned what am I to say about Mrs. Craymer?"

Bun waited a moment. When she spoke her voice was a little unsteady. "Also about the note she threw to you from the balcony night before last?"

Finlay flushed, but his eyes did not avoid hers. "You saw that? I had an idea you had. I knew something had changed you yesterday. Was that it?"

"I realized you were not being entirely frank with me."

Again he flushed, this time looking down. "Poor Cousin Thelma! You must have realized she was a bit foolish. She'd got an idea that you suspected her of something—she didn't know exactly what. When we got back from Grasse that night I found a note from her saying she had a message for me but didn't want any one to know she was delivering it. It was her suggestion that I walk out there on the esplanade until she threw a note down to me. It was nothing important. Here it is."

He took the note from his pocketbook and handed it to Bun. She read it hurriedly.

"The waiter on this floor has just told me that Miss O'Reilly's maid is watching me. Be very careful what you say to her before her maid."

Bun handed the note to Crawford. Suddenly she turned to Finlay. "I haven't been quite frank with you, either. The money your father gave me to undertake finding his wife was stolen from me the night of his death; at least it was stolen from my maid, to whom I had given it for safekeeping."

"Good God! And you've been doing all this at your own expense!"

"I felt it an obligation. I still do."

"But I can't think of letting you——"

Bun held up her hand. "Merely from the fact that Mrs. Craymer used the same scent as the woman who was with the man who robbed my maid put the idea into her head that Mrs. Craymer was the woman. It became an idee fixe with her. Even since then she has suspected Mrs. Craymer and been snooping about to find out something on her. It's ridiculous, I know. I think she realizes it herself now."

Finlay's eyes opened wide, then quickly changed into profound anxiety. He dropped his head into his hands with a despairing gesture.

"One of the things Cousin Thelma told me here was that she was desperately involved—financially."

The moment was one of embarrassment for both Bun and Crawford; they knew so definitely what Finlay was thinking.

Bun rose and rang the bell for the waiter. While she was waiting for him to come she tried to make her voice sound casual. "We all have to have luncheon. Why not have it here—safe from the numerous curious glances of the dining room?"

"It's a grand idea," Crawford responded quickly. "Besides—there's still a lot to be gone over between us."

Finlay also met the suggestion with relief, and by the time the table was set and they had drawn up about it he and Crawford were launched on a series of answers and questions. Crawford went further than Bun had dared do, but his sincere effort to be helpful made what might otherwise have appeared offensive curiosity understandable. The two men hit it off well together. It was easy to see they liked each other. Bun, listening and saying very little, saw the development of a friendship that somehow pleased her. What it might lead to was another matter. She feared, perhaps, complications. But that was part of a very dim future.

After luncheon they smoked a long time in silence. Crawford, more than the other two, showed nervous excitement.

"I don't want you to think I'm idly butting in on your affairs," he said at length to Finlay. "Outside of reporting this case to my paper I'm deeply interested. You know why."

Finlay shook his head.

"It's all on account of Bun. I've got to get her out of it without—well, complications."

Finlay showed bewilderment. "Bun? I don't think I understand. What is that?"

Crawford smiled. "Bun's Miss O'Reilly."

"O, I didn't know!"

"It's a nickname given me when buns were the most important part of life. It's stuck to me. All my real friends call me Bun."

Finlay looked at her gently. "May I call you that, too?"

Doris Blake Answers

Let Actions Decide.

"Dear Miss Blake: I have become friendly with a young man in the next office. I have invited him to my home twice, but he was unable to come. Do you think I should invite him again, or forget the whole matter and keep this 'business friendship'?

"JEANNE."

Unless the chap pays you some attention, I don't think I would extend another invitation to him. Judge from his manner whether or not to keep yours a purely business acquaintance.

Icebox Needed.

"Dear Miss Brown: We have been putting ice in a washtub all summer, but are greatly in need of an icebox, as my husband has just come home from the hospital. There are six of us in the family, and as he had been out of work for two years previous to his illness, we have no funds fo. anything. Mrs. M. H."

Many of our readers have replaced their iceboxes with newer types, and one of those discarded refrigerators would be a great convenience for this family.

GASOLINE ALLEY—A SHORT SHORT TALE

YOU'D HAVE LAUGHED, SQUINT T.N.T. SOCKED AVERY RACHEL, CLARENCE AND UNCLE WALT.
SORRY, I MISSED IT. I SAW A COUPLE OF MOUNTAIN BUCK SHEEP ONCE, BIGGER THAN T.N.T. AN' ONLY A FOOT LONG.
DID THEY GET THEIR WOOL WET IN THE RAIN AN' SHRINK?
NO. I WATCHED 'EM RAM AT EACH OTHER ALL MORNIN'. THEY WAS SORE ABOUT SOMETHIN'.
DID IT HURT 'EM.
WELL THEY'D GET OFF A HUNDRED YARDS AN' COME FULL TILT, HEAD ON. I NOTICED THAT EVERY TIME THEY HIT THEY WAS ABOUT AN INCH SHORTER.
YOU WOULDN'T FOOL ME WOULD YOU, SQUINT?

Film Sweetheart Acquires a New Sophistication

Mary Pickford's Demureness to Be Discarded.

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

HOLLYWOOD.—[Special.]—We are promised a new Mary shortly, a Mary with a 1934 supersophisticate polish in dress, coiffure, et cetera. In fact, I saw this new Mary Pickford at a Hollywood opening recently, with ruby earrings and bracelets, ruby glistening nail tips, a closely modeled coiffure, and dress that bears an advance modish stamp.

But in her Pickfair home, where I saw her on a recent afternoon it was the old Mary who played the hostess, an unsophisticated, simply frocked, simply coiffed little girl that earned the "sweetheart" eulogy. A saddened little girl, a bit on the defensive, like a burnt child, she seemed on first impression in her impressive Pickfair setting, dreading, no doubt, the wound opening concurrent with discussion of her broken domestic life.

Such a little girl in such a big, big house, one comments to oneself. Such a simple little thing against so magnificent a setting. Great wide lawns, flower flanked, and distant mountain views—glorious when all is well, but lonely as a desert when happiness takes flight. The little girl with everything BUT—

Gone within so brief a spell a mother Mary adored, a brother she cared for tenderly, and Doug. There remains, happily, a niece, the child Mary adopted, now a tall, striking brunette of 17.

We talked of the disappearance of what Mary calls the candy box type of beauty that used to infest screen life, the short, stubby faced type given away now to a standard more consistent with today's life—modern, personality charged, smart.

Mary spoke of the advantages denied earlier screen stars of making and changing types with the makeup artistry practiced in studios today.

Mary does not weep for the old days, days. There's far more glamour today, she says, even with finger nails. "I used to think colored nails were the most vulgar sight on earth—only a cannibal would have them. Now they seem part of our far more colorful day."

Mary's blonde locks still have their golden glow. She plans to cut them shorter. We adjourned from the heavenly vistaed outdoor scene to Miss Pickford's faultless French bedroom, done in ivory, deep pile ivory carpet, ivory brocaded bed covers, exquisite French couch and chairs and crystal lamps. Here a dress house representative awaited. A black dinner gown of floor sweeping length, form fitting, with wide shouldered epaulettes, transformed my hostess into the tall sophisticate I'd heard was in the planning.

MINUTE MYSTERY

By H. A. RIPLEY

THE EX-DANCER.

Prof. Fordney flecked the dust from the "figure eight" bandage on the slim ankle of Mrs. Stockton, who, as Maria Marita, had gained international fame as a dancer in Europe. He began to unravel the bandage.

"O! Please, no!" gasped the beautiful woman. "It hurts so much."

"Very well. You say Dr. Barton was in the house when you sprained your ankle and that he bandaged it?"

"Yes, professor."

"Were you carried here to the couch?" he quired.

"But, yes, the pain is so bad."

"Of course you obeyed him?"

"Certainement!"

She was beautiful mused Fordney.

"What's the mystery of the attic?" he suddenly demanded, having previously thoroughly searched the entire palatial house in an effort to locate the almost fabulously valuable diamond pendant she had reported missing shortly before her accident.

"What you mean?" Maria lifted her beautiful face from the pillow.

"Nothing much," Fordney replied, "but it doesn't seem to be in keeping with the cleanliness of the rest of the house."

My 'usband—he will return in half an hour—forbid any one to enter it. He never tell me why. How you get in?"

"Broke down the door—a very peculiar one. I'm sorry you've lied to me, but the fact you have indicates you're involved in the theft of your own pendant. Understand?"

WHY DID FORDNEY MAKE SUCH A STATEMENT?

Movie Divorces Exceed Weddings by 3 to 2 Ratio

BY DORIS BLAKE.

HOLLYWOOD, Cal. — [Special.] — Says one of the expert Hollywood marriage observers: "If Hollywood doesn't slacken its divorce pace, one of these days there aren't going to be enough married couples left in the motion picture colony for the lawyers to separate."

For the divorces and separations in Hollywood are exceeding the marriages by more than a 3 to 2 proportion. The percentage is seventeen divorces granted, applied for, or separations formally announced, to every ten marriages taking place.

What is the root of the trouble? Is it, as suggested, that the film colony represents an overwhelming percentage of tense, driving, ego minded, ambitious, sometimes unscrupulously ambitious persons?

Our guess would be that the above suggestion holds the key to much of the volcanic marriage state notorious to this community. Ego minded they have to be, or they wouldn't progress far on the path of their ambition. The work and its rewards or promised rewards make them nervously tense. Self-projection is obviously one of the needs of the game.

Altogether, these forces tend to construct a type that would impulsively jump at divorce as a possible escape valve for the nervous pressure worrying them. The "jumping" habit becomes a fixed one with certain of the high strung group. Jumping at divorce, that is! Three and four times divorced, certain of the individual records stand.

In one year alone, between July, 1932, and July, 1933, of the eighty persons who got married, eighteen were divorced and married again all in the same year. Five of these were having the knot tied for the fourth time, eight persons for the third time, and sixteen, a second time.

The lightness with which the easy marrying kind take their vows is indicated in the numbers that married again when legally they or their new mates were not legally marriageable. Under California's interlocutory divorce law remarriage within a period of one year is prohibited.

Annoying Ways Often Sign of Child's Growth

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

Some of the things that fret you or annoy you about your children, may be things which should on the contrary satisfy you, because they may be merely signs of growth and development.

When your child touches things constantly, it is a sign that his senses are developing.

When he asks a hundred questions a day, it means that his mind is hungry for knowledge—another sign of development.

When he chatters and chatters or listens and repeats, he is acquiring language—still another sign of development. Did you ever by the way realise how rapidly he acquires this skill? Just think: at one year your baby may be able to say only three words—but by the time he is six the average child has a vocabulary of more than 2,500 words, and by the time he's eleven or twelve his vocabulary will have reached the large size of around 7,000 words.

One other thing that either annoys or seriously worries parents is the habit their children have of not answering or not even knowing they've been spoken to. This is something to be glad of because it almost always means that your child is growing in mental power. He is gaining in ability to give his attention deeply to a thing, whether it is reading or making something or thinking. He is developing the power of concentration. So he can't be expected to break off and jump or run or answer instantly when he's spoken to.

To foster the development of his ability to concentrate we must manage him wisely—try not to break up his reading or work by constant trivial interruptions—to plan what we want him to do with that in mind—and when we do have to penetrate his absorption for some necessary thing to do it quietly and firmly, but without irritation. For he is now acquiring a new and very important mental habit.

It is hard for us to realize what the mental growth of our children means—how much richer in significance everything becomes to him, how many more influences from outside reach him as his understanding grows, and also how much more he lives within himself.

So, as your children develop certain tendencies or habits that are inconvenient, try to look beneath the surface for the meaning of them, see if they are not the result of mental growth, and handle them intelligently.

DORIS BLAKE ANSWERS

Why So Considerate?

"Dear Miss Blake: I fell in love with a boy my best and only girl friend cares for. He does not care for her, but for me. She realizes that fact, but I cannot go out with him for fear of hurting my girl friend. Please help me. "BUNNY."

There's no reason you should be so considerate of your girl friend's feelings. She'd most likely go ahead accepting the attentions of some one you liked.

Taffy sponge cake! Have you served it yet this year? Or hadn't you discovered that the tang and taffy taste of it is the grandest of companions for crisp fall days and rustling autumn leaves, not to mention its contribution to the glamour of popcorn evenings around a fireplace?

As for specifications, it's the kind of a cake that can be whipped up in a few minutes, and once baked will disappear exactly in direct proportion to your care in hiding it. And the job of secreting it, by the way, is made doubly hard since its tempting taffy aroma leads the nose right to it.

Among the younger members, taffy sponge cake reaches its peak when offered up with chilly apple sauce or frosted with apple snow for a party. Or for a grown up doings, the tang of the molasses flavor gallantly flatters such a dish as cider sherbet.

So here is the subject of all these adjectives—try it out and become a rooter!

TAFFY SPONGE CAKE.

1 cup sugar.
½ cup molasses.
1 teaspoon vanilla.
½ cup cold coffee or water.
½ teaspoon salt.
1½ cups pastry flour.
2 teaspoons baking powder.

Beat the egg yolks until light and thick. Gradually add the sugar, coffee [or water] and molasses, beating to make a good foam. Sift the salt, flour and baking powder 4 times. Add this mixture to the yolks, sifting in about one-fourth of the dry ingredients at a time and folding in before adding the next fourth. Add the flavoring and fold in the stiffly beaten egg whites. One-third cup of finely chopped walnut meats may be added last if you yearn for that quintessence of fall flavors. Now turn the batter into an ungreased pan and bake in a slow oven [325 degrees F.] for 45 to 60 minutes, depending upon the depth of the pan.

We boosted cider sherbet as the playfellow for taffy sponge cake, and since some knowing cooks have discovered a new way to dress up this second fall favorite, let's examine the recipe.

CIDER SHERBET.

2 dozen marshmallows.
2 tablespoons lemon juice.
2 tablespoons sugar.
2 egg whites.
⅛ teaspoon salt.

Add ¾ cup of the cider to the marshmallows and melt them over hot water, stirring frequently. When the mixture is smooth and fluffy, add the rest of the cider with the lemon juice and 1 tablespoon of the sugar. Now allow this to cool until quite cold and partially jellied. Then whip the eggs until stiff, adding the salt and the remaining tablespoon of sugar. Fold the egg whites thoroughly into the marshmallow mixture and pour into a refrigerator tray to freeze.

Which clears up that subject. But while on the thought of cider, have you discovered that the before dinner fruit cup can grow from a weakness to a veritable passion with folks if occasionally we add nip to it in the form of sweet cider? A favorite for fall is made from oranges, diced red apple, whole seedless grapes, or halved Tokay grapes, canned peaches and sweet cider. Grape juice is also a contender for popular votes when used instead of cider.

Miss Holmes, Wayne Give Dance Recital

BY EDWARD MOORE.

It was a highly agreeable dance program that Berenice Holmes and Allan Wayne presented at the Punch and Judy theater yesterday afternoon. They are two artists with a pronounced sense of the pictorial in movement and pose, and they are accomplished technicians as well.

Several of their numbers, whether appearing singly or as a couple, were slow moving, rather stately affairs, with dignified gestures, leisurely but always fluidly continuous changes from one pose to the next, something, one imagines the way a pair of statues might go into a series of transitions. In fact the actual name of one of Miss Holmes' dances was "Sculpturing." It is to music by Mompou.

They were fully capable, however, of rapid movements as accurately executed as the slow ones, as Mr. Wayne demonstrated in Scarlatti's Allegro and Miss Holmes in Felix Borowski's "Adoration." These were all in the modern manner, a considerable distance from the rigidly disciplined, set movements of the ballet. Theirs was the technical training of ballet applied to the modern school of the dance, and it had excellent results until they came to a sonata by Beethoven, the one frequently miscalled the "Moonlight."

Perhaps it was the length of the piece—they danced all three movements, or most of them—but dance figurations, even in three contrasting moods, were not quite up to sustaining the composition. The cuts made in the work merely hurt the music.

Uday Shan-Kar's appearances at Orchestra hall Saturday night and yesterday afternoon with his group of Hindu dancers and musicians were postponed because of an injury to his right hand received during the performance in Cleveland Friday night.

Because of the importance of hands and fingers in Hindu dances it is probable that he will be obliged to defer all appearances for several weeks. It is promised that he will fill his Chicago engagements later in the season, but the datings as yet have not been fixed.

NEW YORK SOCIETY

New York, Nov. 5.—[Special.]—Mrs. William L. Harkness will give a dinner-dance on Dec. 20 at the Colony club for her niece, Miss Eleanor Mullally, debutante daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Mandeville Mullally.

Juley Bache will give a small dance on Dec. 30 for his debutante granddaughter, Miss Dorothy J. Richards a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick L. Richards.

The Gay '90s Live Again at Benefit Party

North Avenue Day Nursery to Count Profits.

BY RUTH DE YOUNG.

TODAY the members of the board of the North Avenue Day Nursery will divide their time between counting profits and returning ostrich plumes and crinkled taffetas to their lavender scented tissues. The members are interested in learning the exact benefits from the Diamond Lil party they staged Saturday evening at the Drake hotel and they are also interested in preserving their costumes, perhaps, for use again next season.

"I wish dresses like these were in fashion all of the time," a popular bachelor commented at the party. "They're ten times more romantic, and besides they're about 100 per cent more graceful on the dance floor."

If Mae West could have set foot inside the Drake she certainly would have felt like the true zealot vindicated, for there were dozens of society's prettiest young matrons, postdebs, and debutantes giving full expression to the tug at the waistline, the plumage, and the frills the actress has advocated. It was a picturesque party to say the least. It was also lively and gay from 10 o'clock on until the wee, early hours.

"Rings on my fingers . . . ." was the theme song of Mrs. George M. Silverthorne, whose black velvet dress with its white ostrich boa and huge plumed hat were one of the sensations of the evening. Her eyelashes were at least two inches long and on every finger she wore not less than two rings. Almost matching this costume was that worn by Mrs. Owen West. Mrs. West admitted, however, that her hat had come from one of State street's bargain basements . . . and she hadn't remembered to remove the price tag.

The Silverthornes were entertaining a party of their Riverside friends, including the Tom and Arthur Hellyers and the Ben Mileses. With Mr. and Mrs. West were the Macauley Carters [Mrs. Carter and Mrs. West are sisters] and the Wallace Barkers.

It was hard for Mrs. Robert McKenna, who was the ticket chairman for the party, to decide whether her costume was in sympathy with that of Mr. McKenna, who wore the very formal day dress of Mrs. McKenna's grandfather, William Thayer. Mrs. McKenna's dress was a daring orange creation covered with black sequins. With this she wore a silver wig. There were a number of out of town guests in the McKenna's party, including Louis Herzog of New York, who was a Princeton classmate of Mr. McKenna; Edward H. Wagner Jr., Charles E. Rubicon Jr., Thomas C. Hennings Jr., and the Charles Hinches, all of St. Louis, and Miss Jane Patterson of Cincinnati . . . also Mr. and Mrs. A. Perkins Bull, the Chester Mooreheads, the John Meloys, Eugene Swigert, Rolland Smith, and Miss Nancy McNulty.

Mrs. J. Beach Clow was a real Diamond Lil girl in a black and white ruffled gown and a picture hat, and Mr. Clow was a perfect partner dressed in a "gay '90" suit that included a vivid green vest. Mr. and Mrs. Clow were members of a party to which Mr. and Mrs. John P. Wilson Jr. were host and hostess. Others in the group were the junior George A. Pooles. . . . Mrs. Poole wearing a dress that was once a part of Mrs. Calvin Fentress' trousseau. . . . Miss Louise Brewer, Huntington Eldridge, and John Drum.

Miss Margaret Sinclair, lovely in a shell pink satin gown, was introducing her fiancé, Andrew B. Harper Jr. of Detroit, to whom her engagement had just been announced Saturday morning.

Mount Sinai Club.

The Mount Sinai Hospital Service club will meet this evening and the members will take a trip around the world with the lecturer, Burton Holmes. Mr. Holmes will give his travelogue at 8 o'clock in Orchestra hall. Since its organization in 1920 the Service club has contributed many major improvements to the hospital.

Metallized Cloth and Black Crepe Combine Smartly

WOMAN'S DRESS.

Black silk crêpe is always becoming to women of heavier build, and it has weight enough to fall properly and is not so shiny as to exaggerate bulk. The top of the dress will be lovely if you use sheer black metallized crêpe. Black woolen with black satin crêpe is another suggestion.

The pattern, No. 3084, comes in sizes 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46 and 48 inches bust measure.

Marjorie Street Bows to Society.

A lovely gown of moss green crêpe with three-quarter sleeves of metal tissue was Miss Marjorie Street's choice for her debut party yesterday afternoon. Her flowers were a handsome spray of orchids.

Miss Street was presented to society by her two older sisters, Katharine and Jeanne, at a reception between 4 and 7 o'clock in the apartment their mother, Mrs. Harry L. Street, has taken for the winter at 1345 Astor street. The dozens who came to meet the popular debutants and linger for a cup of tea or coffee were all friends of the three sisters.

Assisting in the dining room and the parlors were nine of Miss Marjorie's best friends, many of whom live on the north shore, where the Streets make their home the major part of the year. The group included Miss Helen Fulton, Miss Tucy Trumbull, Miss Luce Jane Hedberg, Miss Eleanor Janney, Miss Virginia Ashcraft, Miss Kean Hughes, Miss Gretchen Onderdonk, Miss Jeanette Schreiner, and Miss Barbara Lawrence.

Meekers to Entertain Prince Potenziani.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Meeker are entertaining at dinner this evening at the Casino for Prince Potenziani, the royal Italian commissioner to A Century of Progress.

Today and tomorrow will wind up the three day book sale the Evanston Junior league is holding at 517 Davis street, Evanston. All of the benefits derived from the sale are to go to the support of the league's dental clinic.

Tonight brings the annual fall benefit of the Kenwood Social Service club, which this time takes the form of a theater party at the Grand Opera house with "Bittersweet" as the attraction. Almost the entire house has been sold out to the members and friends of the hard working group which contributes so generously to the Infant Welfare society.

Mrs. Nelson Utley, and Mrs. Kenath MacLellan are among those who will entertain at dinner before the theater.

Rummage Sale Aids Infant Welfare.

The coffers of the Kenwood and North Side Center branches of the Infant Welfare will be swelled this week through the three day rummage sale the two groups are holding today, tomorrow and Wednesday at 61 East Lake street. In charge of the collections have been Mrs. Eugene S. Talbot, Mrs. Robert W. Hyman, Mrs. William Waller, Mrs. Frederick L. McNally, Mrs. Herbert Mayer, and Mrs. Jack Benjamin.

Dr. Walter Lichtenstein will introduce Clark M. Eichelberger, executive secretary of the League of Nations association, when he addresses the luncheon meeting of the Council on Foreign Relations at 12:30 today at the Palmer house. Mr. Eichelberger, who is just back from Geneva, where he attended the meetings of the disarmament conference and the league of nations, will speak on the incidents leading to Germany's withdrawal from the league and the opinion held in Geneva as to the outlook for the future.

At the speakers' table with Dr. Lichtenstein and Mr. Eichelberger will be Mrs. Lichtenstein, Mrs. Eichelberger, Robert Hall McCormick and his daughter, Miss Patty McCormick, George Leonard, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Cole, Mrs. Robert B. Gregory, and William Casselberry.

Oklahoma Road Is Immortalized in Quilt Block

Road to Oklahoma.

BY NANCY CABOT.

When the pioneer woman who created this quilt pattern lived, the road to Oklahoma was rough and rocky and tortuous; the quilt hardly represents it. But perhaps the clever quilter foresaw our smooth roads, or perhaps the design got its name because it was created on a journey to that state. At any rate, it's an attractive and popular pattern.

For a quilt pattern in this design send 5 cents in coin or stamps to Nancy Cabot, Chicago Tribune, printing your name and address clearly. Or call at the Tribune Public Service Office, One South Dearborn.

Daughter Born to the John Kelloggs.

The John Payne Kelloggs' family was augmented by the birth of a daughter on Friday at the Alice Home hospital in Lake Forest. The Kelloggs were happy to have their third child a girl, for they already have two sons, Johnny and Bobby.

The Thorne Donnelleys left Saturday for a trip that gives promise of being most unusual and interesting. In a one cabin cruiser they are going leisurely down the Mississippi as far as New Orleans, stopping for some duck shooting on the way. They plan to be away about three weeks.

Mrs. Frank J. Loesch, Mrs. Edward T. Leight, Mrs. Loyal Davis, Mrs. Harold Pynchon, Mrs. Robert Peacock, and Mrs. Townsend McKeever will pour at the opening reception of the season of the Chicago Drama league at 3:30 this afternoon in the Crystal ballroom of the Blackstone hotel. Dr. Louis K. Anspacher of New York, the dramatist and lecturer, will speak on "Woman: Divinity, Chattel, or Mate?" The next event on the Drama league program will be a breakfast for Miss Ina Claire Nov. 13 in the Joseph Urban room of the Congress hotel.

New Costumes for Afternoon Lend Glamour

BY RHEA SEEGER.

No matter what you prefer to call them, these new late afternoon costumes are certainly different from the rest of the wardrobe. Tavern suits, glorified shirtwaist get-togethers, cocktail outfits, or tea dresses, however labeled, they do grand things for the festive hours from 4:30 till midnight. Until you have hurried down to see these supersophisticated fall creations you have been missing things.

Long, shaped, slender sleeves in all of them—that is, shaped and slender from below the elbow to the wrist—slit and sometimes slashed from the shoulder to the elbow; dark swathed mysteries around the front neckline down to the waistline in back, they are most alluring clothes you can find.

Skirtlines are long and fitted with flared sections swirling out from below the knee line. In them you twirl a cocktail glass, exchange sallies with interested and most appreciative escorts, or take tea across candle lighted tables, or dine coolly but decoratively with a single swain, completely sure of your newest fashions.

There's a charming shirtwaist evening ensemble that will make you smile—a long, graceful black skirt of dull crêpe, fastened around the normal waistline to a high hat version of the old fashioned stiff shirtwaist of the Gibson gal era.

Brushes Away Gray Hair Keeps Permanent Wave

Now you can really look years younger. With an ordinary small brush you just tint those streaks or patches of gray back to your natural shade—whether blonde, brown or black. It is so easy to do—at home—with Brownatone. Over 20 years' success. Guaranteed harmless. Active coloring agent is purely vegetable. Defies detection. No "tell-tale," "dyed" look. Cannot affect waving of hair.

No need to guess. First cut a lock of hair from your head and apply a little of this famous tint. If Brownatone does not give your gray streaked, dull, or faded hair its natural color, youth and luster, your money back. Only 50c.

How to Find Out If You Have Acid Stomach

And Quick, Easy Way to Correct It

The Signs of Acid Stomach

Nervousness
Neuralgia
Indigestion
Auto-Intoxication
Nausea
Frequent Headaches
Sleeplessness
Feeling of Weakness
Mouth Acidity
Loss of Appetite
Sour Stomach

WHAT TO DO FOR IT

TAKE—2 teaspoonfuls of Phillips' Milk of Magnesia in a glass of water every morning when you get up. Take another teaspoonful thirty minutes after eating. And another before you go to bed.

Some 80% of the people of today have Acid Stomach, according to many authorities! This because so many foods, comprising the modern diet, are acid forming foods.

Headaches, stomach pains after eating, "gas," "upsets," "biliousness," are the usual indications. So you can easily tell if you have Acid Stomach.

You Can Quickly And Easily Correct It

But if you do have it, don't worry about it. Today it can be corrected in a very simple manner. Just do this. It will alkalize your acid soaked stomach almost immediately. You will feel like another person.

TAKE—2 teaspoonfuls of Phillips' Milk of Magnesia in a glass of water every morning when you get up. Take another teaspoonful thirty minutes after eating. And another before you go to bed. Or—you can take Phillips' Milk of Magnesia Tablets; one tablet for each teaspoonful of the liquid.

What This Does

That's all you do. But do it regularly. EVERY DAY.

This acts to neutralize the stomach acids that foster your "upset" stomach, that invite headaches and that feeling of lassitude and lost energy you feel.

Everywhere people are doing this—doctors advocating it. Try it. Results will amaze you. Your head will be clear. You'll forget you have a stomach.

BUT—be careful that you get REAL milk of magnesia when you buy; genuine PHILLIPS' Milk of Magnesia. See that the name "Phillips'" is stamped clearly on the label.

ALSO IN TABLET FORM

Each tiny tablet is the equivalent of a teaspoonful of Genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia.

DON'T be fooled into believing that your teeth are naturally dull, off-color, or susceptible to decay simply because brushing fails to make them white or keep them sound. Remember this:

Any preparation that polishes teeth and fails to kill germs—millions of germs that cause so many tooth and gum troubles — ONLY HALF-CLEANS TEETH.

One dental cream in the world that kills troublesome germs as it cleans the teeth is Kolynos. Try it—a half-inch on a dry brush, morning and night. Soon your teeth will look cleaner than ever before.

This unique, scientific dental cream contains two priceless ingredients that give the teeth a DOUBLE-CLEANSING. As one foams into every crevice, over every tooth surface and washes away food accumulation, stain and tarnish—the other kills millions of germs.

Thus, in a remarkably short time, teeth are cleaned right down to the beautiful, natural white enamel—without injury. They look more attractive than you ever believed possible.

No, you can't get by with dull, HALF-CLEANED TEETH. Don't try to. Start using Kolynos. Overnight your teeth will show great improvement. Your mouth will feel cleaner and fresher. Get a tube of Kolynos from your druggist today.

Boston, Mass., Nov. 5.—[Special.]—With Jim Musick and Gyp Battles battering out an early lead, Boston's Redskins protected that margin today to halt the winning streak of the Chicago Bears, leaders of the National Professional Football league race, before a crowd of 22,820 at Fenway park. The score was 10 to 0.

JIM MUSICK.

The Redskins checked Red Grange, Bronko Nagurski, and their able mates four times after the Bears' spectacular overhead attack had carried them inside the 10 yard line. Twice Bill Hewitt, former Michigan star, dropped passes, tossed by the sharpshooting Johnny Doehring, in the Boston end zone.

Carrying the fight to the Bears at the outset and marching almost half the length of the field to a touchdown, the Redskins then went into conservative football, gained three more points through a field goal, and stopped the Chicagoans, who had won their previous six games of the schedule.

Second in Two Years.

Furthermore, the Bostonians handed the Bears their second defeat in two years, the other being a 2 to 0 defeat by Green Bay Packers a year ago. Unfortunately for the Boston team the victory did not advance them in the eastern division race, for the New York Giants pulled out a last period win over the Portsmouth Spartans.

The contest was easily the most spectacular of pro football history in Boston and thrilled the customers from start to finish. Not until the final three minutes was it evident that the Bears could not win, although there was still the chance that they might score a touchdown with their sensational lateral and forward passes which bothered the Redskins all afternoon.

Musick, Riley Hurt.

In the end, however, conservatism, aided by breaks, gained Boston a well earned triumph, although not without cost, for, so hard was the game played that Jim Musick, the former Southern California full back, was carried off the field with an injured knee, while Jack Riley, the former Northwestern tackle, was taken to the hospital with a body injury and a slight concussion.

Boston's chief hope was in making its running attack go for a lead and then holding that advantage. The Redskins had Battles and Musick as star offensive players, while the Bears had Johnny Sisk, Bronko Nagurski, Red Grange, Bill Hewitt, Roy Molesworth, Gene Ronzani, Carl Brumbaugh, Johnny Doehring, and Bill Karr as their hopes in the elaborate aerial game. Yet the two Bostonians accomplished much more than the numerous Chicagoans, with the giant Turk Edwards coming to the rescue on one very important occasion.

In that first period the Redskins had two real opportunities and cap-

CAN MICHIGAN BE STOPPED? STILL A BIG 10 QUESTION

Perhaps Iowa Will Succeed Where Illini Failed.

Games This Week

Iowa at Michigan.
Illinois at Northwestern.
Indiana at Chicago.
West Virginia at Wisconsin.
Purdue at Notre Dame.
Ohio State at Pennsylvania.
Minnesota [no game].

Who can stop Michigan? The veteran Wolverines, now half finished with their schedule, lead the Western conference race apparently headed for a fourth consecutive championship. Ohio State, Chicago and Illinois have fallen before Michigan. Iowa, which meets the Wolverines Saturday at Ann Arbor. Minnesota and Northwestern are remaining opponents.

Purdue, in particular, extends best wishes to Michigan's foes. For the Boilermakers are only a half step behind, having tied Minnesota and beaten Chicago and Wisconsin. Minnesota, which has no game scheduled this week in preparation for its test with the Wolverine two weeks hence, wants some one to stop Purdue. By this arrangement the Gophers might win the title although they have been tied three times this fall.

Three Teams with One Defeat.

Three teams have one defeat each. Iowa, if successful against Michigan and Purdue, might tie for the title, but Iowa was overpowered by Minnesota and probably cannot win from both teams. Ohio State and Illinois, beaten Saturday by Michigan, 7 to 6, are possibilities, but since they meet in the final game it is likely that one or the other will be eliminated, if that hasn't happened in the preceding two weeks.

Three conference games are on this week's program. In addition to the most important, Iowa at Michigan, Illinois meets Northwestern at Dyche stadium and Indiana and Chicago will break their tie for eighth place at Stagg field.

Fourth Defeat for Irish.

Purdue, still undefeated by its 17 to 7 rout of Carnegie Tech, plays Notre Dame. The contest has lost some of its early season interest, for Navy whipped Notre Dame Saturday, 7 to 0, for the third consecutive licking for the Irish. Since the first of these trimmings was by Carnegie Tech, the Boilermakers must be made the favorites this week at Notre Dame.

MICHIGAN-ILLINOIS

Illinois' defeat by Michigan Saturday, 7 to 6, furnished the second guessers with their best opportunity of the season. If Bart Cummings had kicked the point after touchdown would Illinois have tied Michigan? Or would the Wolverines, who played defensively in the second half, have scored another touchdown?

Should Jack Beynon, Illinois' quarter back, have placed his team in position for an attempt for a field goal from within Michigan's 10 yard line in the fourth quarter? Illinois lost the ball on fourth down on Michigan's 5 yard line.

With 15 seconds to play in the second period, could Michigan have scored from Illinois' 5 yard line? A penalty for fourth time out moved the ball to the one yard line and Everhardus raced around his right end for the touchdown. Coach Zuppke sent Cliff Kuhn into the game misled by information from a student manager that Illinois had taken time out only twice previously.

Michigan only outrushed Illinois 99 yards to 66. Illinois held Michigan to one completed forward pass, but the Wolverines tried only two in the third period and none in the last. Illinois gained 111 yards in seven forward passes. Thirteen were tried. Despite the strong north wind Illinois averaged 35 yards on punts to 33 1-3 yards for Michigan. Les Lindberg easily outkicked John Regeczi of Michigan, but Beynon was not as effective

Scoring Lead in Big 10 Held by Everhardus

Herman Everhardus, Michigan half back, scored all seven of his team's points against Illinois Saturday and went into the lead in scoring in the Western conference with a total of 21 points. He has scored three touchdowns and three points after touchdowns in conference competition.

Julius Alfonse of Mimnesota and Joe Laws of Iowa were tied for second place with 18 points made on three touchdowns each. Laws was out of Big Ten competition Saturday when Iowa played Iowa State. Alfonse went scoreless against Northwestern. Duane Purvis was in fourth place with 13 points.

Dave Cook of Illinois, Dick Heekin of Ohio State, Bill Renner of Michigan, and Jim Carter of Purdue were tied with 12 points. The scoring, including points made only in Big Ten games:

Talking It Over

BY ARCH WARD.

SAMMY MANDELL, once the lightweight champion of the world and universally recognized as one of the greatest boxers the ring has produced, is losing semi-final bouts in Cleveland, Windsor and intermediate points.

SAMMY MANDELL.

There is something pathetic about Sammy's case, and still I can't share the grief of some of his friends who are sobbing about his comeback and the futility of it all. Sammy was a headliner as long as he kept his weight down to 135 pounds. He lost his effectiveness with excess suet and he no longer is classed as grade A beef. But if his decline suets him, it ought to suet us.

Mandell always was a smart fighter and he is not dumb enough to think he again will be a champion, at 147 pounds or any other weight. He needs sugar and he is trying to get it in the only way he knows how. When he passed out as king of the 135 pounders he thought he was fixed financially for life. But bank failures and stock market reverses floored him, and he is now property poor.

Sammy's last fight as a lightweight was against Al Singer, and he drew the handsome reward of $65,000. He probably earns less than $300 for his bouts today. It is too bad he could not have retired after the Singer bout, but what's a fellow to do when he is fresh out of ready?

Nobody should begrudge him whatever he can earn as a has-been. In his day he gave the customers plenty to yip yip about. He established a record of conscientious effort and thrilling accomplishment, and I think he has a legitimate right to come back and cash in on that tradition, if the fans are willing to stand for it. It isn't as if he hadn't once been somebody.

Mandell and his stable mate, Bud Taylor, gave Chicago fans more for their money than any pair of fighters this community has developed. Taylor is reported to be in comfortable circumstances. He has a $75,000 trust fund and a $75,000 insurance policy. He operates a gymnasium in his home town, Terre Haute, Ind., and manages bozers. Among them is Sammy Slaughter, who from time to time appears at Chicago Stadium.

Frank Smith, former sports editor of THE TRIBUNE, who will be buried in Aurora today, was manager of Jim Browning, recognized in several states as heavyweight wrestling champion. He died of a heart attack after Browning's match in Toronto Thursday night. The story of their meeting and eventual partnership is interesting.

After leaving THE TRIBUNE Smith purchased a poultry farm in southern Michigan. One evening after the chickens had gone to roost a Missouri farmer pulled into Smith's yard to get some water for the radiator of his car. The farmer from Missouri and the farmer from Michigan got to talking, and when night came down they still were chinning about eggs and corn. Browning, the Missouri farmer, accepted Smith's invitation to spend the night as his guest, and the next morning he departed after expressing hope that some time Smith would give him opportunity to reciprocate his hospitality.

Two or three years later Smith, convinced he never would make a successful farmer, received an offer to handle publicity for the Bowser wrestling group in Boston. He accepted. One day an unknown stalwart wandered into the Boston wrestling headquarters in quest of work. Farming, he said, was unprofitable, and a few home town bouts had led him to believe he could make good on the mat. Smith overheard the conversation. He was surprised to find the applicant was Jim Browning, who had been his house guest in Michigan. With his assistance Browning was given a trial.

The Missouri farmer finally worked his way into a bout with Strangler Lewis, who was champion of the world, as far as New York went. Browning lost, but he returned to Boston, urging Smith to get him another match with the Strangler.

Lewis performed for the Curley stable, which controlled the game in New York, and Browning was aligned with the Bowser faction of Boston. Smith pointed out that it wasn't easy to get a return bout under these conditions. But Browning was persistent. He said he was positive he could throw Lewis, and volunteered to make Smith his manager if he could arrange the match.

Lewis was reluctant. Curley didn't want it. They both knew the Strangler had a tough time to win the first one. But they finally yielded to Smith's request.

Browning told Smith to give up his job in Boston, because from now on he was to devote his time to managing the next champion of the world. Smith took the gamble and won, because Browning did just as he said he would do. He defeated Lewis.

Since that time the two, Smith and Browning, have been touring America, reaping a harvest from the saps and suckers who enjoy the theatrics of modern wrestling.

Smith and Browning had no contract. Theirs was a verbal understanding, and there has been no report of friction or disagreement.

Wonderboldts Defeat Scots; Sparta Wins

The Wieboldt Wonderboldts defeated the Ravenswood Scots, 4 to 1, in a National Professional Soccer league game yesterday at Sparta stadium. After the teams had played on even terms during the greater part of the first half Robb of the Scots inadvertently kicked the ball through his own goal, scoring a point for the Boldts. Then Waldrom booted one between the posts, to make it 2 to 0 in favor of the Wieboldt team at half time. In the last period Waldrom and Stevenson scored for the Boldts while Coubrough made a goal for the Scots.

In the opening game of the program Sparta beat the Hungarians, 4 to 0, thereby keeping within striking range of the Wonderboldts in the struggle for the leadership of the league. Greenleas made 2 goals, while Vleck and Orr each made 1.

Harvey United beat the McDuffs, 2 to 1, at Harvey, and the Armours defeated the British Legion, 2 to 0, in Buda cup games. In a Major league contest Calumet beat the Judeans, 4 to 1. Another score of the day was: Italian Americans, 1; Hakoah, 0.

SEABACK WIDENS LEAD IN NATIONAL POCKET BILLIARDS

Minneapolis, Minn., Nov. 5.—(AP)—Charles Seaback, Astoria, N. Y., increased his lead in the national pocket billiard tournament here today, defeating Walter Franklin, Kansas City, 125 to 61 in 15 innings for his fourth victory.

Seaback, the only one of 10 players undefeated in the tourney which today started its second week, had a high run of 73, the second best for the tourney. The Astoria player threatened to overcome the high run mark of 85 made by William Mosconi, Philadelphia, yesterday.

The defeat was the fifth straight for Franklin.

GIANTS SHUT OUT FOR 3 QUARTERS, THEN WIN, 13-10

Spartans Collapse When Presnell Is Injured.

New York, Nov. 5.—(AP)—After being held scoreless for three periods, the New York Giants put on a rally in the final quarter which earned them a 13 to 10 victory over the Portsmouth Spartans in a National professional football league game today.

For 45 minutes the invaders, led by Quarter Back Glenn Presnell, had the edge. At the opening of the fourth quarter Presnell, who had accounted for all of Portsmouth's points, suffered an injury to his right arm and was removed from the game.

Presnell Kicks Field Goal.

The Spartans opened the scoring in the first period when Presnell kicked his seventh field goal of the season to put his team in the lead, 3 to 0. In the second period Presnell raced 31 yards for a touchdown and then kicked the extra point to boost the Spartans' lead to 10 points.

Burnett intercepted a Portsmouth pass on the 36 yard line and runs by Strong and Newman carried the ball to the Spartans' 12 yard line where Newman heaved a pass to Strong over the goal line for a touchdown. Strong missed the kick.

Pass Nets 38 Yards.

Only a few minutes more elapsed when a 38 yard pass, Newman to Burnett, and a 15 yard penalty for unnecessary roughness brought the ball to the 3 yard line. Strong wriggled through the line for the touchdown and kicked the extra point.

By virtue of their victory, the Giants retained the lead of the eastern division of the league.

The Giants gained 191 yards from scrimmage to 195 for Portsmouth.

PIRATES, 3; DODGERS, 3.

New York, Nov. 5.—(AP)—Mose Kelsch, a product of the Pittsburgh public schools, booted a field goal to give the Pittsburgh Pirates a 3 to 3 tie with the Brooklyn Dodgers in a National Professional Football league game today. The goal came in the last few seconds of play.

It was a dramatic finish to one of the hardest fought football battles of the season at Ebbets field, and turned what seemed certain defeat for Pittsburgh into an even break after the Pirates had tried for nearly four periods to overcome the Brooklyn lead earned by Herman Hickman's field goal in the first quarter.

Kelsch kicked the placement after Tony Holm, Alabama star, and Angel Brovelli, St. Mary's backfield ace, collaborated in a brilliant 35 yard pass. Ray Tesser, formerly of Carnegie Tech, put the ball in position when he snagged Holm's second pass on Brooklyn's 15 yard line.

Kelsch was sent in and booted the ball over cleanly from the 24 yard stripe just before the final whistle sounded.

Brooklyn's score came about the middle of the first period after Chris Cagle and Shipwreck Kelly passed and hit the line to place the ball on Pittsburgh's 12 yard line.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

The good old days of professional football were revived yesterday afternoon at Wrigley field, where the Green Bay Packers defeated the Chicago Cardinals, 14 to 6. Five thousand watched the game and saw an old fashioned melee in the third quarter, in which both coaches rushed to the field and, with an influx of spectators, delayed play for several minutes while all attempted to officiate.

DICK NESBITT.

The Packers were leading, 7 to 0, at the time, as a result of Bob Monnett's 22 yard touchdown run and his place kick for the point. With the wind behind him, Dick Nesbitt of the Cardinals got off an 82 yard punt which bounded past Roger Grove and was downed by Frank McNally and Chuch Kassel of the Cardinals on the Packers' one yard line. An official first ruled that the ball had touched Grove and that it belonged to the Cardinals. The referee's signal to play was also a signal for the rush of coaches to the assistance of their respective debaters.

Players Threaten Violence.

Prior to this, both teams had become quite personal in their comments to each other, and Big Cal Hubbard, defensive full back for the Packers, and Phil Handler, a Cardinal guard, had threatened violence. The storm ended when the umpire explained that he had made an error in his excitement and that the ball belonged to the Packers on the one yard line.

Nesbitt's kick, however, did set up the Cardinals' scoring opportunity, for Clarke Hinkle, punting from his end zone, booted out on his 20 yard line. Moe failed to gain, but Lillard passed to Milan Creighton for a first down on the 6 yard line. Nesbitt, Moe, and Lillard moved the ball 4 yards and Nesbitt plunged over center for the touchdown. Lillard missed the place kick for the tieing point. The touchdown was the final play of the third period.

Packers Score Again.

Midway in the last quarter the Packers scored again. Hinkle intercepted Cliff Hansen's pass and returned 10 yards to the Cardinals' 20 yard mark. Monnett's gain of 4 yards was wiped out by a Packer offside, but Grove received Hinkle's pass which put the ball on the Cards' 8 yard line.

Hinkle lost a yard, but Monnet went to the 1 yard line in two smashes inside tackle and Hinkle then dived over for the score. Grove place kicked the point.

The game ended with the Packers on the Cards' 1 foot mark. Hinkle plunged for a touchdown on the last play, but Tim Moynihan of the Cards was offside purposely, which neutralized a 5 yard penalty on the Packers for backfield in motion. Time also expired on Hinkle's plunge, but the time keeper was unable to fire the gun until the teams had lined up for another play.

Lillard Nearly Gets Away.

The first half was scoreless, although Lillard nearly ran back a punt in the second quarter for a touchdown, a feat he accomplished early this season against the Bears. On the fourth down, deep in their own territory, the Packer ends stayed in the line to help block for Hinkle's kick. This gave Lillard a start of nearly 30 yards after receiving the kick. He weaved down the west sideline and finally, although he had a clear path to the goal, he reversed his field at the 5 yard line and ran back until tackled on the Packers' 15 yard line. After being thrown and after the referee's whistle had blown Lillard struggled on for 8 yards, but the ball was brought back.

The decision was cause for the first outbreak of debating by the Cardinals, who, when play was resumed, could not carry on to the goal line.

Monnett's touchdown, which decided the game, was the best offensive work by either team. Dick Nesbitt fumbled on his own 29 yard line and Cal Hubbard recovered. After a 7 yard plunge by Arny Herber, Monnett hit inside the Cards' left tackle on a delayed reverse play and outran the secondary defense to the goal line. His place kick followed.

CAN MICHIGAN BE STOPPED? STILL A BIG TEN QUESTION

Capt. Herman Walser, who appeared at center for a few plays in the second quarter, was injured on Everhardus' touchdown dash. He probably will be out of Illinois' lineup for the remainder of the season.

OHIO STATE-INDIANA

New wing back formations on which Coach Sam Willaman worked his Ohio State team in secret practice for a week clicked so well against Indiana that Buckeye rooters have about come to the conclusion their team will finish out the season with the defeat at the hands of Michigan as the only blemish on their record.

The Buckeyes will try the new formations against Pennsylvania on Saturday on Wisconsin again a week later and will be prepared to fire with both barrels on Illinois when the Illini invade Columbus for the final game of the season.

Two brilliant sophomores, Heekin at half back and Kabealo at full back, were the bright sparks in the Ohio State attack. In their long spectacular dashes for touchdowns they indicated they may be among the great open field runners in the conference.

Aside from that Kabealo's punts jumped up to an average of 45 yards. They have been increasing in distance in every game in which he has appeared.

Despite the return of Don Veller to their lineup the Hoosiers didn't at any time display much of a punch. Their passes, late in the game employed in a futile effort to stave off a shutout, picked up some ground but at that time they were playing against about a third string Ohio State team.

CHICAGO-WISCONSIN

The Maroons and the Badgers on Saturday fought like everything, each seeking to get out of the Big Ten cellar. When it was over each side seemed content to get out with a tie—a scoreless tie—even if it meant that both had to remain in the cellar, each with a record unmarred by victory in 1933 Big Ten competition.

Whatever regrets the Maroons may have probably are centered about the failure to get at least 3 points out of a neroic splurge in the last few minutes of play. Berwanger intercepted a pass on his own 7 yard line, held the ball long enough to make it his ball, then fumbled. Sahlin scooped up the ball and ran 40 yards.

Right on top of this Capt. Zimmer heaved a pass to Sahlin with a gross carry of 57 yards, and a net gain of another 40 yards. Eighty yards on two plays made the Maroons, but they couldn't make any more on the next three and on their fourth try the officials adjudged Berwanger's try for a field goal too wide for scoring purposes. Berwanger claimed it was over, but the officials didn't seem to hear him.

With their shortcomings in the matter of tackling, the Maroons should feel pleased that some runner didn't get away for a touchdown. The first arrivals under punts were specially inept in the matter of tackling. Time after time they went down fast under the ball only to sprawl as the safety man received the ball and squirmed out of their reach. This became so annoying to Chicago partisans that the announcer, a U. of C. employé, on several such occasions said, "The tackle finally was made by So-and-So," naming some member of the secondary.

PURDUE-CARNEGIE

The break in Purdue's 17 to 7 victory over Carnegie Tech at Lafayette Saturday came in the first seconds of the second half, when Jim Carter, Boilermaker left half back, took the Carnegie kickoff on his own 10 yard line and ran the rest of the way for his team's first touchdown. Carter's 90 yard dash broke the spirit of the Carnegie line. Within five minutes Purdue had three more points because Pardonner, standing on the 18 yard line, booted the first field goal of his college career.

Purvis' 52 yard run from a spinner play paved the way for Purdue's last touchdown. He brought it to the one foot line and Carter went off his right tackle for the touchdown. Carnegie scored in the last quarter when Mihm, Carnegie full back, intercepted Basker's pass and went 74 yards for a touchdown.

The first half ended in a scoreless tie, largely through the work of the Carnegie line, not to mention failure on the part of Purdue to capitalize on two scoring chances. Capt. Red Stewart, Carnegie end, and Bill Spisak, the Tartan's left half, were the chief obstacles to the Boilermaker offense.

MINNESOTA'S THIRD TIE

Minnesota was held to a tie score for the third time this season when it met Northwestern at Dyche stadium. Neither team could cross the other's goal. Northwestern three times penetrated the Gophers' 10 yard zone, and Minnesota twice was within the Wildcats' 20 yard line. Fumbles, intercepted passes or stone wall defenses prevented a score.

Northwestern's running attack was somewhat weakened in the second half by the absence of Duvall at full back, who gave way to Mondela in the second quarter. Duvall's side was injured Friday night when he was sidewiped by an automobile near the Northwestern campus.

Expert punting by Olson several times pulled the Wildcats out of the hole. He averaged 50 yards in 13 attempts, one of his kicks sailing 75 yards from the point of impact.

Manske and Jens, the Purple ends, kept the Minnesota backs well checked by rushing across the line of scrimmage before they had a chance to get under way.

FOCKENBERGHE'S PRINCE WINS IN RACE AT AUTEUIL

AUTEUIL, France, Nov. 5.—(AP)—Prince, owned by Mme. Fockenberghe, won the 100,000 franc Prix d'Automne hurdle race today after the favorite, Simon Guthmann's Saint Briac, fell. Prince finished the 4,100 meter course a length ahead of Oil G. Brun's De Beers, with H. Randon's Farnus third. The winner paid 94 to 5 in the mutuels. The value of the purse was about $6,100.

Women's Ping Pong Meet Will Open Tomorrow

The second women's invitational ping-pong tournament of the Interfraternity club will be played tomorrow evening opening the women's ping pong season. The title will be defended by Helen Ovenden, western and Illinois state champion, against a field of 32 players, including Jay Purves, national champion; Flossie Basler, Chicago district champion; Mrs. R. G. Hammond of Highland Park, Chicago suburban champion and Anita Currey of Omaha, Neb., Missouri valley champion.

Bury P. R. Schmidt, Former Cue Champion, Tomorrow

Funeral services will be held tomorrow for Peter R. Schmidt, former Chicago malt broker and retired balk line billiards champion of Wisconsin, who died in his home at Kenosha, Wis., Saturday at the age of 71. Mr. Schmidt, who was also a former semi-professional baseball player, held the billiard championship for 15 years prior to his retirement in 1914. He is survived by three brothers. Services will be held in St. George's church and burial is to be in St. George's cemetery, Kenosha.

M'KERRS BEAT FUKAS.

ANNA INDEPENDENTS WIN.

Michigan Is In for a Week of Hard Work

That was Coach Harry Kipke's terse answer today to the question concerning his plans for the Michigan squad during the coming week. And when he gave the answer, Kipke had before him the picture of his team's great effort to stave off defeat at Illinois Saturday and an idea of the power Iowa is likely to show here next Saturday.

The head of the Wolverine staff said he was less dissatisfied with the showing of his team Saturday than surprised with the inspired football played by Illinois. His own team was somewhat off, he admitted, but too much couldn't be said in praise of Bob Zuppke's team.

Savage Is Injured.

Kipke was much concerned over an ankle injury received by Carl Savage, No. 1 guard, and said he feared Savage would be out of the next two games. The player was taken to University hospital from the train for an X-ray of the ankle.

The injury to Savage may give Bill Borgmann a steady job, though it is likely Willard Hildebrand, who plays guard as well as tackle, may be used.

ILLINI CAST OFF GLOOM.

Champaign, Ill., Nov. 5.—[Special.]—Praised by Bob Zuppke to the limit for their battle against Michigan, the Illini shook off their disappointment over losing to the Wolverines by such a narrow margin and turned today to consideration of the Northwestern game at Evanston.

"I take off my hat to our boys," Zuppke said. "Frankly, they did far better than we hoped or expected. I don't know of any Illinois team that ever fought harder or more courageously. I was especially proud of the way our sophomore linemen, Antilla, Galbreath, and Gryboski carried themselves in their first test."

Northwestern Is Next.

The goal of the Illini is now victory over Northwestern, which would be the first since 1928. That the contest with the Wildcats will be nip and tuck was foreshadowed by the report of Weenie Wilson, who scouted the Minnesota game and reported that Northwestern is greatly improved. The Wildcat line, Wilson said, was quicker and faster than the Gophers'.

With the exception of Capt. Walser, again crippled, the Illini came out of the Michigan game in excellent physical condition. There will be a light workout tomorrow. Inspired by the close struggle against Michigan, it is expected that many fans will follow the Illini to Evanston.

NOTRE DAME MEN HURT.

Tom Gorman, also a Chicago boy, a senior, was injured in the first quarter of Saturday's game with Navy. Fred Solari, Pemroke, Mass., a sophomore, who replaced him, was unable to start the second half.

Pojman played the third and fourth quarters, using his 188 pounds and 6 feet of height to offset the bulk and experience of Butch Harbold, middy center. Neither Gorman nor Solari will be able to play Saturday. When at Harrison Tech, Pojman used to snap the ball back to Andy Pilney, sensational sophomore half back, and the same combination worked to start Pilney on many long runs against Navy. Pojman will probably face Ed Skoronski, Purdue's Chicago sophomore center, who weighs 197 pounds.

Vairo and Brancheau Out.

Neither Dominic Vairo, varsity left end, nor Ray Brancheau, varsity right half back, will be able to play Saturday. Brancheau played only 10 minutes against Navy and Vairo has been out of the last two games with injuries. Brancheau is suffering with torn cartilage in his ribs.

He was replaced Saturday by Johnny Young, who had 88 yards in 22 trips with the ball.

BLACKHAWKS END TRAINING PERIOD; PLAY THURSDAY

Squad Comes Home After Drilling at Champaign.

The entire squad of nineteen players, including two amateurs—Tom Coulter and Wally Brenneman—were in uniforms and the parting drill was a speedy one from start to finish.

No hockey team ever went through a more rigorous training period than the one which ended yesterday morning at Champaign. During their 23 day stay they averaged over two and a half hours on the ice, and frequently Manager Gorman had them out in the open for road drills, baseball, and running.

Team Is Down to Weight.

For those who had excess poundage to remove the sweat room was ordered, and Taffy Abel, the big defense player, was the only player overweight when the team departed. Taffy expects to reach playing form in time for the Blackhawks' opener at the Stadium against the New York Americans next Thursday night.

Although Manager Gorman, who has his team in an exuberant state of mind, instructed his players to stay away from any strenuous play and not to risk injury, the going became a bit rough at times and frequent halts were called for managerial admonishment.

Injured Men Recover.

After the practice session Trainer Froelich checked up on the injuries and found that Paul Thompson's strained ligament was repairing nicely, Doc Romnes' broken nose was nearly normal again, and the huge gooseegg which Goalie Gardiner was carrying, after a collision with a fast flying puck in Friday night's exhibition game, had entirely disappeared.

The team motored to Chicago after the morning's training drill. Most of the players and Manager Gorman went to the Midwest Athletic club, where they will live throughout the winter.

Light ice practices on the Chicago Stadium ice will be held today, tomorrow, and Wednesday, in preparation for Thursday night's opener.

CANADIENS IN SHAPE

MONTREAL, Que., Nov. 5.—(AP)—Except for the goal tending job, where Lorne Chabot will fill the place occupied for many years by George Hainsworth, the Montreal Canadiens will rely largely upon time tested stars in the 1933-'34 National Hockey league campaign.

But it seems certain that the flying Frenchmen will be in shape to do their best right from the start of the season. Coach Newsy Lalonde, once a Canadien star himself, gave his squad plenty of hard work in its training sessions at Kingston, Ont.—basketball, football, golf, and a lot of gymnastic exercises to reduce oversize waistlines. As a result they hit a good pace as soon as they went on the ice and showed more than the usual amount of enthusiasm.

Chabot Going Well.

Chabot, who came from Toronto in a trade for Hainsworth when that veteran of two Stanley cup championship teams objected to the salary offered, has been going well in practice. In front of him the old rear guard has been reorganized with Slyvio Mantha and Marty Burke in the leading roles. Gerald [Stub] Carson, who showed great improvement last season, and little Leo Bougault, obtained from the Ottawa Senators last spring, have the other defense jobs. Albert [Battleship] Leduc will be missing, however. He was sold to Ottawa a short time ago.

Howie Morenz has been training all summer and is in unusually fine condition to start another season as first string center. Flanking him he again will have Aurel Joliat, the midget stick handling star, and Johnny Gagnon.

Lepine Leads Second Line.

The third line shows more new faces than all the rest of the team put together. In the pivot post is Jack Riley, 170 pounder who played last year with the Detroit Olympics of the International league. He displayed enough ability in pre-season practice to get the call over a flock of players who appeared in the Canadien lineup from time to time last season. Paul Marcel Raymond, who played part of last season with the Flying Frenchmen, has won the right wing berth, and Armand Mondou, who finished with the Providence Reds a year ago, will patrol the left boards.

Sammy Godin, who has been playing in the International league for several seasons, returns to the big circuit as a utility player, probably alternating with Raymond on the new line. Godin helped Buffalo win the International league championship last spring.

12 BOXING BOUTS OFFERED FANS ON TONIGHT'S CARD

Twelve bouts will be held tonight six at Marigold Garden, Broadway and Grace street, and as many at White City 63d street and South Park. Davey Day, west side 133 pounder, boxes Billy Gladstone in the six round windup match at Marigold. Johnny Liston and Laddie Tonelli, both of whom are undefeated since turning professional, collide in a six round main event at White City.

Davey White, featherweight, faces John Mirabel of Argo, Ill., in the main preliminary at the Marigold. They have fought two draws in recent weeks. Other contests:

Art Donovan vs. Bill Reardon [4].
George Rabel vs. Tommy Bruce [4].
George Joensen vs. Rudy Kay [wrestling].

Supporting bouts at White City are:
Al Schiarato vs. Al Canalby [4].
Charley Young vs. Al Kubiak [4].
Bobby Millsapp vs. George Williams [4].
John Mason vs. John Holda [wrestling].

Harry Dublinsky, Chicago boxer, will go to Pittsburgh, Pa., Wednesday for a 10 round affair there against Bep Van Klaveren Friday. . . . Young Joe Walker will fight on the Barney Ross-Billy Petrolle bill at New York which has been set ahead from Dec. 8 to Dec. 6. . . . Jackie Sharkey leaves Chicago tomorrow for Milwaukee, Wis., where he clashes with Johnny Fitzpatrick for eight rounds Friday. Immediately after the contest Sharkey is to go to Minneapolis, Minn., for a 10 round encounter with Wayne Short Nov. 14. . . . Four matches at 10 rounds are being arranged for a show at Cleveland, O., Dec. 4. They are Tony Canzoneri vs. Jackie Davis, Kid Chocolate vs. Frankie Wallace, Jack [Kid] Berg vs. Jimmy Vaughn and Teddy Yarosz vs. Paul Pirrone.

Sammy Fuller, Boston, Mass., who will attempt to lift Barney Ross junior welterweight crown in a 10 round bout at the Chicago Stadium Nov. 17 was developed into a topnotch boxer only a year after he turned professional in 1925. Fuller, born Sabino Feruilo at Boston on June 10, 1906 of Italian parents, is a short, stocky chap.

He first won national recognition when a bantamweight in 1926, whipping Carl Tremaine. His best accomplishment as a lightweight occurred in 1931 when he beat Tony Canzoneri. Fuller's invasion of the welterweight division at New York last Dec. 16 was halted by Jimmy McLarnin. Since then he has been meeting boxers at his own poundage, 138.

Solly Dukelsky, west side welterweight, has signed to meet Peewee Jarrell in an eight round semi-final to the Baxter Caimes-Tony Cancela 10 round bout at the Coliseum Annex next Monday. Two matches at six rounds and one at four will round out the program.

The first boxing program at Arcadia Garden, scheduled for Nov. 15, has been postponed until Nov. 21. . . . The next card at Cicero stadium is planned for Nov 24. F. M.

MID-ATLANTIC LEAGUE STRONG, MEMBERS TOLD

Wheeling, W. Va., Nov. 5.—(AP)—The Mid-Atlantic Baseball league is in the best shape in its history, Elmer Dolly, president, told a meeting of club owners and executives today. He added that the eight city circuit probably will remain intact for the 1934 season.

The delegates adopted a new rookie rule compelling each club to carry at least three first year players and three who have only had one year of professional experience.

George Weiss, head of the New York Yankee farm system, said the management is satisfied with the Wheeling club of the Mid-Atlantic league, and added that the team would be continued. He said the Yanks would also seek a farm in the Piedmont league next year and one in the Eastern league, if the latter reorganizes.

MICHIGAN BANS HUNTERS FOR VIOLATING LAW

675 Will Be Refused Deer Licenses.

BY BOB BECKER.

There will be 675 men in the state of Michigan this year who will not be able to buy a license to hunt deer. All were convicted during the last two years for violation of the deer hunting laws or of killing or injuring some one during the open season.

Michigan penalizes a convicted deer hunter by not issuing another hunting license to him until after a lapse of three years. And if one has been unfortunate enough to shoot some one in the woods he is off the books for five years. The number barred by this 1931 law represents just about 1 per cent of the total number of deer hunters in Michigan.

Wisconsin Has System, Too.

Wisconsin has a system of publishing the names of all game law violators who have been haled into court and convicted. Every month the conservation department issues a mimeographed list of the men who have been caught seining fish illegally, killing game out of season or otherwise violating the game code.

Taking the law violator's license from him and giving the guilty hunters a little publicity are two additional methods of forcing obedience to a state game code. Illinois has neither of these ideas inculcated in its game code. There are many sportsmen who believe that both might be helpful in handling a certain group of violators as for example those who pot shot pheasants along the highways.

Illinois After Violators.

This fall the state conservation department is making a special effort to apprehend the pheasant hunters who have been bagging birds before the open season starting on Nov. 10. Thomas J. Lynch, inspector in charge of the northern Illinois district, informs us that he has several wardens cruising through the territory north and northwest of Chicago to arrest the potshooters. A number of them already have been caught in the act of taking pheasants [both hens and cocks] out of season.

Downstate the problem of law enforcement heads into one of the biggest problems affecting our waterfowl—how to stop the bootlegging of ducks and adequately punish the guilty bootleggers. For years Illinois river marshes have been the source of supply for thousands of mallards which are trucked to nearby large cities and sold.

BIKE RACES ON SATURDAY CLOSE SPORTS AT FAIR

The closing event on the sports program at the World's Fair will be a cycling meet on the board walk Saturday.

Carl Stockholm, former professional bicycle racer, will select entries from among the leading amateur racers in Chicago, and the event will be sanctioned by the American Cycle association.

The races will consist of senior, junior, and girls' divisions. In each division there will be five heats of five men each, with winners riding in the finals.

The winner of the senior race will be declared A Century of Progress Cycling champion, and other winners will be declared champions of their division.

Classic League Leaders' Edge Cut to 1 Game

BY HOWARD MARTIN.

The lead of the Baby Ruths was reduced to one game in the Classic Bowling league when the second place Moulding-Brownells took two out of three in their series last night at the Schueneman Logan Square alleys. After taking the opening encounter by seven pins, with a total of 997, the Moulding-Brownells piled up a 1,115 count for a second victory, but had to submit to defeat, 1,012 to 1,048, in the game they needed to create a tie for first place.

The Lorenz Knitting team's grip on third place was loosened by the loss of three games to the A. J. Cermaks, who were led by Theel and Wilman. In other matches, Olive Can won two out of three from Arlington Bowlers Aid, Edelweiss took three from Stevenson Heating and Budweiser annexed the odd game with Old Manhattan, one of them by a 1,043 to 1,042 margin. Entries for the annual city bowling tournament at the Gold Coast alleys Nov. 24, 24, and 25 will close on Nov. 11. Max Loehwing, newly elected president of the Chicago Bowling association, announced yesterday. The tournament will be divided into three sections: Class A, for men with averages of 190 and over; class B, for men averaging between 160 and 189, and class C, for those averaging 159 and under.

This classified system will permit low average bowlers to cash in on prizes, which in the past have gone to high average men.

Mr. Loehwing was named president at the meeting of the C. B. A. yesterday at the Sherman hotel. Other officers are: Vice presidents, E. F. Manning, H. Lemphul, Paul Wehrmeister, and J. Walz; executive committeemen, J. V. Clark and F. Gebler.

ONLY 8 ELEVENS IN EAST REMAIN ON UNBEATEN LIST

New York, Nov. 5.—(AP)—Ten eastern teams suffered first defeats of the season yesterday, leaving only eight which still could boast unbeaten records today.

Of these Duquesne, which leads the parade with eight successive triumphs, and Army and Princeton are the remaining major teams with perfect records.

Fordham, Holy Cross, Dartmouth, George Washington, Colgate, Carnegie Tech, Massachusetts State, Ursinus, Geneva, and Moravian all were beaten for the first time yesterday.

Davis and Elkins, with 319 points, and Bluefield college, with 235, lead in scoring, trailed by Villanova and Canisius with 192 each.

WINOOKA READY FOR UNITED HUNTS RACE TOMORROW

New York, Nov. 5.—[Special.]—Winooka, the Australian race horse, arrived at Belmont Park today from Baltimore, ready for his appearance in the international speed test, one of the events listed for the United Hunts meet Tuesday. The invader, fresh from a brilliant six furlong triumph at Pimlico, was shipped here with Good Advice, Curacao, and Blue for Boys.

The international speed test will be a six furlong race, restricted to four entries. It is believed that Good Advice, Sergeant Byrne and Flying Heels will face the barrier against Winooka.

italized the second. The first time Musick attempted a field goal from the 31 yard line and was wide of the posts. Then Molesworth punted and Battles, taking the ball on the Boston 30 yard line, brought it back to midfield before being pushed out of bounds.

Here the Boston steamroller went to work. Again Battles carried the ball, this time around the Chicago left end, and was brought down on the Bears' 25 yard line. Battles drove off right tackle and was brought down on the 9 yard line by Nagurski, who grabbed the straight arm to make the tackle. Musick then crashed through to the 5 yard line. The Bears were off side on the next play, putting the ball on the 1 yard line. Musick barged through guard for the touchdown. He added the point with a place kick.

Bears' Pass Intercepted.

In the second half the Bears seemed set to score. They had just missed a touchdown in the latter stages of the first half, when Karr erred on a forward pass. In the third period Grange threw a long pass to Molesworth which gained about 40 yards and put the ball on the Boston 20 yard line. The next play was a backward pass from Molesworth to Grange, who threw a flat forward. Up jumped Edwards, the burley Boston tackle, caught the ball, and raced down the field.

A faster man would have scored without any trouble, but the heavy Edwards was unable to move swiftly enough, although he was through the Chicago team before the Bears realized what had happened. Chasing the laboring Edwards was Joe Kopcha, Chicago guard, and eventually Kopcha made the tackle from behind the Chicago 29 yard line. Two plays gained five yards and on the next play Battles stepped back to the 30 yard line and kicked a field goal for the Boston total of 10 points.

Normal Stays in Lead for Little Nineteen Crown

Bloomington, Ill., Nov. 5.—[Special.]—While Augustana, one of the two leading contenders for the Little Nineteen conference crown, was upset by Lake Forest, 9 to 7, yesterday, State Normal, the league leader for three weeks, continued its drive for the title by winning its fifth straight conference triumph from Western Teachers of Macomb, 26 to 7.

Augustana, with three victories and one tie, lost all chance for the conference title when Les Dohr, Lake Forest right end, drop kicked a field goal from the 35 yard line, in the last two minutes of play to give the Chicago suburban team victory.

The upset was Augustana's first defeat in seventeen games. Previously the Vikings had won 12 and tied 4 in a string of sixteen consecutive battles.

Besides State Normal, five other colleges remain undefeated at the close of the sixth week of play. McKendree, idle last week, is tied for second place in the standings with St. Viator, each having won two games, lost none, and tied none. St. Viator unleashed a powerful offensive against Eastern Teachers of Charleston Wednesday, winning, 42 to 6. St. Viator, with one of the best teams in the Little Nineteen, ended its conference schedule with a perfect record, winning two, losing none, and tieing none.

Illinois Wesleyan, North Central, and Millikin are the three other undefeated teams, but their records are marred by ties. Wesleyan won its second league triumph of the year from Bradley, 18 to 7, yesterday before a large homecoming crowd. North Central's schedule is closed. Its record includes two victories and two ties.

Colleges now granted the best chance to win the Little Nineteen crown are State Normal, McKendree, Illinois Wesleyan, and Millikin. The first three meet each other before the season closes.

WANTS ILLINOIS CHARITY FUNDS TO HELP ROADS

Motor Club President Cites Indiana Plan.

BY HAL FOUST.

South Bend, Ind., Nov. 5.—[Special.]—The Chicago Motor club yesterday urged that the $30,000,000 relief fund about to be created by the Illinois legislature should include a substantial allotment for highway improvements, similar to a system now in operation in Indiana.

The $30,000,000 fund, as proposed in bills pending at Springfield, would be obtained from a bond issue to be retired with revenue from the state gasoline excise tax.

Voices Motorists' Claims.

"Motorists," said Charles M. Hayes, president of the club, "are surely entitled to some improvements of special benefit to them in return for the gas tax contributions to charity. Furthermore, the highway betterments offer an unrivaled opportunity to take able bodied men from the relief rolls and give them a chance to do something constructive."

An inspection of the relief labor projects on northern Indiana roads indicated that form of charity is making a valuable return to the motorists. On the older paved highways the dirt shoulders are being widened, the banks of ditches are being sloped and grass seed is being planted.

"Ignoring the improvement in appearance," said Lieut. Ray Fisher, commanding the state police in northern Indiana, "the widened shoulders are reducing accidents on these roads. An automobile crowded from the pavement does not turn over in a deep ditch, but is able to return to the concrete. A car with motor or tire trouble has room to park on the shoulder without leaving a couple of wheels on the slab."

20,000 Work on Roads.

The state highway department at Indianapolis reported that it has 20,000 men now employed on this roadside work with a special $1,000,000 fund. The men are taken from county poor relief rolls and are paid 40 cents an hour for thirty hour weeks, working alternate weeks to double the number so employed.

At the district office at Laporte, Ind., M. J. Henoch, engineer, said that 3,900 men are receiving this relief work in this district extending from the Illinois line east to South Bend and from the Michigan line south to Valparaiso. More than a hundred miles of road are undergoing improvement and more mileage is being added.

Jobs for 40,000.

In Illinois there are approximately 5,000 miles of pavement on sixty foot rights of way, but with narrow shoulders and steeply banked ditches. It is estimated that with $18,000,000 from the $30,000,000 relief fund 40,000 men could be employed through the winter in widening and parking these rights of way, improving the appearance of the roads and lessening the hazards of rural motor travel. It was pointed out that because of the nature of the work almost every penny of the allotment could be spent for wages to men now on relief rolls.

SATURDAY'S PUZZLE SOLVED

LITTLE ORPHAN ANNIE: Mirage

ENTIRE NAVY OUTFIT TO BE SEEN IN NEXT WEEK'S EXERCISES

San Pedro, Cal., Nov. 5.—(AP)—Exercises which, for the first time in history of the American navy, will include every combatant type afloat, aloft and undersea, will be staged off the California coast from Nov. 13 to 15, Admiral David F. Sellers, commander in chief, said today.

The maneuvers will reach a climax off San Pedro with a spectacular concentration by all fleet forces.

Participating in the war game will be some 100 surface ships, five submarines, and nearly 300 aircraft, including the navy's new dirigible, Macon, now based at Sunnyvale.

'BIG NAVY' JAPS SEE U. S. TRAP IN MOVING OF FLEET

TOKIO, Nov. 6.—[Monday]—(AP)—Japanese naval propagandists, fighting to retain one of the most effective arguments supporting the navy's demands are an enlarged 1934-35 budget—concentration of the United States fleet in the Pacific—deluged the smaller vernacular papers today with denials of improved Japanese-American relations.

Widespread comment concerning lessening of Pacific tension because of projected removal of the fleet to Atlantic waters had appeared in Japan's more influential dailies.

"Japan will be caught in an American trap if we reduce our building program because of interpreting the United States fleet's summer cruise as a gesture of friendship," was a typical comment accompanying today's denials.

Although a spokesman for the naval office had said it was "quite unsuitable that we comment on movements of the United States navy," anonymous naval personages quoted in the vernaculars bitterly hinted at "American trickery and deceit."

Girl Student Pilot Dies of Injuries After Crash

Fresno, Cal., Nov. 5.—(AP)—Six hours after she crashed while piloting an airplane over an abandoned airfield, Flo Ann Ross, 20, student flyer of Los Angeles, died here tonight from injuries.

BRITAIN TO PAY 'TOKEN' ON DEBT AGAIN DEC. 15

Question First to Face Commons Tuesday.

LONDON, Nov. 5.—(AP)—The deadlock on the war debts between Great Britain and the United States will be aired in the house of commons Tuesday.

Questions on the mission of Sir Frederick Leith-Ross to Washington, D. C., will be prominent among the 50 formal interpellations which Prime Minister MacDonald and his ministers will be pressed to answer on the first day of the reassembly of parliament after its 14 weeks' recess.

Authoritative opinion believes Great Britain will meet its Dec. 15 payment with another "token" $10,000,000, but the cabinet may not have an opportunity to make a formal decision on this matter before the house of commons meets.

Battle for Money Control.

The only possible danger seen here is that the failure to negotiate a debt settlement in Washington may result in the United States and Britain girding for battle over a new economic issue—that of money exchange controls. Comment on this phase of the situation will not be forthcoming until after Secretary of State Hull has been heard and Chancellor of the Exchequer Neville Chamberlain speaks in the house of commons.

It is expected that attempts will be made to whip debts into the live parliamentary issue again, but political observers think such a program is unlikely of success.

Chamberlain, as the government spokesman on finance in the commons, will carefully refrain, it is believed, from placing any blame for the Leith Ross mission's failure on the shoulders of the Roosevelt administration. At the same time he is expected to point out that the British mission went to the United States hoping to reach a final settlement of the war debt.

"Token" Was Precedent.

The British official view, as expressed in parliament, is likely to be one of disappointment over the Anglo-American inability to reach a final settlement. Authoritative American observers here have reported to Washington that the British public is apathetic toward the whole debts question.

A continuance of token payments generally will be accepted by the British as the best means of handling the problem. When the United States accepted the first token payment, the impression gained ground here that the whole debts question was susceptible to such treatment. During the decade since the debt was funded, the problem has ceased to arouse the violent passions previously expressed in large sections of the British press.

The national government has coolly omitted any debt provision from the British budget and, with other national and international problems pressing, particularly that of political unrest on the continent, Great Britain, according to American observers, will be satisfied to see the debts bogie shelved again.

Hold Funeral Tomorrow for Wife of John Duffy

HOTEL IS ROBBED 5TH TIME; GUARD BATTLES BANDITS

With the robbery of the Cedar hotel, 1118 North State street, yesterday morning for the fifth time since last April 11, police have redoubled their vigilance to prevent hotel holdups. Three bandits took $12 from the night clerk and escaped after exchanging shots with Policeman Edward Donovan, who has been stationed at the hotel since a robbery on Sept. 13. The bandits dropped their guns in their flight.

The epidemic of hotel holdups broke out a few weeks ago on the near north side, and as a result special details were organized to combat this form of crime. Some hotel managements have armed their employés.

During September and October twenty-nine hotels were robbed of amounts ranging from $9 to $1,190. The heaviest losers were the Lincoln Park West hotel, 2136 Lincoln Park West, which was robbed of $1,190, and the Seneca hotel, 200 East Chestnut street, with a loss of $1,000.

THOS. T. LYMAN DIES; EVANSTON CHURCH OFFICIAL

Funeral services will be held tomorrow from St. Luke's Episcopal procathedral in Evanston for Thomas T. Lyman, who was senior warden of that church. Mr. Lyman, who was 70 years old, died yesterday at his home, 1021 Greenwood boulevard, Evanston.

Mr. Lyman was a director and the general manager in Chicago and the west for the Johns-Manville company until his retirement in 1927. He was born in New York City and had lived in several other cities before transferring his residence to Evanston about 18 years ago.

The services will be held at 11 o'clock tomorrow morning. Burial will be at Memorial Park cemetery. Surviving are Mr. Lyman's widow, Eva, two sons, Alfred T. and Sylvester A. Lyman, and a daughter, Lillia.

DEDICATE NEW MORMON CHAPEL AT WASHINGTON

Washington, D. C., Nov. 5.—(AP)—A monument to the "perseverance, integrity, honor, and heroism" of the Mormon people, the new $500,000 Washington chapel of the church was dedicated today by church dignitaries from all sections of the country.

Heading the delegation was President Heber J. Grant, prophet and revelator, who had charge of the three services throughout the day and who outlined the history of the Mormon church from the time of Joseph Smith, through prosecutions in Missouri, eviction from Illinois, the pilgrimage westward to the Great Salt lake.

Japan Names Naotake Sato as Ambassador to Paris

[Copyright: 1933: By the New York Times.]

PARIS, Nov. 5.—Naotake Sato has been appointed Japanese ambassador to Paris and Hachiro Arita has been named to succeed him at Brussels. Because Sato was Japanese representative on the council of the league of nations during the debates over Japan's action in Manchukuo and Shanghai, his appointment is interpreted by some as indicating a movement by Japan toward returning to membership in the league.

AUGUST J. THALER, RETIRED BARREL FIRM CHIEF, DIES

August J. Thaler, who manufactured barrels for virtually every brewery in the central west before prohibition, died yesterday in his home at 2142 Lincoln Park West after a brief illness. He was 76 years old, and a native Chicagoan. He had lived in the same neighborhood for the last 73 years.

Mr. Thaler's cooperage business was established about the time of the civil war by his father, William Thaler, a master cooper from Württemberg, Germany. With his late brother, William, August J. Thaler inherited the business on their father's death. He continued in it until about three years ago. The plant stood at 2036 North Clark street. With the legalization of beer last spring, Mr. Thaler served as consultant to brewers on beer cooperage products.

Surviving Mr. Thaler is a sister, Miss Ida Thaler. Funeral services will be held at the home at 2 p. m. Wednesday, and burial will be in Graceland cemetery. Mr. Thaler was a member of the Germania club and several other organizations.

Frederick P. Royce, 66, Utilities Director, Is Dead

Dedham, Mass., Nov. 5.—(AP)—Frederick P. Royce, prominent in bank and utility circles, died suddenly today at his home. He was in his 66th year. He was a director of the National Shawmut Bank of Boston and of many electric and power companies.

COLDS

Go Thru 3 Stages

—and They're Far Easier Relieved in the First than in the Second or Third!

A cold ordinarily goes through 3 stages: the Dry Stage, the first 24 hours; the Watery Secretion Stage, from 1 to 3 days; and the Mucous Secretion Stage. The first stage is the time to "nail" a cold.

Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine is the treatment for colds. It is expressly a cold remedy and not a preparation good for half a dozen other things as well. It is direct and internal which is what a cold, an internal infection, requires. It is also complete—it does the four things necessary. It opens the bowels, combats the cold germs and fever in the system, relieves the headache and grippy feeling and tones and fortifies the entire system. Anything less than that is inviting trouble. Get Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine at any druggist, 30c and 50c. Ask for it by the full name and refuse a substitute.

RUSSIAN GOLD RESERVE SHOWS GAIN OF $48,000,000

New York, Nov. 5.—(AP)—The Amtorg Trading corporation issued a survey of Russian financial and trade conditions today showing an increase of $48,000,000 in the gold reserve of the note issue department of the State Bank of the U. S. S. R. for the year.

The total for Oct. 1, 1933, was 808,482,380 rubles [$416,368,000 at par]; a year ago, 714,515,410 rubles [$367,975,000 at par].

For the first eight months of this year, the soviet union had a favorable balance of trade of 81,090,000 rubles [$41,760,000 at par], contrasted with an unfavorable balance in 1932 of 212,486,000 rubles [$109,400,000 at par].

Steel Plants Wait Orders Backed by U.S.

Hopes for arresting the decline in steelworks operations, which were 6 points lower at 25 per cent of capacity last week, rest upon the promptness with which requirements for railroads and public works can be converted into rolling mill schedules, according to the magazine Steel.

"Agreement on a price of $36.375 for standard rails and the allotment by PWA of $135,000,000 to the railroads for the purchase of rails, trackwork, rolling stock, power and equipment would seem to clear the way for the placing of orders at an early date," the review explains.

Purchases May Be Spread.

"However, the expenditures may be spread over a period of many months. For instance, the $51,000,000 nominally set aside for the purchase of 1,000,000 tons of rails and 400,000 tons of fastenings is likely to extend over the entire year of 1934.

"At the moment, the allocation of $84,000,000 to the Pennsylvania's electrification program seems to hold more promise of early diversified business than the track material deal.

"The announcement from Washington, stating that the PWA allotment provides for roadbed improvement, and the building of 132 electric locomotives and 7,000 cars, is interpreted to mean that early releases can be approved of certain orders placed more than a year ago. About 40,000 tons of shapes on old contracts are expected to be released as a result of the plan to resume the Pennsylvania's electrification project.

Minimize Buying of Cars.

"Other Washington reports of contemplated purchases of 100,000 cars are discounted in the steel industry, where the opinion is expressed that 50,000 cars may be the maximum resulting from the government's present efforts. On quotations for the 12 locomotives for the Northern Pacific, some builders are reserving the right to revise quotations should the equipment be purchased through government aid."

The plate, shape, concrete bar and cast iron pipe markets are still supported mainly by the construction projects sponsored by PWA, according to Steel. The current awards are made up of an uncommonly large number of small contracts. Structural shape awards were 15,595 tons, against 22,075 in the preceding week.

"Several projects requiring large tonnage have been held up pending the settlement of disagreements," the magazine reports. "Bids for 14,000 tons of shapes for New York Central grade separation work at Syracuse, N. Y., will close Dec. 5.

Other Awards in Offing.

"Tenders for 8,000 tons for the west side elevated highway, New York City, were due Nov. 3. The eastern plate market has in prospect a fair tonnage for navy work. Bids will be due in November for 12,200 tons of plates for cruisers. Cincinnati is asking for bids Nov. 8 on 32,450 feet of cast iron pipe and 82 tons of fittings."

Both the pig iron and the scrap markets are quiet. The iron and steel composite is unchanged at $31.59 and the finished steel composite at $49.20; the scrap composite fell 13 cents to $10.04.

Considered by districts, steelworks operations declined 4 points to 25 per cent of capacity at Pittsburgh, 5 to 31 at Chicago, 1½ to 19 in eastern Pennsylvania, 6 to 32 in Youngstown.

CORN LOANS MAY MAKE U. S. AGAIN BIG SPECULATOR

Seen as New Effort in Stabilization.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Theory has apparently entirely displaced supply and demand as the dominating factor in the grain markets in the United States. If farmers generally take advantage of the proposed new administration loan policy of 50 cents on corn, the price based on the nearest large market, and almost regardless of grade, the government is expected to become the largest speculator in this grain in the world.

The many theories proposed at Washington as to how to advance the price of agricultural commodities are by no means new, according to practical grain men. The latest move to lift the level of the farmers' product is generally regarded as government stabilization operations in a new disguise. As the loans will presumably be made to farmers without liability in case the market declines, the taxpayers may be called upon to assume the loss.

Long Range Proposal.

Secretary of Agriculture Wallace has reiterated that the administration's plan for acreage control to bring supply and demand into closer relationship is a long time proposition. The latest developments in regard to loans on corn suggest that the government is now prepared to back this idea with millions of dollars in the belief that ultimately the supply can be cut down sufficiently to bring a higher price.

Students of conditions claim that the supply of all feeding grains this season is so short that sooner or later the market will feel the effect, regardless of government loans or other activities. So far the consumer has not become frightened over the steady depreciation in the American dollar as measured in terms of the RFC gold price.

Corn belt governors are reported to have suggested a price of 95 cents for corn, 99 cents for rye, and other grains in proportion at Chicago, as the levels which they desired the administration to put into effect.

Wheat Lower for Week.

Wheat closed Saturday with net losses of ⅞ to 1⅛ cents for the week, with December closing at 87 to 87¼ cents; May at 89⅝ to 89⅞ cents, and July at 87⅛ to 87¾ cents. Foreign wheat markets gained 4 to 5 cents on Chicago during the same period. The range of prices follows:

	Dec.	May.	July.
Monday	87⅛-90½	89⅝-93½	86¾-90
Tuesday	85⅞-89	88 -91½	85 -88
Wednesday	81⅝-87¾	84 -89¼	81¼-86⅛
Thursday	83⅜-86¼	86¼-88⅝	83⅜-86⅛
Friday	85⅝-87⅞	87¾-90⅝	85⅝-87⅞
Saturday	85⅞-88⅝	88⅛-91½	86⅛-88⅜
For week	81⅝-90½	84 -93½	81¼-90
Prev wk	84 -89¼	87¼-92⅛	84¼-89¼
Last year	41⅞-44½	46⅞-49⅝	48⅝-50⅝
2 yrs. ago	60⅝-67⅛	65¾-72½	66⅛-73⅛
Season	67½-1.24	71½-1.28⅛	70¼-93⅝
1932	41⅞-66¼	46⅝-64½	48¼-67½

With the government offering to lend farmers 50 cents per bushel for cash corn, some of which is now selling in the leading terminal markets as much as 15 cents per bushel under the level at which the proposed loans will be made, the latest effort to lift prices may be effective as a market influence, temporarily at least, according to a number of corn handlers.

Futures closed ¼ to ⅞ cent higher for the week, with December at 47 to 47½ cents; May 51⅝ to 52 cents, and July, 53¼ to 53¾ cents.

Oats in Strong Position.

Statistically, oats are regarded as in an abnormally strong position owing to the extreme scarcity in supplies compared with normal domestic requirements. Oats specialists feel that sooner or later the scarcity will assert itself and advance prices considerably. The close Saturday was ⅞ to 2⅛ cents lower than the previous week, with December, 34½ cents; May, 37⅝ to 37½ cents, and July, 36 cents.

With rye prices on an import level with Canadian grain, as well as that from Europe, and with the closing of spreads between rye, wheat, and corn by local traders, the market was erratic with a flat dip in the latter part of the week in sympathy with other grains.

ASKS U. S. CEASE GIVING FARMERS VAIN PRICE HOPE

Grain Man Answers "No Profit" Plea.

If the contention of the grain growers that there is no profit in raising grain at the present prices is correct, it would be good policy for the government to quit inspiring them with false hopes, Fred Uhlmann, head of the Uhlmann Grain company, said in a statement yesterday.

There is no prospect of extraordinary prices as long as this country stays out of the export business, Mr. Uhlmann believes.

"If there is no money in raising wheat around the present prices, why is it that the farmer continues to raise it year after year," Mr. Uhlmann asked.

Compares Business Practice.

"Business men who fail to make a profit in handling certain lines for a few years generally discontinue such operations," he observed.

He declared that he did not believe it possible to compute the cost of raising wheat. Many variables enter into the picture such as land values, acreage yield, investment in fertilizer, weather conditions, he pointed out.

He recalled that during the war some politicians claimed that wheat could not be produced for $2.26 a bushel. On the other hand, he said, some Texas farmers with cheap land assert they can realize a profit at 35 cents a bushel. It can be assumed that the farmer would not perpetually raise a commodity unless he derived some profit from it.

Says U. S. Raises False Hopes.

"Under the circumstances," he added, "is it not to be assumed, inasmuch as the wheat acreage this year has hardly been reduced, in spite of the fact that the government makes it so tempting for farmers by paying large bonuses, that on an average the results could not have been quite as bad as described during an average number of years? Or is it possible that the hope of higher prices next year was the temptation to keep these large acreages? Should this be the case, would it not be good policy on the part of the government to stop encouraging the farmer with false hopes, inasmuch as no extraordinary prices are in sight as long as we are out of the export business?"

U. S. Distributing Corp. Has Loss Against 1932 Profit

New York, Nov. 5.—(AP)—The U. S. Distributing corporation had net loss of $5,553 for the first nine months of 1933, contrasting with profit of $280,153 in the corresponding period of 1932. The September quarter resulted in net profit of $87,444, against loss of $50,289 in the preceding quarter and profit of $24,245 in the September quarter of 1932.

CHICAGO TRADE SAGS SEASONALLY; STILL EXCEEDS LAST YEAR

Department store business during the last week, according to the Chicago Association of Commerce, suffered a slight decline which officials characterized as temporary and of a seasonal nature.

Sales still maintained higher averages than those established during this same time last year, but they lacked any special stimulus to boost them to a new high mark. Warmer weather than customary for this time of the year was also an unfavorable factor. Wholesale trade continued at about the same levels as last week with a fair amount of advance orders for holiday merchandise.

One of the more encouraging factors in local business improvement was the indication of a decided pickup in the demands for the products of Chicago telephone manufacturing companies.

SECURITIES DATA MAY BE GIVEN IN 20 DAY PERIOD

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 5.—The federal trade commission today in another ruling on the operation of the securities act of 1933 held that underwriters may distribute information concerning an offering, during the twenty days from the time of filing to the effective date of the application, if the data furnished conform with information contained in the regulation statement.

Offers to buy or sell, however, cannot be made and accepted under the terms of the law during the waiting period. The commission said it had received many inquiries concerning how far an underwriter may go in discussing and advertising a proposed new offering of securities prior to the effective date of a regulation statement.

CANADIAN BANK ASSERTS WORLD IS RECOVERING

MONTREAL, Nov. 5.—(AP)—The Royal Bank of Canada in its monthly letter said today that with rumors of wars and revolutions becoming an impediment to the recovery of confidence in economic matters, governments must realize economic recovery has made greater headway than is popularly appreciated.

"If diplomacy can hold off war a little longer," the letter said, "the fabric to hold together the economic and financial tissue will be reknit and the necessity for international bitterness will have disappeared."

"Throughout the world production is increasing, prices for the principal commodities are higher and unemployment has begun to decrease," the letter said.

GROUP IS FORMED TO AID RUSSIAN BONDHOLDERS

New York, Nov. 5.—(AP)—Formation of a committee of Wall street financiers to protect the interests of holders of Russian imperial bonds at forthcoming negotiations between the American and Russian governments was announced today.

The committee, representing holders of certificates of deposits of $50,000,000 in 6½ per cent bonds due in 1918 and $25,000,000 in 5½ per cent bonds due in 1921, is composed of N. Penrose Hallowell, executive vice president of Lee Higginson corporation; G. Hermann Kinnicutt, a partner in Kidder, Peabody & Co.; Joseph P. Ripley, vice president of the City Company of New York; Harold Stanley, a partner in J. P. Morgan & Co., and Joseph R. Swan, president of the Guaranty corporation. George J. Kenny is secretary and George Rublee of Washington counsel.

Certificates representing the obligations are selling currenly at between 4½ and 5 cents on the dollar on the curb exchange.

EUROPE'S BASIC TRADE SITUATION FOUND BETTER

New York, Nov. 5.—(AP)—Thomas J. Watson, president of the International Business Machines corporation and chairman of the American committee of the International Chamber of Commerce, said on his recent return from Paris that there was "underlying improvement in trade and financial conditions in the principal European countries which gives promise of definite progress during the coming year."

Watson, with Nelson Dean Jay of J. P. Morgan & Co., Francis E. Powell, chairman of the International Sugar council, and James D. Mooney, president of the General Motors Export corporation, attended the forty-fourth meeting of the council of the chamber in Paris.

Dahl Denies He Unloaded B. M. T. Stock

New York, Nov. 5.—(AP)—Gerhard M. Dahl, chairman of the board of the Brooklyn-Manhattan Transit corporation, denied in a statement tonight that he had unloaded his B.-M. T. stock a few days before the company passed its dividend last year.

Disputing reports of the testimony of Albert H. Wiggin, former head of the Chase National bank, before the senate stock market inquiry, Dahl declared all of the stock belonging to him that was sold before suspension of the dividend "was actually sold by Mr. Wiggin as the then head of the Chase bank over my protest and over my objection."

Held as Collateral.

Dahl explained his stock was held by the bank as collateral on a loan, and said Wiggin insisted on selling it to protect the bank. Altogether the sales amounted to 55,000 shares of common at an average of $23.84, he said, and 5,200 shares of preferred at an average of $39.15.

"Regardless of the effect of these sales upon me personally," he continued, "they constituted a great disservice to the bank. Since the time of these sales the common sold on July 12, 1933, at 44¼ and the preferred sold on June 13, 1933 at 83½. The difference to the bank can be readily figured."

Reasons for Objections.

Dahl listed two reasons for his objection to the sale:

"1. I did not consider it good business ethics, in view of the information I had, to sell out my own holdings without giving the other stockholders an opportunity to share in the same information.

"2. I did not want to sell my stock because I believed that intrinsically it was worth more than it was selling for and that ultimately the market would reflect the real value which I believed in."

Royal League Insurance Sales Gains Are Reported

In October, for the third consecutive month, new insurance business written by the Royal League, national fraternal insurance society, has increased substantially over business recorded in the like month of 1932, according to Fred A. Johnson, general organizer.

MARKET FACING MANY HURDLES IN COMING WEEK

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Nov. 5.—There are a half dozen or more items on the week's news calendar which ordinarily might be counted upon to exert some influence on the course of stock market dealings.

General Motors directors meet on Monday to act on dividends on the corporation's common and preferred stocks. Tuesday, election day, will bring votes in six states on prohibition repeal, with only three necessary to ratify repeal of the eighteenth amendment, and also balloting in Cincinnati, Akron, and Youngstown, O.; Camden, N. J.; Salt Lake City, Utah, and San Francisco on municipal operation of public utilities.

Litvinoff, soviet emissary, is due to arrive Tuesday afternoon for a discussion of Russian recognition and the reopening of big scale trade between the two countries. Wednesday will mark the publication of the government cotton report and Friday that of the unfilled tonnage report of the United States Steel corporation.

Will Act on Dividends.

Sandwiched in among these more important happenings will be the dividend meetings of such corporations as Union Pacific railroad, Underwood-Elliott, Eastman Kodak, Atlantic Refining, and Seaboard Oil, and in all probability the usual quota of developments in the administration's monetary, agricultural, and industrial control maneuvers.

With the general confusion and uncertainty that now exists in the speculative mind, however, market observers do not anticipate that any of these events, or even all of them combined, will revolutionize trading activity either way. Most commentators agree, in fact—as they have been doing for weeks—that nothing extraordinary in

FEDERAL BONDS SAG AS DOLLAR IS DEPRECIATED

Other High Grade Issues Join in Decline.

New York, Nov. 5.—(AP)—Extension of governmental efforts to depreciate the exchange dollar to gold operations in world markets was accompanied by a decline in United States government securities and other high grade investment mediums last week. Federal issues showed a decided heaviness of tone all through the period. Some of the treasury loans lost considerably more than a point, receding to levels fairly close to the lows for the year.

Pressure on prime investment ratings in the corporation divisions was sporadic rather than general, but in a considerable number of cases values fell sharply because of an apparent reluctance of buyers to pay asked prices in the face of monetary uncertainties.

See Switch to Stocks.

The general trend among bonds of the better class, in the opinion of market observers, tended to confirm reports which Wall street has heard frequently of late that some substantial investment holdings have been liquidated for reinvestment in equities.

Semi-speculative issues followed an irregular downward course during the first half of the week, but braced up later under the reviving influence of the rally in stocks.

Due to general lethargy and heaviness in the domestic department, many traders turned to the foreign list and found considerable action in French, British, Swiss, and other European government obligations. This group pushed ahead vigorously over a considerable part of the week in response to sharp advances in the respective currencies against the dollar.

Curb Market Cautious.

Uncertainties as to monetary matters found reflection in the cautious movements of the curb market last week. The beginning of the period found prices inclined to droop on light offerings but the list steadied at midweek and an improved undertone was in evidence at the close.

Strength of the alcohols contrasted with reactionary tendencies in metals. Utilities were narrow and extremely dull at times while oils after lagging, experienced a moderate late demand. In the repeal group Hiram Walker, Distiller corporation-Seagrams and Canadian Industrial Alcohol A were in favor.

Other Issues Advance.

Other issues that responded to improved sentiment included shares of Gulf and Humble oils, American Gas and Electric, Parker Rustproof, International Petroleum, Technicolor, Aluminum Company of America, and Swift & Co. Singer Manufacturing recovered mostly from a 9 point drop, while New Jersey Zinc and Newmont Mining had to absorb sizable offerings at times.

Trading was dull and colorless over extended intervals but showed some expansion on the late buying. Total transfers were substantially under the figures for the previous week, and averaged less than 200,000 shares per each full five hour session.

NEW TYPE OF TRAIN IS SPEEDY RAIL BUS; WILL IT SATISFY US?

BY H. A. LAIRD.

[Traffic Manager, Chicago Tribune.]

Inspection of the Texas and Pacific train brings to mind the thought that we are prone to criticize the railways for their refusal to meet bus rates without taking into consideration the discomforts that we are willing to assume for the sake of economy when we board a bus.

Generally speaking we ensconce ourselves in the most comfortable seat that we can find in a bus, and there we must remain until an opportunity is offered to stretch our legs at an intermediate refreshment stop. Reading is generally impossible, and even a shift to a "smoker's seat" is accomplished with difficulty.

We secure Pullman accommodation and board a through train. After reading for possibly an hour in our berth seat we might retire to the smoker for a cigaret, forgetting that this is additional accommodation for which the Pullman company receives no revenue. This location becoming monotonous, we might find that it is time for luncheon and we walk through to the diner. If no seat is available we are inclined to grumble, and such grumbling has been met on most through trains by running an additional diner—another eighty tons of nonrevenue transportation.

That detail having been attended to, we might proceed as far as the club car to while away an hour with a magazine. Revenues from club cars are seldom sufficient to cover the expenses of maintaining an attendant and barber, but the car weighs another seventy-five tons.

Next we consider the possibility that there is an acquaintance on the train, so we wander back to the observation car, less than half of which produces revenue, entirely oblivious to the fact that we will have occupied a total of five seats, and, what is more, expected them to be available when required.

This new type train is a bus on the rails, offering superior comfort and speed as compared with highway buses, but with an operating expense sufficiently low to warrant the railway expectancy that it will show a profit at Texas rates of 1¾ cents per mile. We can, therefore, visualize for the future an occasional Pullman train with all the luxuries above enumerated for which the passenger must expect to pay an increased basic fare as well as a Pullman charge, with intermediate trains of the new type to compete with the bus in the matter of economy and possibly with the airplane in point of speed.

Of course there are a few coach trains that offer practically the same accommodations, less air conditioning, pneumatic tires, etc., but they offer neither the speed nor the economy of the train developed by the Texas and Pacific.

EXPORTERS SEEK EXEMPTION FROM NRA CODE RULES

Trade Hard Pressed, Says Merchants' Official.

Urging that as much latitude as possible be granted to exporters under the new codes and demonstrating the need for imports to assure credit balances here, Louis K. Comstock, president of the Merchants' Association of New York, analyzes the foreign trade outlook in the November Savings Bank Journal.

"Through the application of our domestic recovery codes and various measures of relief for the farmer, manufacturer, and laborer, the condition of those dependent upon our domestic trade undoubtedly has improved," he says. "On the other hand, the exporter finds himself in an extraordinarily difficult situation.

"For four years up to last June the exporters had witnessed a constant decline in the export business. Then came some signs of domestic recovery. Yet today they find themselves confronted with conditions which are going to make it exceedingly difficult for our business with foreign countries to keep pace with forward development at home.

Existence Threatened, He Says.

"Many business houses find that they are up against a situation which seriously threatens their very existence. Our foreign trade handicaps include the preferences resulting from the Ottawa agreement under which the rates of import duty on certain classes of textiles of non-British origin entering India recently were increased; the deadening effects of exchange control and exchange allocation on the sales of American products, such as drastic control of blocked accounts in Chile and the allocation of available exchange to countries other than the United States, and the quota system as illustrated by steps which France and one or two other European countries have taken.

"The exporters thought that with this load they already had a burden which was almost unendurable. Then came the NRA code with its increase in the cost of production. The fact is inescapable that the increased cost of production constitutes a serious menace to our overseas sales. With the exporter forced to pay increasingly large amounts for almost everything that he purchases in the United States, competition in neutral markets with products of countries not governed by similar production control methods, becomes increasingly difficult.

Hope for Exemptions.

"Our exporters generally are extremely hopeful that the inauguration and operation of the sales and marketing provisions of the various codes will not be considered as applicable to sales for consumption outside continental United States, although they understand that those codes must be uniformly applied to articles sold abroad as well as at home in so far as wages and hours of labor at the point of production are concerned. Freedom from certain code conditions on sales outside the United States, helpful as that promises to be, cannot offset the great disadvantage of higher production costs of articles offered in neutral competitive markets.

"Still another phase of the problem relates to the possible decrease in the volume of imported merchandise owing to the desire to protect our own producers under the national recovery act. It is quite likely that there will be a reduction in importations as a result of the assessment of the compensating tax on basic agricultural commodities on which a processing tax has been announced when offered for importations into the United States.

Puts Limit on Sales.

"We do not dispute the necessity for these reductions. They doubtless are necessary to restore and maintain the conditions at which our domestic legislation is aimed. Nevertheless if there is further reduction in the importation of merchandise from those countries in which American goods are sold this change automatically will cause a decline in the amount of exchange available to pay for purchase in the United States and thereby serve to put a further limitation on the amount of our sales overseas.

"The whole picture looks very gloomy to the exporter. It certainly is one which deserves the very best attention of the administration."

COMMUNICATION FIRMS MAY JOIN OFFICES ABROAD

New York, Nov. 5.—(AP)—Discussions looking toward joint operation of the European branch offices of the Western Union Telegraph company, International Telephone and Telegraph, and Radio Corporation of America are being held in London, it was learned here today. Imperial and International, the British unit associated with cables and wireless, is expected to enter the negotiations.

The proposed action, it is explained, would not effect the financial independence of the companies, merely putting one office in each locality to serve all organizations.

Newcomb Carlton, chairman of Western Union, is in London for the meetings, while Sosthenes Behn, chairman of the International Telephone, is representing his company. Officials of both corporations denied that the conferences were considering a merger of all their facilities, here and abroad. Such a consolidation has been rumored for some time.

Plymouth Oil Gets Back to Profit in 3d Quarter

The Plymouth Oil company reports third quarter net income of $199,558, equal to 19 cents a share, against net loss of $655,002 in the preceding quarter and net income $501,900 a year ago. Net income for the first nine months was $142,344, equal to 13 cents a share, compared with $1,375,486, or $1.31 a share in the same 1932 period.

ALKALI PRICES RESERVED.

It is reported in the trade that manufacturers of alkalis are reluctant to quote prices on 1934 contracts because of inability to determine what their production costs will be. There have been unconfirmed reports of a moderate raise in the schedules.

OIL INDUSTRY HEADS WEIGH SALES OPINION

Retail Methods Called Unfair Practice.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 5.—(AP)—Leaders of the oil industry, including chieftains of its biggest companies, today weighed an opinion by the federal trade commission holding in effect their methods of controlling retail outlets was an unfair trade practice and illegal.

The commission's views, set forth in a memorandum to Hugh Johnson, the NRA administrator, were before the petroleum business' planning and coordination committee, governing board of the oil world under its recovery code.

No comment was forthcoming from committee members at the moment, with counsel for the big companies and independents poring over the commission's opinion to prepare answering statements to give the committee, which expected to take up the question on Monday.

Known as Lease System.

The method by which the larger companies control retail outlets is known as the lease and agency or lease and license practice, under which small and heretofore independent filling stations were bound to handle exclusively the products of one company.

The practice was made possible by the companies making the retailers their agencies, usually under a lease system, or by licensing them as sole distributors, with rebates and profits on gasolines guaranteed at set figures regardless of the prevailing retail price fluctuations.

Independent producing and distributing companies charged that through the lease and agency system, the big companies slowly were crushing them out of business by narrowing their possible retail outlets so they had no markets and that eventually this would build up a monopoly detrimental to the consumer.

Many Owned Outright.

Oil men said that of approximately 300,000 retail outlets in the country, about 175,000 were operated under the lease and agency system, with many of the other stations owned outright by the big companies.

The commission's opinion was expected to bring an immediate campaign by the independents to write a prohibition against the lease and agency practice into the oil code, with opponents of the practice busy now preparing statements for the planning committee.

They were fortified in their campaign plans by an opinion of Robert E. Healy, chief counsel of the trade commission, holding in substance that there was no doubt that the practice was illegal, broke up competition and permitted the coercion of small dealers by the big companies.

The failure of the trade commission to issue a final decision specifically holding the practice illegal was attributed by some oil leaders in private comment to a hesitancy to disturb the petroleum marketing structure at this time, with the industry in a precarious condition.

GROWERS PAID MORE THIS YEAR FOR SUGAR BEETS

Denver, Colo., Nov. 5.—(AP)—Beet growers in seven states are slated to receive $14,500,000 from two sugar companies as the first payment for their 1933 crop on Nov. 15.

W. L. Lippit, president of the Great Western Sugar company, said his firm's initial distribution probably will total $12,000,000, about $1,000,000 higher than last year. The company paid its growers a total of $13,229,612 last year and the 1933 total payments are expected to surpass that figure.

H. E. Zitkowski, general manager of the American Beet Sugar company, estimated growers in his company's territory will receive $2,500,000. This company has growers in Minnesota and Iowa, as well as in the west. Zitkowski predicted total payments will be about 10 per cent higher than those of 1932.

The harvest this year has been estimated at 3,768,000 tons compared with 2,775,000 last year. The American company's tonnage will show an increase of about 10 per cent over 1932, Zitkowski declared.

LETTERS

Wants Data on Debts.

Financial Editor: You recently gave some very interesting information in your paper under date of Sept. 20, outlining various types of mortgages existing; namely, the internal debts of the United States and who owes them.

Especially am I interested in the state and local debts, and if you are in a position to give me a subdivision of this information will greatly appreciate it.

As a read of THE TRIBUNE, I cannot help but compliment you on the splendid manner in which you present items of this kind. The conciseness of them explains to any one without going into detail the true situation, and it is to be regretted that more of the papers of the country do not go in for this sort of thing. THE TRIBUNE'S articles, however, are so outstanding and pronounced that in them a world of information is given to the public. GUY A. THOMAS.

Salesmen, Solicitors, Etc.

DO YOU LIVE IN AUBURN PARK AND nearby suburbs? A. L. G. made $70.00 here last week—P. J. S. made $71.00 and R. G. $42.00—all new men in this work without past experience in it. All they did was step out and apply what was taught them, with equipment supplied free, no outlay on their part, but a demand on their full time and earnest work. This is the most independent business in the world, requiring but a little preliminary free training, and backed by lots of real money. Not just a little business, but world-wide and able to back up all its obligations with cash. Are you interested—and in earnest? Then come from 9:30 a. m. to 1:00 p. m., Monday, Nov. 6, to Room 310 McNally Bldg., 70th and Halsted.

A FEW ESSENTIALS

of any successful direct sales plan, especially in the present type of market, are merchandise of exceptional value and appeal at give away prices, a sensible and attractive payment plan and unusually liberal compensation to the sales representative. We offer all this and more to a few men who can qualify in one of the most unique and progressive plans ever devised to beat Old Man Depression. Apply personally until noon at 833 W. 63d-st., or 3320 Lincoln-av. 1st floor. A permanent position with drawing account privileges.

Salesmen to Represent Prominent West Va. Corp.

In Chicago and vicinity; positions now open. Applicant must be willing to put forth some real effort every day in the week. Must have clean character and fair education, as well as good personality and common sense. This is a permanent position with immediate big earnings on attractive commission basis, consequently a "job hunter" cannot qualify. Prefer married man between 30 and 50 who lives in Chicago. Address E B 378, Tribune.

A GOOD SALESMAN

for supervisory work in field organization. Must have car and be experienced in working with direct salesmen in the field. Excellent opportunity for the right man. Apply 10 a.m. Monday, BUREAU VACUUM CLEANER CO., Mr. Sorenson, Rm. 772, Pure Oil Bldg., 35 E. Wacker-dr.

YOUNG MEN.

An excellent opportunity for young men living on South Side, 21-35 yrs., of neat appearance to take orders for a large public utility company; no selling experience necessary. Apply Monday, 9-11 a.m. only, Room 251, 140 S. Dearborn-st., Mr. Prussing.

NEW PLAN.

MEN!

MEN WITH OR WITHOUT PREVIOUS EXPERIENCE WHO ARE SELECTED, WILL BE TRAINED IMMEDIATELY FOR THIS SUCCESSFUL BUSINESS!

WE WILL NOW SIGN UP A FEW ADDITIONAL MEN WHO WILL UNDERTAKE A FIVE YEAR PROGRAM OF EARNINGS WITH ADDITIONAL CASH PROFIT IN SAVINGS FOR THE FIVE YEAR PERIOD OF $11,500.00.

This program of earnings and savings is something entirely new. It is a definite and practical plan for the man who wishes to cover the overhead expenses of himself and his family each week, and save a substantial additional profit. It is to such men we offer this opportunity. We prefer married men with established homes they must maintain. This is a permanent arrangement and we are looking for the man who is serious minded about his future or getting ahead in an honest, industrious manner.

This is a large national corporation manufacturing and marketing in this country a product sold all over the world with amazing success. Our product is now having been introduced on the American market in 1929. Our new American factory will some day surpass the great Electrolux factories in Sweden, Germany, England, and France. It is predicted. Tremendous opportunities to progress thus are opened to the men we select for introduction of this new Electrolux invention [not refrigeration].

We have men who have been making up to $1,000.00 a month, others $750.00, $600.00, $500.00, and $400.00.

Our business is successful, growing, and of unlimited future possibilities. Last year was the greatest in our history, and last month topped all others in results, and the reason is that our product has the widest market of any specialty ever introduced in America, and we can absolutely prove this to any fair minded man looking for opportunity.

While this is specialty sales work, yet the man selected need not have had any previous sales experience. If you have adaptability and an earnest desire to learn the business and get ahead in it, we can give you the information and teach you all the methods necessary to success quickly.

A part of the instruction is by example. To go into the field with another man for a day and see him actually make the money is the most valuable kind of instruction. In one city one of our men demonstrated the present money-making possibilities of this business to fifteen men by taking them into the field with him, one at a time. In those fifteen days those men saw him earn over $450.00. Not a single man saw him make less than $20.00 the day he was with him.

We cannot make money here unless you earn it. But if you are capable of understanding and following instructions, and if you are one who likes to practice to gain skill, and judgment in what he does, and if you are a worthy worker willing to pay a working price for success, then we recommend that you come in Monday morning for an interview. It costs nothing to try. The training is free. We will furnish full equipment with no deposit required. No expense.

We require men to be of good reputation, active, and alert. This is a straightforward offer of sincere intent to worthy men who are in need of good, substantial positions. We have tried to state the facts and requirements clearly. Please do not apply for these positions unless you feel that you can meet the requirements. Applicants will be personally interviewed by a company executive Monday morning, Nov. 6, from 9:00 a. m. to 1:00 p. m. in Room 910 Engineering Bldg., 205 W. Wacker-dr.

MEN

Successful incomes and permanent positions in business today demand a very unusual product with a new and incomparable service.

This patented new invention meets with very little resistance and is being merchandised very successfully all over the world.

MEDICAL RESEARCH for the past nine months proves conclusively that not only is there a very obvious need, but an immediate demand for this product.

S. P. in one week earned $250.32 and his total earnings for the month exceeded $800.

There is NO INVESTMENT on your part.

You establish yourself in a BUSINESS OF YOUR OWN—we pay the light, rent, heat stenographers, etc.—finance your accounts—train you—place you where the business is and settle with you weekly.

Those who are inexperienced in specialty selling must take the time necessary to learn and adapt themselves skilfully in the presentation of our product. While training you must be satisfied and prepared to get along on $35 to $50 a week.

We will place five men this week and will grant you a personal interview, laying only straight from the shoulder facts and proof of a new idea being successfully merchandised today before you. If you feel you can qualify come up and see us Monday, 9 to 12, Room 1018 Mather Tower, 75 E. Wacker-dr.
